STRIVE TO MAKE CHICAGO MECCA TO ALL PEOPLES

Work and Wages Basic, Says Mayor.

MAKE CHICAGO THE FIRST CITY IN THE WORLD

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Work and wages are first essentials in making Chicago first among world cities, remarked Mayor Edward J. Kelly yesterday. Chicago's greatest asset, he held, is its people and their spirit which has made it the greatest "human city."

The mayor was expounding some of the activities he deems necessary for Chicago to achieve its destiny. One main thing, he suggested, is to make the world Chicago conscious and to advance the city as a great place for visitors to have an enjoyable time.

This aim is back of the proposal for a permanent Chicago Fair, a convention hall with 50,000 capacity, bathing beaches for 100,000 at 12th and 23d streets, a board walk and other attractions for which the mayor is to seek 20 million dollars of public works money at Washington.

Has Extensive Program.

When the 5 billion dollar [more precisely $4,880,000,000] works relief bill is signed by President Roosevelt the mayor expects to ask the White House for more than 200 million of Public Works administration funds for improvements which would furnish work.

"Health, sanitation, and care of the children come first and foremost," said Mayor Kelly. "We've got to work for future generations and have got to straighten up the background. What Chicago needs is immediate relief and remedies. Work and wages, those are the two things on which the city is really built.

"We must stimulate our local communities, our neighborhood communities, and the small storekeeper and small industry have got to be protected. The square deal must be assured to everybody. Chicago's great heart is its prime asset. I believe we should have a great maternity hospital, for one thing, where women in poor circumstances can receive as fine attention as the rich. We should extend the tuberculosis hospital.

List of City's Requirements.

"I believe the water should be filtered. It will cost 60 millions and we are after money in Washington for a start. The water system should be rehabilitated, pressure should be built up, plumbing should be fixed up.

"Chicago needs an airport that will be readily accessible. It needs roadways to get people into the city from the outskirts. We should pave the streets, fix the sidewalks, enlarge sewers where necessary.

"We should have more policemen and firemen. A good patrolman is a wonderful influence upon the juveniles in a neighborhood. We should have more bathing beaches.

"If we can get half the government money without any paper, which I think we can, we will aid business in general in so far as we should take care of at least 100,000 on relief. This in turn will forward other industry, the machinery people, the material concerns, automobile trucks.

Urges Home Rule Here.

"Chicago, too, needs a new charter. We are a trifle over 100 years old and are out of the short pants age. Sooner or later we must have a new charter that will give us home rule. I believe in the state commerce commission, but transit lines ought to be regulated by municipal officers.

"Last but not least, Chicago has got to have a transportation system which is up to date and fares must be reasonable. We should not have perpetual franchises. The people should be protected with extensions, and we must have lighter cars, lighter rails, less noise and speedier transit.

A Place of Hospitality.

"The big thing in making the world Chicago conscious is to make it a place to come to for pleasure, hospitality and enjoyment. A convention hall which would take care of heavy industrial exhibitions would bring in $150,000,000 a year in business. With our unique transportation facilities we should make Chicago the greatest visiting center in the world.

"Chicago is original—it should not copy other cities—and in human spirit, the golden rule idea, in recreation and in business methods it cannot be touched. It is leading the other cities back to normal times and, instead of waiting for business to come, is going after it. And greatest of the essentials are work and wages."

SOUTH ILLINOIS AREA HIT BY TORNADO; ONE DEAD; LOSS $500,000

Metropolis, Ill., March 25.—[Special.]—One man was killed and another possibly fatally injured late this afternoon by a tornado which hit this town and then roared some 40 miles up the Ohio river on both the Illinois and Kentucky sides before it spent its force. Property damage was estimated at half a million dollars, with half of the loss here.

Sam Abel, garage owner, was killed, and Otis I. Holder, auto salesman, critically injured when Abel's garage here was demolished. Victor McDaniel, 14, also was seriously hurt. Seven other persons were treated for injuries in a hospital.

More than 50 buildings were either demolished or seriously damaged. The railway station was among those leveled. The agent, Harold Miller, escaped by leaping through a window as the storm struck.

In addition to hitting Brookport, where school children were cut by broken glass, and doing damage to a lesser degree in communities farther up the river, the storm ranged eastward into Kentucky. In Princeton, Powell Oldham, 21, was critically injured when a building collapsed.

Communication was disrupted and difficulty was experienced in determining the extent of the damage, particularly in the rural districts.

Earlier in the day rain and hail storms struck north central Illinois counties. Barns were uprooted and chimneys blown down.

FINDS 50 CENT SCRIPT IS WORK OF BEETHOVEN

New York, March 25.—[Special.]—A yellowed manuscript in German, for which a Yonkers second hand dealer paid 50 cents, was announced today as a hitherto unknown memento of Ludwig Beethoven, German composer.

David Schwartz said he bought the manuscript at an auction. His brother Samuel, his business partner, submitted the script to experts, and on their opinion of its genuineness Schwartz hoped it might bring "several thousand dollars."

Dr. Carleton Sprague Smith, chief of the music division of the New York public library, who examined the manuscript, put the value instead in "hundreds of dollars," saying examples of the handwriting of Beethoven are not particularly rare.

Mendelssohn Street in Dessau Changed to Bach

BERLIN, March 25.—(AP)—The name of Mendelssohn street in Dessau, where the famous Jewish composer was born, was changed today to Sebastian Bach street, after the German composer. It was the second time a street named after Mendelssohn has been renamed because of his race.

Princeton Grid Star Held for Robbery Quiz

Princeton, N. J., March 25.—[Special.]—Frank Bickerton John, Princeton senior and a star football player for the last two seasons, was arrested tonight by the New Jersey state police and held in connection with a series of campus robberies.

The 22 year old student, a native of Pottstown, Pa., was dismissed from the university this afternoon, according to rumors on the campus, and was taken into custody at once.

Dean Christian Gauss, chairman of the university discipline committee which met and passed on the evidence against John, declined to comment on the incident and said that no public announcement is ever made of the committee's decisions.

Charged with Aiding Another.

John, who has been a member of the varsity football squad for three years and has held a regular position at guard for the last two years, is charged with aiding another youth in looting Princeton dormitories. John's name entered the investigation begun by the university proctors after the arrest in New York last Saturday of Winthrop Partello, a 21 year old Manhattan youth.

Partello, who has no affiliation with the university, was charged specifically with the robbery of Princeton dormitories on Feb. 26, according to the police. Partello confessed the thefts and named John as his accomplice. He waived extradition and was brought to Princeton.

Mystery for Months.

Detectives told reporters that John and Partello were definitly linked in a series of robberies which have mystified the university for several months. Watches, jewelry, clothing and other articles have been reported missing. Most of the stolen articles, the police said, have been recovered and returned to their owners. Their total value is estimated at more than $2,000.

John and Partello are being held at the state police barracks at Wilburtha, ten miles from Princeton. They will receive a preliminary hearing Wednesday morning before Mayor Joseph S. Hoff of Princeton on charges of breaking and entering.

Planned to be Minister.

Should the defendants waive the preliminary hearing they will be booked for trial immediately in the Mercer county court in Trenton.

John was a candidate for a bachelor or arts degree and was majoring in philosophy. He was said to have selected the course with a view toward entering the ministry after his graduation. During his undergraduate years he had been a partially self-supporting student and was connected with the bureau of student employment.

GIRL CREDITED WITH POWER TO HEAL SICK DIES IN CABIN HOME

OTTAWA, March 25.—(AP)—Scores of persons crowded the little cabin home today of 19 year old Marie Anne Gravelle to talk of the "miracles" she is credited by neighbors with performing in the two weeks preceding her death last night.

On the wall above the casket were two crutches and a cane left by a man and a woman who claim to have been cured of deformities resulting from illness. Several other residents of the district, eight miles east of Ottawa, said they were cured of physical disorders by Marie's prayers.

Miss Gravelle, in ill health for the last four years, was ordered to bed a month ago. Then, neighbors said, manifestations of her powers of healing appeared.

HALIFAX, N. S., March 26 [Tuesday].—(AP)—The 5,858 ton Belgian steamship Jean Jabot, which assisted in rescuing survivors of the ill-fated Usworth last December, was in distress early today 450 miles east of Halifax.

"Rudder broken, require assistance; no immediate danger," the freighter reported in a message received by Canada's east coast radio service.

Gallipolis, O., March 25.—(AP)—John Delilley, the small son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Delilley, found out about lightning today. FOUND GUILTY IN SLAYING OF FEDERAL AGENT

John Paul Chase, confederate of the late "Baby Face" Nelson, was found guilty last night of the murder of Inspector Samuel P. Cowley of the department of justice by a jury in the court of Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan. By recommending mercy in their verdict the jurors automatically fixed Chase's punishment at life imprisonment in a federal penitentiary.

The verdict crowned with success the government's first prosecution under the statute passed by congress on May 18, 1934, which gives federal courts jurisdiction in cases where government agents are killed in the performance of their duty. The trial of Chase also marked the first murder prosecution by the government in Chicago since 1893.

Three Slain in Battle.

Cowley and Herman Hollis, a special department of justice agent, were slain, and Nelson, then hunted as Public Enemy No. 1, was mortally wounded in a gun battle on the Northwest highway at Barrington last Nov. 27.

Chase is also under indictment for the murder of Hollis. When questioned as to whether this indictment would be pressed to trial, Brien McMahon, a special assistant to the United States attorney general who helped prosecute Chase on the Cowley murder charge, said: "That's up to the attorney general in Washington."

Last night's verdict was returned by the jury after slightly less than four hours of deliberation. The case was given to the jurors at 4:17 p. m.

Jurors Ask More Instructions.

Shortly before 6 o'clock they sent a note to Judge Sullivan asking for further instructions. The judge refused the request and the jurors then went out to dinner. Returning at 7:30 p. m., they renewed their debate and at five minutes to 8 there came an indication that a verdict was near.

The jurors again asked for more information, specifying that they wanted to know whether a life imprisonment sentence would mean that Chase would "be incarcerated for the whole of his natural life." The jury and the defendant were brought into court and Judge Sullivan explained that Chase would pass out of his jurisdiction after he had been sentenced and would then be under the jurisdiction of the federal parole board and the President of the United States.

The jurors retired again and at five minutes after 8 announced they had reached a verdict. They came back into court.

Chase Retains His Calm.

Chase, who is 33 years old and a former California bootlegger, sat watching them with the same stolcal calm he displayed throughout the trial.

The jury foreman, George M. Hayes, who is a sales manager residing in Harvey, handed the verdict to the court clerk, who read it: "Guilty without capital punishment." This meant life imprisonment. If the verdict had read only "guilty" the death penalty by hanging would have been mandatory.

Attorney W. W. O'Brien, chief of defense counsel, hurried forward and made a motion for a new trial. Judge Sullivan informed him that the United States Supreme court has ruled that such a motion must be argued within three days and set the hearing for Thursday at 10:30 a. m. If the motion is overruled Chase will be remanded immediately to the custody of the United States marshal.

Appeal if Necessary, O'Brien Says.

"I believe firmly in my client and will make a sincere appeal for him if the new trial motion is denied," Attorney O'Brien said.

"Of course, I'm disappointed," he added a few minutes later.

McMahon and United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green expressed satisfaction with the verdict. Mr. Green said that although the parole board can release Chase at any time or he can be pardoned by the President, these eventualities are unlikely.

As Chase was led away by deputy marshals to be locked up in the county jail he was still unperturbed.

"Can you take it?" some one asked him.

Widow of Hollis Weeps.

Mrs. Hollis, widow of the slain special agent, wept when the verdict was brought in, but would make no comment. Mrs. Cowley never appeared in court during the trial.

The jurors departed hurriedly after they had been discharged. They refused to give out any information as

Howe Better; Roosevelt Will Fish in South

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 25.—[Special.]—Assured by medical experts that the crisis in Secretary Louis McHenry Howe's illness has passed, President Roosevelt left Washington at 11 o'clock tonight for a fishing cruise in Florida waters. Unless Col. Howe suffers a relapse, the President will not return to the White House until about April 13.

The decision to take the vacation, which had been scheduled to begin last Saturday but was delayed by Howe's illness, was announced at the White House after four navy doctors, specialists on lung and heart diseases, held a consultation over the 64 year old aid. The consultation was called by Dr. Ross T. McIntire, personal physician to the President, who has been attending Howe.

May Gain for Weeks.

The doctors reported that, while entire recovery of Howe is not to be expected, he may continue to show improvement for several days and possibly several weeks. The consultants were G. C. Thomas, Luther Sheldon, W. H. Hargrave, and Robert C. Duncan.

Following his announcement the President called Senate Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson into a conference on the administration legislative program. Senator Robinson advised him that as far as congress is concerned the next two weeks would be the best time to make the cruise.

"We discussed many subjects," Robinson said after the conference, "particularly in relation to legislation. It was felt that no particular measure is in the class requiring immediate action. A number of subjects are entitled to consideration and it is expected that as many as practicable will be disposed of at the present session.

Security Program Up.

"Those subjects include social security as it relates to both old age pensions and unemployment insurance; a measure pertaining to utility holding companies, increased capital for the Home Owners' Loan corporation and extension of the NRA.

"The President has indicated his desire that in due course there shall be transportation legislation covering shipping, aviation, buses and railroads. It cannot be determined now whether this legislation can be completed at the present session. The President also expressed a desire to have pure food and drug legislation brought forward at this session."

The Presidential special will carry Mr. Roosevelt to Jacksonville, Fla., tomorrow. There he will board the destroyer Farragut. The yacht Nourmahal, owned by Vincent Astor, will keep close by and the President will transfer to it when he is in the mood for fishing.

Will Stay Close to Shore.

The President plans to keep within two hours of the Florida coast at all times in the event of a sudden relapse in Howe's condition. It is expected he will return to Washington in such an event.

On the Nourmahal, in addition to Astor, will be the same small group of friends who have made up the former fishing and cruising parties. They will be Kermit Roosevelt, Dr. Leslie Heiter of Mobile, Ala., George St. George of Tuxedo, N. Y., Rhinelander Stewart of New York and Judge Kernochan of New York.

HITLER DEMANDS EUROPE BACK UP HIS PLAN TO ARM

Says Germany Holds Off Red Menace.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 25.—Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, and one of Great Britain's greatest lawyers, is arguing the hardest case of his life in Berlin. Tonight the issue of the meeting between England's peace envoys and Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler hangs in the balance.

Will the Nazi dictator agree either to return to the league of nations or, in some other way, join the European peace club, or will he continue to act alone with every one's hand against him in a policy which may lead to war?

Optimism Prevails.

So far the indications, if any, after a day of intensive work, are rather encouraging than otherwise. That is, as far as can be learned in the face of the most complete shutdown on news known in recent conferences. Consequently, the air is full of rumors.

This much, however, can be said positively. Hitler told the British that under no circumstances will Germany accept the eastern security pact as drawn up, and gave his reasons.

"I will not engage my nation in a military way with other nations," he was quoted as saying.

As the proposed eastern security pact is the keystone of French policy Simon is going to have a hard task to reconcile the French and German viewpoints, but it is believed that at last Britain is determined to go her own way in diplomacy and refuse to follow the French band wagon.

Seeks Recognition of Equality.

Hitler was understood to have indicated that he still supported the western Locarno pact, and that Germany will consider returning to the league on the basis of immediate and unrestricted recognition of her equality.

As an indication of the importance attached to the conversations, Hitler cut through all diplomatic red tape. Instead of meeting Baron Konstantin von Neurath, German foreign minister, for a preliminary talk, as arranged, Simon and Capt. Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal, were summoned to the chancellor's palace, where they were received by Hitler personally.

Six persons participated in the conversations. On Hitler's side of the table sat Von Neurath and Joachim von Ribbentrop, Hitler's personal expert on disarmament. Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador to London, accompanied Simon and Eden.

Points to Bolshevik Peril.

After welcoming the British envoys Hitler, it was disclosed, delivered a monologue on the situation in eastern Europe. He spoke for nearly two hours. The fuehrer pointed out that Nazi Germany is the only bulwark of Europe against Russian bolshevism and that it is the duty of civilized nations to support her and agree to her arming sufficiently to resist that peril.

Memel, the mandated territory in Lithuania which was placed under the league's control after the world war, was mentioned in the course of the monologue. Hitler declared the territory was "a rib torn from Germany's" side and must be returned.

This speech was followed by free discussions back and forth. The morning session ended with the British asking the Germans that, in the event they could not accept the French form of the proposed eastern pact, they draw up a form of treaty which would satisfy them and submit it. This is now being done.

At noon the British visitors were luncheon guests of Von Neurath. Shortly after 1 o'clock the talks were resumed without pause until 7 o'clock.

Press Gets Meager Statement.

The Britons returned to their embassy where were assembled 200 foreign newspaper correspondents. Simon announced he was too tired to see the press and issued a meager communique which said:

"Conversations took place this morning and this afternoon on some points mentioned in the Anglo-French communique of Feb. 3. These conversations will be resumed tomorrow.

The brevity of the statement drew a burst of ironic laughter from the newspaper men. It was the sole official communication. The Germans issued none whatever.

If the eastern security pact does not continue to hold the field of discussion tomorrow, the subjects will be armaments and the proposed military air pact between Germany, Britain, France, and Italy. Neither of these subjects seems at present to be an insuperable obstacle. Germany already has signified her willingness to enter into an air agreement. On the question of rearmament it was learned from an authoritative source that she is open to argument and bargain.

Bargaining Points Listed.

For technical reasons the figure of 36 divisions, which Hitler has fixed for his new conscript army is unalterable, but, as a German authority said, "What is a division?" In other words, it may consist of any number of men from 5,000 to 15,000 or more and there is a big chance for bargaining here. The nature of the divisions was also left open. How many artillery divisions will there be and with what guns will they be armed? How many divisions will be infantry? How long shall the term of conscript service last?

Germany can save her face before her own citizens and at the same time make large concessions to the demand for reduction of armaments provided—and only provided—she gets something substantial in return.

Reports now leaking out regarding the visit of Eden to Paris last Saturday indicate he had a hard task convincing the French that some concessions must be made, and that Germany's equality must be recognized without reservations.

Promise Not to Rock Boat.

In the end he succeeded in getting the promise that they would not rock the boat while the conversations were going on.

The British visitors were guests tonight at an official banquet given by Von Neurath. Eighty persons were present. At one table sat Von Neurath, Lady Phipps, wife of the British ambassador; Hitler, Frau Rudolph Hess, wife of the Nazi minister; Frau Joseph Goebbels, wife of the propaganda minister; Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, so-called philosophic dictator of Germany; Sir Eric Phipps; Heinrich Himmler, chief of the secret police; Gen. Werner von Blomberg, defense minister; Gen. Werner von Fritsch, army chief of staf; Dr. Hjalmar Scacht, economic dictator and head of the Reichsbank; Dr. Otto Meissner, secretary of state; Admiral Erich Raeder, chief of the admiralty; Simon and Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, air minister and premier of Prussia.

I. M. Maisky, soviet ambassador to London, will arrive in Berlin at noon tomorrow to accompany Capt. Eden to Moscow tomorrow night. It was reported tonight that the British may have to stay a day longer to complete the conversations, particularly if the German draft of an eastern pact should show possibilities of being adapted to Anglo-French views.

Asks "What Is Interference?"

LONDON, March 26 [Tuesday].—(AP)—The Daily Mail's Berlin correspondent reported today that in his conference with Sir John Simon, Adolf Hitler had charged Italy with financing the Austrian Heimwehr [Fascist home-guard] and had demanded that Great Britain and France "tell me exactly what you mean by 'interference'" with Austria.

"If Italy pays large subventions to keep up the Austrian Heimwehr, that is apparently regarded as being no interference with the internal affairs of Austria," der Fuehrer was quoted as saying.

"If on the other hand I relieve the distress of members of the Austrian Nazi party who are opposed by the government in power, that is at once denounced as unjustifiable interference," Hitler was quoted as remarking.

League Council Meets April 15.

GENEVA, March 25.—(AP)—League of nations circles were heartened tonight by Berlin reports that Germany seems to be showing a disposition to enter into a collective European peace system.

The opinion of Geneva is that the outcome of the talks between the Germans and British will greatly affect the tenor of a special session of the council of the league, officially convoked today for April 15 to consider France's appeal against the reich's rearmament.

Italy, it is known, is as keen as France for a special session.

While Japan officially leaves the league tomorrow, having given notice two years ago, reliable information indicates she is adopting a hands-off policy concerning German rearmament. She is especially interested in the attitude of Russia upon the whole problem.

FRENCH DEPUTIES VOTE TO BUILD NEW BATTLESHIP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 25.—A strong defense of the capital ship against the champions of more "modern arms" such as military planes was delivered today by François Pietri, minister of navy, as the chamber of deputies by a majority of 453 to 125 approved the 1935 naval program.

The program includes a 35,000 ton battleship along with two destroyers. While nearly the whole chamber is agreed as to the necessity of strengthening France's navy in view of the troubled international situation, some criticism was directed at the choice of the capital ship instead of expanded, modernized naval aviation.

"It is an absurd legend that naval circles are blind to the possibilities of aviation," Pietri declared. "But it must not be believed that the airplane can ever replace the battleship. To try to get along without capital ships at this moment would be exactly like trying to do without infantry in land warfare."

Later the chamber by a vote of 453 to 11 approved a defense law which gives the government power to decide what measures it should take for the protection of the civilian population in case of war. Chemical aspects of a future conflict, the need of gasproof shelters, and the necessity for speedy evacuation from danger areas were discussed.

Bandit Robs 3 North Side Stores with Pistol Ruse

Raiding three north side stores in rapid succession yesterday, a robber who subdued his victims by keeping a hand in his pocket as though he held a gun, obtained $26.80. In the Dutch Mill candy store, 1937 Lawrence avenue, Miss Dorothy Mack surrendered $6. James Lindahl was robbed of $12 in his meat market at 2630 Florence avenue, and Miss Winifred Lannen, clerk in a Fannie May candy store at 4812 Broadway, gave up $5.80.

Italy Expels Nazi Writer for Anti-Italian Article

ROME, March 25.—(AP)—Paul Ullmann, a German newspaper correspondent, was ordered exiled from Italy today for having written anti-Italian articles. He was the second German correspondent to be expelled this month.

LITTLE ENTENTE OPPOSES PLAN TO REARM AUSTRIA

Report It Has Split with Italy on Question.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, March 25.—(AP)—After lengthy discussions between Nicholas Titulescu, foreign minister of Rumania, and Bogulyub Yevtitch, foreign minister of Jugo-Slavia, reports spread through government circles today that Italy had divided with some degree of sharpness from the little entente—Jugo-Slavia, Czechoslovakia, and Rumania—on the question of Austrian rearmament.

There were no confirmations of these reports nor was there a single word forthcoming from the statesmen whose deliberations had lasted far into the night.

It was unofficially reported that Italy was favorable to the establishment of compulsory military service in Austria so that nation would be in a position to defend itself against a possible German thrust to the southward.

Ready to Resist Rearmament.

The little entente, on the other hand, was represented as firmly opposed to this suggestion. It was said that the entente feared the arming of Austria would prove an entering wedge which would lead inevitably to the rearming of Hungary and Bulgaria.

The little entente was represented as prepared to resist Bulgarian and Hungarian rearmament with the sternest measures.

The utmost importance was attached to the present conversations here as Titulescu is speaking as president of both the little entente and the Balkan pact states—the latter composed of Turkey and Greece as well as Jugo-Slavia and Rumania.

Bares Austrian Army Demand.

VIENNA, March 25.—(AP)—Austria wants an army big enough "of its own might" to command respect for her national freedom, Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg told a meeting of 30,000 members of the fatherland front tonight.

The government calls on volunteers to arouse the people to a consciousness of their military duty and strives for the equality of the Austrian people, he said, but this is not be interpreted as an imperialistic aspiration.

In connection with the story of an enlarged Austrian army, a foreign office spokesman said that should Austria seek an increase through a mutual agreement with treaty signatories there would be "no question of any such figure as 100,000."

"The present strength," he said, "is 30,000 and finance considerations alone would hold Austria's aspirations to a very moderate increase."

The rumors of a coup d'état possibly arose from the latest flareup of rivalry between the Fascist Heimwehr and the Catholic Storm Troops elements—rivalry which long has been chronic. Harmony, it was said has been restored.

Denies Hungary Will Arm.

BUDAPEST, Germany, March 25.—(AP)—Premier Goemboes cleared the atmosphere of many rumors today by stating positively Hungary will not attempt rearmament against the wishes of her neighbors.

"Germany, receiving no response to her plea of equality for armaments, seized it," Goemboes said in a parliamentary campaign address. "We shall not follow Germany in this course.

"Inasmuch as we are a member of the league we will repeat a plea for armaments equality there, with the hope that with the help of our Italian and other friends we will reach our goal."

ETHIOPIAN KILLED IN BORDER CLASH WITH ITALIANS

ROME, March 25.—(AP)—A pitched battle between Ethiopian and Italian troops on the frontier of Eritrea was described today in a government communique. The action took place during the night of March 23, the announcement said. One Ethiopian was killed and several were wounded.

News of the new incident in the strained Italo-Ethiopian relations was published shortly after Negradas Yesus, Ethiopian minister, gave out a communique from Addis Ababa announcing Ethiopian troops are no longer concentrated along the borders of Italy's colonies in East Africa.

The clash of March 23 was the first to occur on the Eritrean frontier since the present tension, the others having been near the undefined frontier of Italian Somaliland. The Italian communique said a band of armed Ethiopians 300 meters inside the Italian border near Omager fired on an Italian patrol when ordered to withdraw behind their own frontier. The Italians returned the fire and after a brisk skirmish the Ethiopians fled, it was announced. Premier Mussolini has sent thousands of troops and stores of war materials to East Africa in recent weeks.

VERSAILLES PACT STILL IN FORCE, MacDONALD SAYS

LONDON, March 25.—(AP)—Answering a question in the house of commons today Prime Minister MacDonald said that so far as he was aware the military clauses of the Versailles treaty are the only part of the pact affected by Germany's arms decision.

"The treaty does not provide for denunciation by the signatories," MacDonald said, adding that the questioning member of the house was "under a misapprehension in supposing that any action taken unilaterally by Germany or any other government could have the effect of denouncing the treaty in the usually accepted sense of the term.

"The German decision of March 16, relative to the introduction of conscription and the constitution of the German army, indicated, no doubt, an intention on the part of the German government not to observe certain military clauses of the treaty. No other clauses of the treaty are, so far as I am aware, affected by the German action."

BALTIC NATIONS FEAR REDS AIM TO SMASH GERMANY

See Peril in Eastern Military Alliance.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, March 25.—The Baltic states are intensely interested in the approaching visit of Capt. Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal, to Moscow. This statement was made today by Charles Ozols, who was Latvian minister to Moscow for six years and who is recognized as an authority on bolshevik affairs.

Ozols said the Baltic states would welcome the realization of a general pact guaranteeing European peace, but he believes that Moscow's present policy is directed to unite Europe against Germany.

Fears German Defeat.

"Should Moscow's policy succeed and a clash develop which would defeat Germany, it is clear that the communist movement would develop there, as happened twelve years ago," said the Latvian diplomat.

"Through destroying one extremist movement Europe would strengthen another, for the immediate result would be an alliance between soviet Russia and soviet Germany, which would be still a worse danger for Europe.

"Bolshevism has never yet abandoned a plan to make a world revolution, and we Baltic states especially are aware of this fact because our police continually are arresting agents for the Communist Internationale who are sent illegally through our frontiers to stir up rebellions. The Baltic states have experienced bolshevism and know its terrors. Although we have as great a dislike for communist theories as for some of the theories of national Socialism, still we believe Moscow's sole reason for wanting an alliance with France is to overthrow the present government of Germany in order, afterward, to make Germany her ally against the rest of Europe.

Says Reds Fear Hitler.

"Germany is the first country openly to fight and liquidate communism within her frontiers and bolshevism is afraid of Hitlerism.

"The Baltic states' common policy has been to remain neutral and avoid joining any combination directed against any country. While we hope the visit of Capt. Eden to Moscow will result in a general European peace pact we will persist in refusing to join any combination of states directed against another. The fact that bolshevism is now siding with capitalism against Hitlerism is a paradox and is causing anxiety here."

ECONOMIC CRISIS IN GERMANY GROWING, LONDON PAPER SAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 25.—A new crisis is rapidly approaching in Germany, according to today's Financial News.

"After two years of the National Socialist régime, Germany's foreign credit is completely destroyed," says the newspaper. "Imports must be paid for in cash, but on imports depends the present level of employment in Germany, which would collapse if it were no longer financed by the government. Only deflation could increase exports and thus secure essential raw materials. But deflation is abhorrent to the Hitler government.

"The economic position is, therefore, reaching its most critical stage. Devaluation may for a time bring some relief, but the process will have to be repealed unless the credit policy within Germany is reversed. When that time comes the whole credit structure will have to face the problem of how to deal with the accumulated government debt. It is a gloomy outlook indeed."

URGE TEACHERS TO BATTLE FOR OWN "SECURITY"

Approximately 1,000 members of the Illinois State Teachers' association met at the association headquarters to hear the report of Robert C. Moore, executive secretary, on legislation. Mrs. Laura H. Lunde, educational chairman of the League of Women Voters, and Mrs. Florence Curtis Hanson, official of the American Federation of Teachers, also were on the program.

Mr. Moore told the teachers that they should fight for the security of the educational system and oppose the residence bill and the loyalty oath proposals pending in the Illinois assembly. The residence bill requires that the teachers reside in their school district and the loyalty oath provides that all teachers take the constitutional oath of loyalty.

Mrs. Hanson said it is unjust to segregate teachers as a class and for public officials to set up standards for the teachers. She said that absolutism in government and industry is in back of the program to force teachers to take the oath of loyalty.

"Flying Duchess" Lands in Algeria; Plans Desert Hop

LONDON, March 25.—(AP)—Anxiety regarding the whereabouts of England's "flying duchess," the 69 year old wife of the duke of Bedford, was relieved today as word was received at her home in Woburn Abbey that she had arrived safely at Oran, Algeria, Saturday. The duchess reported she planned to fly across the Sahara desert to Nigeria and then to Khartum. She left here five days ago.

SPAGHETTI AND BACKBONES STIR UP COUNTY BOARD

Lady Members Glare and Say Harsh Words.

Two big moments provided separate climaxes yesterday morning when that big happy family, the Cook county commissioners, gathered to conduct their regular committee meetings.

Shouts and table poundings, coupled with screams from two of the women commissioners, marked stages in the proceedings. The din rose to its highest pitch early in the meeting. This was at a time when the group, meeting as the public service committee, began to consider bids made by half a dozen dairymen for contracts to supply milk for the county jail and the juvenile home during the next three months.

Low Bidder Shuns NRA.

The lowest bidder was the Boyda Dairy company, which offered to deliver milk at 25½ cents a gallon. A representative of the local NRA headquarters, however, informed the commissioners that the company does not comply with code regulations.

Commissioner Mary McEnerney, a Democrat, immediately protested against awarding the bid to that company. She introduced a motion to have NRA officials determine which of the bidders abide by code regulations. During her speech she grew vehement, jumped on her chair and then kneeled on the table.

"Hey, Mary, it's bad luck to get on the table," Commissioner Maurice Kavanagh, committee chairman, interrupted her. Mary climbed down.

Motion Lost on Tie Vote.

Despite her "campaigning," the motion was tabled because the vote was tied, 5 to 5, with several of the commissioners passing their votes when the roll was called. Among those who voted against the motion was Commissioner Lucy Palermo, also a Democrat, and a new member of the board.

While the commissioners were passing a resolution to award the milk contracts to the Boyda company, Miss McEnerney leaned across the table to Mrs. Palermo and made a remark under her breath. Only one word was distinguishable amid the noise of the balloting. That word was "spaghetti."

Mrs. Palermo, who headed a group of Italian-American women voters during the November electioneering last year, was hurt. She began to pound the table herself. Glaring at Miss McEnerney she shouted:

"That kind of thing is uncalled for. It isn't fair. Don't bring up spaghetti to me. I'll vote the way I want to. Nobody's going to tell me how, either."

Spaghetti and Backbones.

Unabashed, Miss McEnerney bounced to her feet and in a booming voice replied:

"I like spaghetti myself, with cheese. But what I said to you was that we have a bunch of commissioners on the board who have no more backbone than a mess of cooked spaghetti. I don't know anything wrigiier and the commissioners don't know their own minds."

Commissioner Kavanaugh soothed the storm which followed by threatening: "I'll have you all put out of here if you don't shut up."

Then followed ten minutes of comparative quiet until the committee began to consider bids submitted by James Levy, head of the automobile sales company which bears his name, and by Emil Denemark, owner of another motor sales concern. Both men were seeking contracts to sell the county four automobiles for the staf of Sherif Toman.

Argument by Mr. Levy.

Both Levy and Denemark had submitted alternate bids, but Levy's price was lower in each case. Denemark then urged that one good reason for purchasing his cars "is the fact that Edward Denemark, Sherif Toman's first assistant, is my cousin."

Levy joined in the laughter. Then he arose.

"Denemark," said he, "telephoned me the other day telling me the same thing. I told him to go to hell because my brother is Gov. Horner."

Several of the Republican commissioners snickered as William N. Erickson [Rep.] of Evanston interjected: "And we know he takes care of you."

It has been no secret that Levy and Gov. Horner are blood brothers. Their parents separated when both boys were small. Mrs. Levy returned to her family, resumed the family name, and the governor, who remained with his mother, also took her family name. His brother remained with their father and retained the paternal name.

The matter was settled temporarily through the appointment of a committee to inquire into the automobile bids during the next week.

At a board meeting yesterday afternoon the commissioners voted to award $3,375 each to former Commissioners Amelia Sears and Marie Plumb and to Miss McEnerney. The sums represent the voluntary 15 per cent pay cuts the women took for the years 1932, 1933, and 1934.

SHOT IN ROW FATAL.

Isadore Harris, colored, 29 years old, 2902 South State street, died yesterday in the Bridewell hospital of wounds received last Wednesday when he was shot by Alfred Burks, 35 years old, 2951 Federal street, in a quarrel in Burks' home. Burks is held.

Chicago officialdom moved with silent determination yesterday in a major offensive against organized crime as an answer to the unsuccessful attempt of gunmen to kill State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney early Sunday.

While developments on the surface were few, the word went out that "the heat" was on, and men with shady pasts were reported to be scuttling for cover for fear of what might happen.

Courtney himself, undaunted by his experience, was at his office early yesterday meeting with other law enforcement heads and receiving congratulations that poured in by telephone, telegraph, messenger and mail from all parts of the country.

Searches Through All Gangs.

"We have some very definite ideas," Courtney said grimly in reply to questions as to his plans. "We're missing nothing. Our investigation involves the Touhy gang and remnants of other gangs. We want the men who actually made the attempt, but more than that we want those who hired them."

Over the protests of Courtney, Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator for the state's attorney, doubled the guard over his superior and ordered that the prosecutor's automobile be equipped with bullet proof glass.

This last precaution, it was pointed out, would safeguard Courtney if the bold move to assassinate him were repeated. The attack was the first direct attempt against the life of a state's attorney in Cook county's history.

Four Escape Eight Bullets.

The assassins fired on Courtney's automobile as he and Ald. Harry E. Perry [18th] were on their way home. In Normal boulevard between 70th and 71st streets the gunmen drove their automobile alongside Courtney's and fired eight shots. Although five of the bullets damaged the automobile, none struck Courtney or Perry in the rear seat or Detectives John Cronin and James McInerney, who rode in front.

Capt. Gilbert announced yesterday that he had detailed two "straight shooting" policemen as an extra guard for Courtney. These are Sergt. Frank Reynolds, reputed to be the best shot among policemen, who has been victorious in numerous death battles with criminals, and Sergt. Harry O'Connell. Fully armed at all times, these two policemen will follow Courtney's automobile in a second car.

Intensify War on Crime.

Yesterday's warlike preparations by the police bore out earlier declarations that the attack on the state's attorney, instead of "cooling off" the sustained drive against lawbreakers, would only intensify it. To Courtney's promise to this effect were added those of Mayor Kelly, Police Commissioner Allman and Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan.

One of the police characters arrested for questioning yesterday was Edward [Spike] O'Donnell. He was seized at Randolph and Dearborn streets by Policemen Joseph Healy and Patrick McNamara of the state's attorney's police and was held at the detective bureau.

"Will I catch it at home!" O'Donnell wailed. "My wife told me not to go downtown today because the 'heat' is on. I laughed at her, and now look at me. Well, I suppose I'd better get ready for the boys from the press. They'll be down in a drove." Several hours after his arrest O'Donnell was still waiting for "the boys from the press."

The Teamster Situation.

The search for a motive for the Courtney attack became all-inclusive. It centered logically, however, among those whose control of the lucrative cartage and hauling industries was shattered a year ago by Courtney's aid. At the time a score of these unions, previously affiliated with the notorious "T. N. T." the Trucking and Transportation exchange, were induced to break away and join with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, which is a unit of the American Federation of Labor. After that merger the unrecognized or "outlaw" unions' membership shrank from a high of about 20,000 to an estimated present membership of well under 4,000.

The recent strike of the Coal Teamsters' union, an outlaw group, which was marked by six shootings, failed dismally through the efforts of Courtney and Gilbert.

JAPANESE DIET, ENDS WITH ONLY BUDGET PASSED

TOKIO, March 26.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—A brief ceremony in the house of peers concluded the 1934-'35 session of the diet today with a dozen bills, embodying some of the government's most vital domestic policies, on the shelf.

The only major legislation was the passage of the budget including record appropriations for military purposes.

Facing hostile majorities in both houses, the government permitted the adjustment until the statutory date, making no attempt for an extension in which to press its measures. Political writers interpreted this as evidence of the shakiness of the cabinet, and some predicted a change within two or three months.

NATHAN BORIN'S WIFE SUES HIM FOR SUPPORT

Mrs. Claire Burman Borin, 200 East Chestnut street, filed a separate maintenance suit yesterday in Superior court against Nathan Borin, head of the Borin Art Products company. Last week in Los Angeles Borin sued E. M. Asher, motion picture producer, for $500,000 damages. He charged Asher alienated Mrs. Borin's affections.

In her bill filed by the firm of Socrates, Davis & Cohen, Mrs. Borin charges cruelty and states that she was forced to leave her husband in November, 1934, a year after they married at Agua Caliente, Mexico.

Mrs. Borin asserts in her suit that on last March 8 her husband visited her while she was living with her mother in Los Angeles and attempted to induce her to return and live with him. When she refused, she alleges Borin threatened to file the alienation suit against Asher, whom she terms a "casual acquaintance."

JURY TO CONDUCT SPECIAL QUIZ ON INN FIRE DEATHS

Campaign Is Launched to Close All Traps.

Within the next few days the grand jury will be asked to determine if possible the cause of the blaze and fix responsibility for the tragic fire early Sunday in the Club Rendezvous in Morton Grove, which took the lives of two young women and four men and left a score more seriously injured.

ERICH TISHMAN.

ALBERT BUNTON.

This announcement was made yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney Marshall V. Kearney after a day spent in questioning eye witnesses and survivors of the holocaust. Developments during the day also brought joint action by state, county, city, and village authorities in a concerted move to make impossible the recurrence of such a fire.

Progress of Investigation.

The high points of the investigation included:

1. Adoption by the county board of a resolution ordering the cancelation of the county liquor license of any tavern in which fire hazards are found.

2. Arrangements made for inspection by county highway policemen of all drinking establishments to eliminate such fire hazards as inflammable drapes, and to report immediately any obvious fire traps.

3. It was determined that there are three possibilities as to the cause of the fire: Deliberate incendiarism, a cigaret dropped against the inflammable drapes, or defective wiring in connection with a gas heater operated by an electric thermostat.

4. Coroner Frank J. Walsh continued until April 8 the inquest into the deaths of the six victims to allow more time for investigation. Routine testimony on the case histories of the victims was taken.

5. Chief Deputy State Fire Marshal Frank E. Doherty Jr. examined several eye witnesses. Mayor Herbert Dilg of Morton Grove, who assisted him, stated that the "bottom of the investigation has by no means been reached."

Firetrap Uninsured.

Testimony of Elmer E. Cowdrey, owner of the Club Rendezvous, revealed at the inquest and the later inquiry conducted by Deputy Doherty that he carried no insurance on the roadhouse. He admitted that his home at 8256 Mascoutin avenue, Morton Grove, had been insured for $10,500 when it burned following an explosion in 1932. Cowdrey collected $3,500 at that time.

In the first marshal's investigation, Assistant Fire Chief Peter Scheutz of Morton Grove, told of arriving at the roadhouse with the members of his volunteer fire department. The Niles Center department arrived a few minutes later.

"We had the blaze out in fifteen minutes," said Scheutz, "but the conditions we found on our arrival were outrageous. By that time the whole interior was gutted. The sateen drapes, which contain cellulose, must have gone up in a few minutes. If they had only been treated with alum as they should have been, they would have been fireproof."

Another statement which drew the attention of Marshal Doherty and the other investigators was that made to them by a state highway policeman, whose name was withheld. This policeman said he arrived a few minutes after the fire had gained headway and saw a man clad in a white apron rush out the rear door. This man, whom he identified as Cowdrey, remarked: "They got me."

No Enemies, Cowdrey Insists.

Cowdrey when questioned said he did not recall making this assertion, but that if he did, he probably referred to the flames. He denied having any enemies, or being involved in any dispute with labor union business agents or beer and liquor distributors.

"Only once did gangsters visit my place, and that was shortly after I opened about two years ago," he said. "It was the Touhy mob, and they said they would deliver three barrels of beer, but they got involved almost immediately in the Factor kidnaping."

In 1932, Cowdrey related, he was fined $5,000 for evading payment of taxes on gasoline he and his partner, Howard E. Adams, sold from three stations. An appeal is pending, Cowdrey said. Adams never was brought to trial.

Marshal Doherty asserted that one of the main points of the investigation would be to determine if village officials had been lax in enforcing the state fire code, or if Cowdrey had operated in deliberate violation of its rigid provisions.

John Kollar, the village fire marshal, according to the investigators, had never made an inspection of the premises. But a card in the files of Mayor Dilg bore the notation: "Inspected Jan. 12, 1935, by H. E. Smith of the National Inspection company." Doherty said he planned to quiz Smith.

Check Inadequate Exits.

In the matter of building inspection, an examination of the premises revealed that the rear exit door of which the public had no knowledge was one foot ten inches wide, and the door leading from the dance floor to the outer vestibule [opening inward] was only two feet seven inches wide.

It was in this latter narrow entry way, near the cloak room, that the frenzied merrymakers jammed against the inward opening exit door and where the six victims died. Descriptions of this scene of terror were given at the investigation by a party of Northwestern university students, the waiter, the bartender, Albert Bunton, and other survivors.

According to the students and Erich Tishman, the waiter, the flames were first noticed near the women's washroom near an archway by which patrons made their way from the dance floor to the barroom on a slightly higher level. The gas heater is suspended from the ceiling a short distance away.

Tells of Seeing Friend Die.

One of the graphic acounts of the scenes of terror enacted as the trapped dancers fought to get out of the club was given at the inquiry by Lionel Leighte, 7413 Rogers avenue, who told of seeing his friend, Robert R. Wolfe, 22 years old, 1513 Hood street, burn to death.

"I got outside through a washroom window, and ran around to the front door," related Leighte. "Some one had torn the outer storm door off its hinges, and I could see Wolfe behind the club door, which opened inward. People were jammed against it. The fire was all about his head. His hands were sticking through the broken glass of the door, and I could hear him screaming to be saved. I couldn't get to him. Somebody grabbed me."

The other five victims were: James John Hronek, owner of a beauty shop at 1434 Morse avenue; Frederick Robert Anderson, 21 years old, of Eau Claire, Wis., a Northwestern university junior; Jack Cocker, 22 years old, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., also a student; Miss Helen Johnson, 22 years old, 835 Cass street, Milwaukee, Wis., and Miss Ruth Arline Pearsall, 22 years old, 8023 North Kilpatrick avenue, Niles Center, the cloak room girl, who also used the name of Harvey.

Offers to Guide Truck Driver; Dies as Train Hits Machine

Tony Barczyk, 40 years old, 4716 Cameron avenue, Hammond, was killed and Dominick Sansoni, 45 years old, 4536 Wallace street, Chicago, was critically injured yesterday afternoon when the truck on which they were riding was struck by a freight train of the Indiana Harbor Belt railroad at the state line crossing in Calumet City. The crossing is unprotected by either a watchman or gates, the police said.

Sansoni, employed by the Weber Motor Service, stopped Barczyk in Hammond and asked for street directions. Barczyk volunteered to show him the way and climbed into the seat beside the driver. The accident occurred a few minutes later.

Trafic Toll Reaches 210.

This death and one other yesterday increased to 210 the number of trafic fatalities in Cook county since Jan. 1. Until 4 p. m. yesterday 172 were killed this year in automobile accidents within the Chicago city limits and 3,275 injured. The other victim:

Lawrence Paciask, 47 years old, 5557 Normandy avenue. Died in the county hospital of injuries incurred March 17, when he was struck by an automobile at Archer avenue and 55th street.

Gilbert Brower, 29 years old, 6236 South Green street, driver of the car, was not held by the police.

The driver of a car that struck and seriously injured Miss Anna O'Donnell, 55 years old, 318 South Whipple street, yesterday morning as she was crossing Albany avenue at Jackson boulevard, is being sought by the Warren avenue police. After his car struck the woman he placed her in his car, presumably to take her to a hospital, but placed her on the sidewalk in front of a church at Albany avenue and Walnut street, where she was found and taken to the County hospital.

Three Women Injured.

Three women were injured last night when the automobile in which they were riding was struck and overturned by another machine at Sacramento and Grand avenues. The driver of the second car sped away without offering aid. Those hurt were Miss Marian Cobden, 27 years old, 315 South 5th avenue, Maywood, driver of the car; her mother, Mrs. Jean Cobden, 63, and Mrs. Louis Bullard, 216 North 2d avenue, Maywood. They were taken to the Franklin Park hospital.

Andrew Kerr, 74 years old, of 2320 Colfax street, Evanston, suffered a fractured spine and a head injury in an automobile accident at Dempster street and McCormick boulevard. The car, driven by his daughter, Mrs. Paul H. Keinke, ran over a curbing and the aged man's head struck the top of the machine.

Mrs. Eva Stevens, 48 years old, 6822 Hobart street, suffered a fractured skull when the car in which she was riding was struck by the machine of Ray Reighard, 1309 Washington street, Des Plaines, on Waukegan road near Dempster street. Her husband, James, suffered a brain concussion.

ESTIMATE PUTS U. S. JOBLESS AT NINE MILLION

New York, March 25.—[Special.]—The number of unemployed workers in the United States in February was 9,898,000, according to the monthly estimate of the national industrial conference board, announced today.

This is a decrease of 242,000, or 2.4 per cent, from the preceding month, but an increase of 25,000, or 0.2 per cent, over February, 1934.

The decreases in unemployment by industrial groups from January to February, 1935, as shown in the conference board report, were: Manufacturing and mechanical industries, 240,000; domestic and personal service, 36,000; mining, 5,000; miscellaneous industry, 8,000. Unemployment in trade showed an increase of 11,000, and transportation, 10,000.

3 Elephants Go Shopping in English Market Place

CREWE, England, March 25.—(AP)—Three elephants appearing in a circus here joined in a shopping tour today. In their brief spell of freedom the big beasts barged placidly through narrow alleys, upsetting stalls and devouring huge quantities of celery, lettuce, and radishes. One of them showed a preference for soap.

VIOLENCE STAINS RURAL BOHEMIA'S 10 YEAR HISTORY

Death and Disaster Stalk Roadhouse Area.

Spreading throughout the northwest end of Cook county, from the city line to Lake county and beyond, is a rural "Bohemia," the country roadhouse district which sprang up during the halcyon days of prohibition. During the past two decades it has been the locale of numerous gang killings, robberies, bombings, fires, and criminal assaults.

From a humble origin of isolated village saloons it developed, under the impetus of prohibition, to a territory spotted with 500 roadhouses of various sorts, from the low ceilinged, dimly lit tavern to the garish casino and expensive dining and drinking "club."

It has been a source of trouble to every state's attorney and sheriff of the era, as rival gangs shot it out on the prairies or in the roadhouses and every form of gambling from slot machines to roulette flourished.

Morton Grove Is "Capital."

The center of this district is the small village of Morton Grove, population 1,974. Within its confines exist or existed most of the larger roadhouses, as well as innumerable small "neighborhood" drinking spots for the working man. The Club Rendezvous, on Dempster street east of Austin avenue, scene of the tragic fire early Sunday, was one of the better known small dance and drink places.

Perhaps the most notorious of the roadhouses was The Dells, diagonally across Dempster road from the Rendezvous. John Factor was kidnaped by the Touhy gang as he left the Dells on the night of July 1, 1933. Following the conviction of four of the abductors, State's Attorney Courtney closed the club and notified all village officials not to allow either Sam Hare or Louis Silversmith, its operator, to open up in their towns.

There were two murders at the Dells and twice it was bombed. Raiders visited it repeatedly seeking liquor violations during prohibition days, and looking in on the elaborate gambling casino on the second floor. It was robbed, and twice fire gutted the interior, the last time being Oct. 8, 1934. The Dells was established by a waiter, Dell Jones, who called it simply "Dells." Later it became known as "The Dells" as being more adapted to the increased importance of the place.

Another Death Setting.

Another landmark is the old Bridge inn, located at the southeast corner of Railroad avenue and Dempster street in Morton Grove. It has been known under many names: The Russian Village, the Golden Gate, and the last, Club Morton. Matt Kolb, the owner, suburban beer and gambling boss, was shot and killed there by gangsters two years ago.

Between the Bridge and the Club Rendezvous on the south side of Dempster street, is the Lincoln Tavern, run by Jack Hoff, who once operated the old Lighthouse at Waukegan road and Dempster street. Seventeen years ago the club was then across the street, but it was burned out.

Further east, on the north side of Dempster road, was the old Walton club, once the summer trade attracting duplicate of the Walton club at 69 East Walton place, where Teddy Newberry and other Capone gangsters were said to have conducted their downtown Chicago operations. Both Walton clubs are now closed. The Morton Grove club, popular despite its high prices, burned two years ago. The wife of the caretaker and her 3 year old daughter perished in the flames.

Fires Date Back 15 Years.

Fifteen years ago the Wayside inn on the north side of Dempster street at Ferris avenue, one of the first of the north end roadhouses, was burned out while the owner, Charles Krempp, was in Germany. Krempp also once owned the old Bridge. At that time Kolb ran the Como inn, on the southeast corner of Ferris and Dempster, and this then served as headquarters for his beer and slot machine racket.

Another bright spot which burned was the Bit and Bridle, "members only" speakeasy. It was located at Harms road, two blocks north of Dempster, and burned in 1933. The old Four Seasons, later known as the Black Forest, on Waukegan road, Glenview, went up in flames two years ago. The Greentree inn, farther north on Waukegan road burned down last winter.

One of the few spots to escape depredations of one sort or another is the Ferris inn, which has operated for fifteen years on Ferris avenue, south of Dempster street. Others are the Studio, the Barn, the Club Del Rio, Murphy's, Hank Trausch's, and the Bungalow.

Violence Marks Area.

Niles Center woke up one night in the summer of 1930 to hear the echo of machine gun fire, as Danny Vallo, Capone hoodlum was slain from ambush almost on the doorstep of Charles Landerer's café on Lincoln avenue near Oakton street. The latest gangster to die there was the late Baby Face Nelson, whose bullet torn body was found near a cemetery after the Barrington gun battle with federal agents.

Further north from the Morton Grove, Niles Center, and Niles district, were three roadhouses once well known. Under the management of M. Bouche, the Villa Venice flourished on the banks of the Des Plaines river south of Wheeling, despite two bombings and a fire. The Garden of Allah, at Lake street and Waukegan road, Glenview, closed shortly after Cy Tearney, the manager, was shot during a holdup in 1929. Directly across the street was the tavern operated by Frank Ingalls, where Russell Thompson of Evanston, a customer, was slain during a holdup in 1930.

BALTIMORE MATRON CHARGES WOMAN PAID HUSBAND'S SEA FARE

New York, March 25.—[Special.]—Charged with a $250,000 love theft, Mrs. Georgia Lee Parker, sister-in-law of Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, clashed today in Supreme court with Mrs. Eve Stuyvesant Hooper, Baltimore matron.

Mrs. Parker of Palm Beach and Paris, was accused by Mrs. Hooper of stealing the love of Henry de Bernlere Hooper, publisher and travel director.

"In Paris in 1929 the defendant gained my husband's affections and enticed him to leave me, by offers of money, and go with her to New York City," said Mrs. Hooper.

Mrs. Parker denied Mrs. Hooper's charges.

ONTARIO POLICE GUARD QUINTS IN KIDNAP PLOT

TORONTO, March 25.—(AP)—An alleged plot to kidnap the famous Dionne quintuplets and take them to the United States in an airplane caused the Ontario provincial government today to order a police guard for the five babies.

Rumors said the kidnap plans called for a 150 mile automobile trip to Sault Ste. Marie, on the Michigan-Ontario border, where the plane was to have been waiting for a night dash across the line. Minister of Public Welfare David Croll said the police guard was being placed at the Dafoe hospital, near Callender, day and night "for the babies' protection."

The babies are "special wards of his majesty the king" by virtue of a law passed by the Ontario legislature and due to be approved by the lieutenant governor of the province. The law would have no effect if the babies were removed from the province. The babies are nine months and 25 days old today and in perfect health.

TUGWELL SLATED TO BE CZAR OVER WORKS PROGRAM

Ickes Gives Up Soil Erosion Campaign.

Washington, March 25.—[Special.]—Rexford Guy Tugwell, under secretary of agriculture, is virtually assured of what may become the most important administrative position in the New York relief organization. This developed today when it became known that President Roosevelt planned to place under his control the whole land use program, including rural rehabilitation, soil erosion work, the submarginal land program, and perhaps the Mississippi valley development.

Secretary Ickes transferred to the department of agriculture today the federal soil erosion service operating at present under a 20 million dollar PWA allotment as the first step in putting into the hands of this leading brain trust survivor what President Roosevelt has himself said would be a vital part of the new program.

950 Millions Set Aside.

No less than 950 million dollars of the 5 billion dollar appropriation voted by the senate for works relief was specifically allotted by the senate for that part of the program which it is now understood Tugwell will direct, and in addition the President may devote up to 20 per cent of the entire appropriation for this portion of the program.

The senate resolution provides 500 millions for rural rehabilitation work; 100 million for rural electrification, and 350 million for soil erosion, reforestation, and flood control.

The unexpected announcement that Harry L. Hopkins, now relief administrator, would accompany President Roosevelt on his Florida vacation, was taken to assure the fact that Mr. Hopkins, who, it has been understood, has been selected to direct all administration housing activities, public and privately financed under the new program, will have an important position. The President and Mr. Hopkins were expected to discuss all details of the organization during the southern trip.

Expect Moffett to Quit.

It also appeared definite that Admiral Christopher Peebles would be a third member of a board to act under the personal direction of President Roosevelt, although it was not certain whether the admiral would direct the 800 million dollar work on highways, roads, streets, and grade crossing elimination and other public works or merely supervise all expeditures.

Gen. Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., was being considered either as business advisory member of an executive board or as head of a separate advisory committee on the suggestion of Secretary Roper.

Ickes' Rôle in Doubt.

The part, if any, that Secretary Ickes, who has acted as Public Works administrator, would play in the new program remained in doubt. In case Secretary Ickes is not included in the President's works relief plans, it was thought that a business man, possibly Gen. Wood, might be drafted for service on the executive board.

Horner Doubts State's Ability to Pension Aged, He Tells Washington; Depends on New Taxes

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 25.—[Special.]—Gov. Henry Horner has reported to Washington, it was learned today, that Illinois may be unable to assume the financial burden of the old age pension system proposed by President Roosevelt. It all depends on whether the Illinois legislature can find new sources of taxation.

Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin reported they would be able to match the federal allotments with state funds.

Gov. Horner and other governors replied to a questionnaire sent out by Senator Edward P. Costigan [Dem., Colo.], inquiring whether states were prepared to assume the care of unemployables now on the federal relief rolls when the work relief system is established and to participate in the old age pension system. Gov. Horner failed to state whether Illinois could take over relief of unemployables.

Horner Replies to Questions.

Replying to Senator Costigan's questions Gov. Horner said:

"First, the estimated number of persons over 65 years of age in Illinois approximate 470,000 in 1933, and number at present time should be substantially the same. Second, no accurate data exists as to exact number of unemployables over 65 years of age. But estimates indicate that number approximates 250,000, which figure includes 65,000 unemployables on public relief, the balance being on private charity, in state and private institutions and supported by friends and relatives or from their own resources. Third, ability of Illinois to grant relief to aged can be determined only by balancing of relative claims upon state for funds.

"Legislature now faces task of raising 36 million dollars in additional taxes to meet relief requirements in addition to funds from Federal Emergency Relief administration. The state already has appropriated for unemployment relief this year 9 million dollars, which by the strictest economies has been accumulated over the last 18 months, for necessities of our state welfare institutions. The state since 1932 has appropriated approximately 75 million dollars for unemployment relief in addition to appropriations by local governments.

Schools Need Assistance.

"In addition Illinois schools are demanding additional state assistance. Many schools in the state are now in difficulty due to failure of many local political subdivisions to collect local taxes. In addition 28 state welfare institutions now badly overcrowded must have increased budgets for operation and outlays for capital improvements.

"All of these imperative needs require additional taxes, which can be imposed only with extreme difficulty because of the narrow limits of the present state constitution, the amendment of which in practice has been heretofore disapproved on referendum.

Cites "Great Difficulties."

"Whether after meeting above needs further taxes can be imposed for old age pensions to match federal subvention presents great difficulties and can only be answered by the ability of the legislature to find new sources of taxation under our constitution. Our legislature is now in session, and these matters will have its earnest consideration.

"Personally, I strongly favor old age pensions. Its principals are sound, and when we are financially able as a state it must become a part of our general economic plan. The financial burdens of state government at the present time are heavy, and, frankly, I cannot say at this time that the financial condition of the state, including prospective revenues from new taxes when devised, can meet the opportunities offered by partial federal aid on old age pensions. That we will make the effort you may take for granted."

Iowa Governor Reports.

Gov. Clyde Herring of Iowa reported 200,000 aged persons in that state, 55,000 of whom have applied for relief. He inclosed a report by Superintendent Byron G. Allen which stated:

"With but few minor changes the Iowa old age assistance law will, in my opinion, meet the requirements for compliance in joining the federal program laid down in the Lewis bill now pending in the congress.

"Furthermore, unless federal administrative rulings and orders, as directed in the Lewis bill, force drastic administrative changes in Iowa, this state will be in a position to take immediate advantage of the allotment of federal funds and those recommended by yourself to be allocated from the profits of the state liquor control system.

Funds Now Sufficient.

"As the old age assistance superintendent in this state, I wish to call your attention to the fact that the full intent of the Iowa law and the proposed Lewis bill, now pending in the congress, cannot be completely complied with on the state and federal funds which are proposed to be furnished between July 1, 1935, and June 30, 1936, and no doubt for some years thereafter.

"Not from a spirit of malice toward the needy aged but rather from the desire to have a statute in this state which can be carried out in the completeness of its spirit and intent, I suggest that you urge the congress to appropriate as large an amount for 1935-'36 as is outlined for subsequent fiscal years."

Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald gave the following summary of the situation in Michigan:

"From estimates made by state relief administration for Michigan 250,000 residents over 65, of whom 32,000 are receiving emergency relief and 17,000 additional are receiving local poor relief or inadequate old age pensions. One hundred and thirty thousand persons, consisting of 12,000 unemployable singles and 30,000 families containing no employable person, are receiving emergency relief. Old age pensions to persons over 65 would still leave 100,000 persons dependent on state and local funds if federal aid to unemployables and their dependents is withdrawn. Estimated annual requirements for 50,000 pensioners are approximately $7,000,000 at $12 per month, age 65. Estimated cost of care of 100,000 other unemployables at present FERA estimates is 12 to 15 million dollars.

Has 10 Million Dollars.

"State government can contribute 10 million dollars if not required to share cost of proposed federal works program. If local government is required to provide remaining amount it will result in severely difficult new taxation, which is not recommended. With adequate advance notice state and local governments could join federal pension program in approximately 90 days. I question the ability of state and local governments to contribute one-half of $30 per month age 65 pension unless federal works program relieves Michigan of support of all employable people, employables defined as all who can perform useful work of some kind in private or public employment."

Gov. Paul V. McNutt replied that Indiana, with 233,000 aged, "is prepared to coöperate fully" with the work relief program, and has adequate funds to take care of unemployables. He said the would ask the legislature to act on old age pensions as soon as congress passed the bill.

Wisconsin's Summary.

Gov. Phil La Follette summarized the Wisconsin situation as follows:

"1. Thirty-five thousand persons, made up of children and mothers, as well as occasional cases of completely disabled fathers, in families eligible for mother's pension.

"2. Two hundred and fifteen thousand old persons over 65, of whom at least 10 per cent, or 20,000, can qualify immediately for old age pensions.

"3. Approximately 25,000 persons in families where their is no one able to work, but where for age or family membership reasons there is no eligibility for either the mother's or old age pensions. The provision of aid to this group will be a local and state problem of a quite distinct sort."

PLANNERS URGE 8 BILLION STATE WORKS PROGRAM

BY AL CHASE.

Analysis of the Illinois State Planing commission's recent report to Gov. Horner discloses the commission's recommendations that spending for public works and improvements in this commonwealth should go into the billion dollar field.

A twenty year program of "needed improvements" submtted by the commission to the governor suggests that $8,150,000,000 could be well expended were the money available. This $8,150,000,000 figure is mentioned in the report which "analysis shows to be very conservative."

At least a start toward fulfilment of this eight billion dollar spending goal is predicated on Illinois' receiving an allotment of between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000 from Uncle Sam's 4 billion 880 million dollar work relief fund.

Stresses Improvement Needs.

The commission's report points out that during the ten years previous to the first depression years of 1930 and 1931 at least $5,000,000,000 was expended in Illinois on public works, housing and other large scale improvements. Depression conditions reduced this figure to a small fraction of normal expenditures, the report states.

"A canvass of urgently needed public works in Illinois shows that, were the money available, an annual average volume of work and employment equal to the pre-depression average would be produced," the report reads. The following tabulation, which analysis shows to be very conservative, is based on needed works spread over a 20 year period, and represents an average annual expenditure of $400,000,000.

State buildings and works	200,000,000
Municipal and county buildings and works [excluding highways]	2,000,000,000
Highways, bridges, grade separations	500,000,000
Urban dwelling modernization	200,000,000
New urban housing and replacement of blighted areas	4,000,000,000
Modernization and replacement of farm dwellings and buildings	500,000,000
Erosion control and other land conservation measures	200,000,000
Railroads and water terminals [other than federal]	250,000,000
Liming of farm lands	50,000,000
Rural transmission lines	15,000,000
Miscellaneous	85,000,000
Total	$8,150,000,000

"Between July 1, 1935, and June 30, 1936, a large volume of federal funds will probably be available for reëmployment on work projects in Illinois. No definite program can be formulated until the terms of the grants and loans are known.

The Year's Program.

"The program of expenditures in prospect for the next fiscal year, excluding Illinois' proportion of the new 4 billion dollar fund, is about as follows:

Municipal buildings and works [PWA]	$ 50,000,000
PWA housing	20,000,000
Public works by federal agencies	15,000,000
FHA modernization	15,000,000
FHA new dwellings	10,000,000
Miscellaneous	10,000,000
Total	$120,000,000

The planning commission's report emphasizes the importance of this program as an agency of employment and recommends the liberalization of legislation to allow local communities to finance needed public works improvements, especially those of a self-liquidating nature.

OPPOSE SENDING OF NRA SUITS DIRECT TO SUPREME COURT

Washington, D. C., March 25.—[Special.]—An attempt to drive through legislation to force the Supreme court to give quick and preferential consideration to legal efforts to restrain operations of New Deal agencies was unanimously opposed by the highest court today.

Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes and Associate Justices Willis Van Devanter and Louis D. Brandeis appeared before the senate judiciary committee on behalf of the court. They objected to the bill of Senator Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.] intended to "railroad" injunction suits against any of the New Deal agencies from the federal District courts to the Supreme court, ignoring the Circuit Court of Appeal.

Chief Justice Hughes and the associate justices appeared before the committee at the invitation of Senator Henry F. Ashurst, chairman. Their opposition to the Black bill, it is expected, will kill it.

While the fact that members of the highest court of the country appeared before a committee of congress to give their views was commented on in some quarters as unprecedented, it has been customary when a question of Supreme court jurisdiction was involved in a bill to seek the views of the court. Chief Justice William H. Taft appeared before committees of congress on more than one occasion.

Senators who heard the views of the court said after the hearing that the chief justice and his associates contended the Black bill would not really expedite decisions of the class of cases covered by the bill and that on the other hand it would tend to throw into the Supreme court litigation which involved only a part of the questions inevitably arising from recent legislation.

HOUSING STRIKE HITS PRESIDENT AND JOHN D. JR.

Mrs. Roosevelt Also Is Owner of Stock.

New York, March 25.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt, Mrs. Roosevelt, John D. Rockefeller Jr., and Edward Harkness, all owners of stock in Sunnyside Gardens, Long Island City, were faced today by a "strike" of 450 owners of homes in that model housing development.

The strikers have voted to make no more mortgage payments until their interest rates are reduced.

J. Charles Laue, president ex-officio of the Sunnyside Gardens Community Association, Inc., telegraphed President Roosevelt today asking him, as a stockholder, to have the Home Owners Loan corporation intervene "to stay the destruction of this community."

Values Decline Greatly.

According to Lewis L. Weis Jr., chairman of the association, Sunnyside Gardens, built during boom times and widely publicized as a model housing development for white collar workers, has suffered a disastrous decline during the depression.

"Of the 563 original owners," he said today, "about 100 have been forced to turn back their homes. Others are living in cellars, many have borrowed from loan sharks to keep up their payments, and some are living on relief.

"For two years these homeowners have been seeking a reduction of mortgage interest. The crisis has developed due to the decline in real estate values, lowering of rents and obsolescence. The mortgage principal is now in excess of the real value of the dwellings. Six per cent interest is still being charged."

Built by City Corporation.

The community was built by the City Housing corporation and its principal stockholders are the Equitable Life Assurance society, Merchants Fire Assurance corporation, Merchants Indemnity corporation, Washington Assurance corporation, Broadway Savings Bank and Brooklyn Trust company.

Individual stockholders, according to Mr. Weis, are President Roosevelt, holder of 100 shares; Mrs. Roosevelt, 10 shares; Mr. Rockefeller, 1,500 shares; Edward Harkness, 700 shares, and Lehman Brothers, 100 shares. First mortgages on the homes in the community amount to $2,900,000 and second mortgages to $1,729,000.

Mr. Weis has written to Alexander M. Bing, president of the City Housing corporation, setting forth the members' position and asking for a conference with representatives of the institutions which are the principal stockholders.

Slayer of Grace Budd, 10, Sentenced to Die in Chair

New York, March 25.—[Special.]—Albert Howard Fish, convicted of the murder of Grace Budd, 10, today was sentenced to die in the electric chair. After sentence was passed Fish was taken to the death house at Sing Sing prison. The week of April 29 was fixed as the time for execution, but an obligatory review of Fish's trial automatically wil lstay it until fall.

CONGRESS GROUP MAPS INCREASE IN NAVAL CADETS

Washington, D. C., March 25.—(AP)—Expansion of the United States naval academy to provide officers for the rapidly growing fleet was revealed today to be under consideration as part of the program to bring the nation's sea forces to treaty strength.

With some administration leaders placing strong navy legislation on the "must" list and with three such bills scheduled for house passage this week, it was learned the house appropriations subcommittee for the navy had studied the proposal to provide more future navy officers.

By 1942, under present plans, 102 new vessels will be added to the fleet. A bill for an immediate increase of 1,000 in officer personnel is one of the three slated to go through this week. The others would spend 38 million dollars for improved shore stations and provide a system of air cadets to supply the aviation branch with personnel. The present strength of the Annapolis regiment of midshipmen is 1,000.

PLAN TO ENLARGE MUSKINGUM VALLEY PROJECT

Washington, D. C., March 25.—(AP)—A threefold program was outlined today for expansion of the $32,590,000 Muskingum valley conservation project involving an additional expenditure of roughly $16,000,000.

Bryce Browning of Zanesville, O., secretary of the Muskingum district, disclosed proposals to build about 60 secondary reservoirs in addition to the 14 already approved.

He and Representative Robert T. Secrest [Dem., O.] have requested Robert Fechner, emergency conservation director, to increase the number of Civilian Conservation corp camps in that district. They also asked extension of the Salt creek soil erosion program to cover all 16 counties in the Muskingum area.

The enlarged program would restore the project to its original scope and make possible conservation features that were omitted when federal funds were advanced for the present plans.

BELGIAN PREMIER PICKS CABINET; CALLS IT PERFECT

BRUSSELS, March 25.—(AP)—After seven days without a cabinet in Belgium, Paul Van Zeeland tonight succeeded in forming a new government of National Union which he announced is "perfect." The new cabinet is composed of representatives all political parties. It supplants the government of former Premier Georges Theunis which resigned over the economic crisis.

The new ministers will take their oaths before King Leopold at 5 p. m. tomorrow and then actively pitch into the work of framing a program, which even a number of leading financiers think will include devaluation of the Belgian franc.

Although neither Premier Van Zeeland nor any of the new ministers have announced publicly how they stand in this respect, it is known that the premier, who is an ardent admirer of President Roosevelt, has leaned in this direction.

5 BILLION BILL IN HOUSE; DUE FOR CONFERENCE

Leaders Plan to Delete Some Amendments.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 25.—[Special.]—Administration leaders moved forward today toward final enactment of the four billion 880 million dollar "works-relief" bill. Tomorrow the house will decide whether to send the bill to a conference between its representatives and those of the senate.

The administration strategy was formulated at a conference this forenoon between Speaker Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.] and President Roosevelt at the White House.

After Byrns had gaveled the house to order at noon Representative James Buchanan [Dem., Tex.], chairman of the appropriations committee, asked unanimous consent to send the bill to conference. This was objected to by Representative Luther Johnson [Dem., Tex.].

Vote on Issue Today.

Following a series of conferences among house leaders the rules committee met and adopted a rule suggested by Chairman John T. O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.]. This rule will bring the bill before the house tomorrow, and the vote to send the measure to conference will then be taken.

As passed by the senate last Saturday there were 31 amendments tacked upon the bill, and the house-senate conferees would weed out changes the administration finds distasteful, according to the plan. Then both houses would be forced to vote the bill "up or down" in the form adopted in conference.

The only hurdle that is causing the administration some worry is the Thomas amendment providing for an inflation or expansion of the currency through the medium of silver up to a billion dollars for a partial financing of the huge program.

Inflationists Mobilize.

House inflationists were planning tonight to attempt to vote down the rule and then amend it with instructions for the conferees to adopt the silver policy. The leadership of the house, however, held the opinion that plenty of votes were on hand to defeat the move.

More speculation over who will administer the "works-relief" fund grew today when President Roosevelt had as his luncheon guest Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins.

500 ON RELIEF STAGE NEAR RIOT WHEN BAD MEAT IS GIVEN THEM

Tampa, Fla., March 25.—(AP)—Five hundred jobless men and women on relief rolls staged a demonstration here today in protest against the condition of meat handed them from the FERA commodity department in the Spanish section.

The meat, which was hurled back at the FERA clerks by the unemployed, was later inspected by M. J. Mackler, assistant city health officer, and termed unfit for human consumption.

J. S. Bridges, executive officer of the FERA for Hillsborough county, admitted that some of the meat was bad and declared fresh meat would be distributed tomorrow.

RELIEF WORKERS GO ON STRIKE FOR HIGHER PAY

Owatonna, Minn., March 25.—(AP)—Several Steele county relief workers left their jobs at noon today. They picketed the county courthouse when the fulfilment of their demands for a change in administration of aid was not forthcoming.

Following a meeting of relief workers on Saturday, grievances were presented to the county commissioners, the Owatonna city council, and George Griffin, county relief administrator.

The workers asked they be paid in cash at the rate of 40 cents an hour. They asked further a regulation providing that no relief worker may operate his own automobile be canceled.

Advance Guard of Circus Here for Opening April 20

Spring was heralded officially yesterday by the vanguard of the Hagenbeck-Wallace and Forepaugh-Sells Brothers circus, whose bill posters, lithographers, and banner men arrived with their gay pictorials announcing the opening of the big show in the Stadium on April 20. Among the outstanding performers are Maria Rasputin, wild animal trainer, who is a daughter of the famous Russian monk; Bert Nelson, subjugator of jungle beasts; the Merkels, who walk upside down on mirrors; "Cheerful" Gardiner with twenty performing elephants, and the aerial troupe headed by the Flying Codonas.

Rules Bancroft Must Continue in Senate Race

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., March 25.—[Special.]—Levi H. Bancroft, Republican nominee for state senator in the 27th senatorial district, must continue his candidacy through the election April 2, contrary to his wishes, according to a ruling today by the secretary of state.

An affidavit of withdrawal was received by the secretary of state's office today, but since the office already had certified names of candidates to compete in the April election, Bancroft's withdrawal was not accepted. It was pointed out by George Brown of the secretary of state's office that notice of withdrawal must be filed at least 20 days before the election.

The two other candidates in the 27th district seeking the senate seat are E. Myrwyn Rowlands, Progressive and Isaac Evans, Democrat.

Bancroft's effort to withdraw was predicated upon the belief that a joining of conservative forces in the Republican and Democratic parties in favor of the Democratic nominee might build sufficient strength to defeat the Progessive candidate.

"As matters now stand, it is of minor importance whether a citizen claims allegiance to one party name or to another," said Bancroft, who for many years has been one of Wisconsin's leading Republicans.

"The all important question is whether Evans identifies himself with that rapidly increasing group of radicals who believe in exploiting the government for their own personal advantage, or whether he believes in that form of constitutional and regulated government which our fathers established as a priceless heritage of liberty and opportunity for all those who are deserving of American citizenship."

The primary vote in the district gave more support to the Progressive candidate than either of the other two, but the combined total of the Republican and Democratic votes was higher than the Progressive total, it was pointed out.

By withdrawing, Bancroft said he would be permitting a majority vote to select a state senator from the district.

Through the remainder of the campaign, Bancroft is expected to make it clear to voters of the 27th district that they should vote for the Democratic candidate, although they may be Republicans by choice.

ENGINEERS URGE ELIMINATION OF GRADE CROSSINGS

Grade crossing elimination provides a major highway problem and offers excellent opportunities for the wise use of federal public works funds, according to three Chicago engineers who spoke last night in a symposium before the Western Society of Engineers at 205 West Wacker drive.

George W. Barton, the Chicago Motor club's highway trafic manager, and Hugh E. Surman, design engineer of the Illinois state highway department, said grade crossing crashes accounted for 3.3 per cent of the fatal automobile accidents of 1924. Surman asserted that Illinois has spent $8,000,000 in federal funds on grade crossing elimination in two years, and would separate 275 more rail-highway intersections within a few months. The state, he disclosed, is mapping new highways to reduce to a minimum the need of traversing tracks.

F. E. Morrow, chief engineer of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad, indorsed grade separations and emphasized the advisability of rerouting highways to avoid railroads. He urged a standard crossing signal and protection system where grade crossings remained.

U. S. CUTTER GETS READY TO BREAK UP MACKINAC ICE

The U. S. S. Escanaba, coast guard cutter constructed in 1932 for breaking ice on the Great Lakes, docked at Navy pier last night to prepare to proceed to the straits of Mackinac, where it will open up navigation between Lake Michigan and Lake Huron.

The cutter, captained by Lieutenant Commander Louis W. Perkins, is to leave Chicago waters tomorrow and go directly to Lansing Shoals in upper Lake Michigan. There the ice is reported to be from 12 to 18 inches thick. From Lansing Shoals to Mackinac, a distance of 42 miles, it will plow a channel sufficient to permit the passage of vessels.

This will be the first attempt ever made to break up the Mackinac ice by ship, officers of the Escanaba said. In the past navigation has been tied up until warmth breaks the ice, usually around May 1.

The Escanaba, sister ship of the U. S. S. Tahoma, which operates on Lake Erie, has a double-plated steel bottom, especially constructed for ice breaking. It is manned by a crew of 60 men and 6 officers.

PROF. COMPTON HOME FOR NEW STRATO TESTS

A fresh attempt to secure new data on the cosmic ray will be made by Prof. Arthur H. Compton, noted University of Chicago physicist, during his brief stay in this city, he indicated yesterday.

Prof. Compton has just completed a six months' teaching course at Oxford university, England, and will return to resume his duties within three weeks. However, while here he plans to send up more of the small instrument bearing stratosphere balloons.

These balloons, equipped with some ten pounds of instruments, are expected to ascend to a heighth of some fifteen miles and automatically—by radio signaling devices—send out data valuable in the study of these mysterious interstellar emanations.

Prof. Compton indicated that the first balloons will be sent up some time this week.

Deafened Hear Without Ear Drums New Device Is Demonstrated Here

New hope has come to scores of deafened people who, last week, received a demonstration of the New "Symphonic" Acousticon at the Acousticon Consultation Rooms, Suite 700, 180 No. Michigan Ave.

For the first time since their hearing was impaired, these people took part in group conservation from all angles and at considerable distance. They heard sounds they had not been able to hear for years. Their new hearing was clear, natural, strong. And general delight was expressed at its inconspicuousness.

Even those whose middle ear mechanism is completely destroyed can hear with this device—the New, "Symphonic" Acousticon, since it uses a new auditory path—bone conduction.

WIDOW ERICKSEN WEEPS ON STAND AT MURDER TRIAL

CRIMINAL COURT.

Joseph Lavick and Raymond Dorsey, larceny, sentenced to one to twenty years each in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

James Chukas, robbery, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge John C. Lewe.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

A jury in the Criminal court of Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan late yesterday heard Mrs. Anna Ericksen testify tearfully in her own defense that she loved her husband, George, and did not conspire to murder him in order to collect the insurance on his life.

Today this same jury will hear closing arguments in Mrs. Ericksen's trial for murder. The state indicated in qualifying the jury that it will ask the death penalty.

Ericksen was killed early in the morning of Dec. 22. He and Mrs. Ericksen operated a tavern at 6001 South Cicero avenue, near the Chicago airport.

Widow's Story Is Defense Key.

Except for character witnesses Mrs. Ericksen's own testimony constituted the entire defense case, which was concluded before court adjourned. Questioned by Attorney Harold Levy, who, with Attorney Emmet Byrne, is defending her, the black garbed widow, pale and weeping, employed a low, pleading tone of voice in her efforts to explain away much of the evidence the state has introduced.

She began her story by telling the jury she was 40 years old, that she had borne nine children, six of whom are living, and that she left school in the seventh grade to become a housemaid and later a waitress. It ended on her declaration, accompanied by fresh tears, that she had loved her husband.

Assistant State's Attorney Emmett Moynihan, who, with Assistant State's Attorneys Frank Donoghue and John S. Boyle, is prosecuting the case, was almost as gentle with Mrs. Ericksen in his cross-examination as her own attorney was in questioning her. Her tears ceased to flow, but her tone of voice was as dulcet when she replied to his questions.

Denies Trysts with Collard.

She denied under the prosecutor's questioning that she had ever "gone out" with George Collard, 30 year old radio operator formerly employed at the Municipal airport, who committed suicide in Milwaukee last March 8. She admitted that she had seen him in the tavern three times a day "when he was in town."

She had driven with him "only to the grocery store," she said, and had never gone with him on an overnight excursion. The state contends it was her desire to marry Collard, with the additional motive of collecting $6,100 in double indemnity insurance policies, that impelled her to arrange the murder of her husband.

Again questioned by Attorney Levy she was asked if she had ever said she had "made a mistake" in marrying her husband.

"No, sir," she said, flinging out her small hands, "I loved my husband."

Refutes Confessed Killer's Story.

In her direct testimony Mrs. Ericksen said she had known James Senese for more than six months and Elmer Krueger for two years. Senese and Krueger were indicted with her for the murder and testified for the state. Senese said she urged him over a period of several months to kill her husband, meanwhile plying him with free drinks in the tavern.

Senese told how he fired nine bullets into Ericksen, five of them taking effect, as he approached the back door of his home at 6221 South Keating avenue, Dec. 22. Mrs. Ericksen denied any part in the killing.

ATTORNEY LEVY [handing her a gun]: I hand you People's exhibit No. 26 and ask you if you have ever seen it before.

MRS. ERICKSEN: Yes, it looks like one I had. I borrowed it when I was keeping the restaurant [at 6013 S. Cicero] open all night, and I was kind of afraid. I later kept it in a drawer under the bar at the tavern. I missed it six or seven weeks before the shooting.

Q.—And how long before your husband's death did you move from 6319 Knox avenue to the Keating avenue address? A.—Two weeks.

Q.—What was the reason for the move? A. [brightly]—My sister and brother-in-law from Iowa moved in with us, and there was more room in the Keating avenue place. [Senese had testified she moved because the latter place was a darker, quieter spot for a murder.]

Q.—Calling your attention to the night preceding Dec. 22, when did you leave the tavern? A.—About 8:30.

Q.—When you left did you have any conversaton? A.—Yes. I was decorating the ceiling with crêpe paper. George told me to take the four children and go on home and he'd finish. Then as I left he said, 'Did you forget something?' I said, 'No.' He said, 'are you sure?' Then he told me I'd forgotten to kiss him goodnight. So I did.

She then said that on the morning of the murder, she awakened her son, George, and sent him to build a fire. Hearing a knock on the rear door she answered it. The milkman told her her husband was lying in the gangway leading to their back door.

Discovery of the Body.

"I waked Geraldine [her 20 year old daughter] and told her 'daddy's lying in the gangway.' Then I sent him," she said, weeping so that her words were muffled. "The milkman brought him in and laid him on the floor and I ran next door to get some warm water and bathed his face. Then I told 'em to get a doctor or the police."

BISHOP WARNS MALES TO KEEP WOMEN FROM HELM OF THE CHURCH

In a plea that men reassume "their rightful responsibility" as leaders of the church, Bishop Irving Peake Johnson of Denver, Colo., condemned yesterday the recent action of the general convention of the Episcopal church which permits women to sit as members of its national council. Bishop Johnson is the noon day Lenten preacher at the Harris theater, where the Episcopal Church club conducts the services. He uttered a plea against feminizing the church at a luncheon in the Hotel Sherman following the Harris theater service.

"At the rate we are going," said Bishop Johnson, "the women will be running the church in another few years."

Bishop Johnson also advocated radical changes in the system of government of the Episcopal church which would be based upon the establishment of an office of archbishop. The establishment of an archbishop, he said, offers the greatest hope for the future of the Episcopal church.

LEWIS SEEKS A SUCCESSOR TO CZARNECKI

Senator James Hamilton Lewis, it was disclosed yesterday, is seeking a Chicagoan of Polish birth or descent for the office of United States collector of customs.

The term of the incumbent, Anthony Czarnecki, a Republican, expires at the end of this month, and it is understood that Senator Lewis, who has the privilege of nomination for President Roosevelt's consideration, has agreed to propose a man selected by the Polish organizations of the city.

Although on Sunday it was said at the University club, where Senator Lewis had been stopping, that he had departed for Washington that morning, further inquiry there yesterday brought a reply that he was still registered there.

Confesses Stabbing Girl, but "Doesn't Know Why"

Joseph Novarro, 28 years old, 8917 Buffalo avenue, a steel company laborer, confessed, police said last night, that he stabbed Miss Ruby Geinto, 24 years old, 9028 Houston avenue, as she fled early Sunday from a tavern at 3066 East 91st street. Novarro was arrested yesterday. He told Capt. John Egan of the South Chicago police that he had been drinking at the time and "didn't know why" he stabbed the woman, who was not in his party. Policeman James Kelly of the South Chicago station saw the stabbing. He captured Nicholas Sanches, 30 years old, 8901 Buffalo avenue, but Novarro and another companion escaped.

WETTEN STRIKES AT JENKINS AND RACE LIVENS UP

G. O. P. Mayoralty Nominee Derides 3d Party.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Emil C. Wetten, Republican nominee for mayor, replied yesterday in an open letter to a recent request from Newton Jenkins, his third party opponent, that he withdraw from the race.

Mr. Wetten countered with a proposal that Mr. Jenkins withdraw in favor of Mayor Kelly and support him openly. He asserted that a vote for Jenkins is "two votes for Kelly" and all that Jenkins could hope for from his candidacy would be that it would aid the mayor's reëlection.

"I want to congratulate you on having selected such an appropriate name for your party," Mr. Wetten wrote, "because it is certain to be the 'third party' on election day, and this will keep your batting average 1,000. My recollection is that each time you have been a candidate you have been defeated. You can secure surcease from sorrow by knowing you have a perfect batting average."

Committeemen Still Doleful.

The Republican counterattack on the "new party" candidate brought expressions of congratulation from some of Mr. Wetten's friends, as it was the first lively utterance from him since his nomination on Feb. 26. But it failed to cheer up the party's ward committeemen who, during the day, sought to gain from the candidate some assurances as to his intentions for the final days of the campaign period. The election is a week from today.

The subcommittee of five ward committeemen appointed at Mr. Wetten's suggestion last week asked for a meeting with him to talk over such questions as printing paraphernalia for election day and the manning of the polls by hired workers. They also wanted to know when and where he would start speaking and whether he would talk over the radio.

Mr. Wetten's reply, according to reports, was that he would meet the subcommittee again this morning. The only supplies the Wetten headquarters has on hand are a limited quantity of small campaign cards.

Letter Packs Some Chuckles.

The disconsolate committeeman, however, did chuckle over some parts of the Wetten letter to Jenkins, such as the following:

"What interests me most is your solicitation for the Republican party. Of course, I appreciate the fact that you have jumped from party to party so frequently you probably have forgotten that in this election you are experimenting with a new party and you have left the Republicans to shift for themselves. Who asked you back in?

"My analysis of this election is that the people have been ready, anxious and willing to vote and vote right, many weeks ago, and no matter what you, the mayor, or I might say, it will not change 10,000 votes one way or the other.

"Why tell the people that you are confident that you will receive six or seven hundred thousand votes on April 2? You and I both know that there will not be over a million votes cast. If you were confident of getting that number of votes you would get more votes than Kelly and me combined and would have a plurality of over half a million votes.

"You would not need either Kelly or me to withdraw if you are telling the people the truth. But fortunately few believe you. Clearly you don't believe it yourself or you would not have written me that ridiculous letter.

"I am the regular nominee selected by the Republican party. Not one member of that great party has asked me to withdraw; but you, an opposing candidate, have the audacity to suggest it, hoping [I presume] that the Republican party would then lose its place on the ballot at the next election and the 'third party' would usurp that place.

"This suggestion alone should absolutely preclude the possibility of any Republican in Chicago who is interested in the 1936 election from casting a vote for you.

"In other words, you are asking me to absolutely destroy the local Republican party for your benefit. I must decline to enter into what I regard as a crooked deal with you.

"I am positive you are not fooling the Republican party or any one else, because they all understand that a vote for Jenkins is TWO votes for Kelly."

Mayor to Speak Over Radio.

Mayor Kelly, who has followed the policy of "taking the campaign to the people" by addressing several small meetings each night and discussing the work of his administration, will depart from that practice Friday night. Over a hookup of five radio stations—W-G-N, WMAQ, WCFL, WENR, and WIND—he will make his one general speech of the campaign. On these and possibly one other station he will occupy the half hour from 10:15 to 10:45 p. m.

Among the indorsements received by Mr. Kelly yesterday were several from Republicans. One was from Clyde L. Day, leader of the Brundage group.

"Under the glaring present [and I hope temporary] inadequacy of the Republican organization," Mr. Day wrote, "I feel no obligation upon myself as a Republican to do otherwise than support your candidacy, especially in view of the excellent record you have made."

Mr. Wetten and Mr. Day served as assistants to the late Edward J. Brundage in the corporation counsel's office under the Busse administration.

Charges Son of President 'Lobbyist' for 'Air Trust'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 25.—[Special.]—Without a record vote the house of representatives today passed the Mead bill extending existing air mail contracts and providing possible increases in rates for the operators.

The hint that Elliott Roosevelt, the President's son, was a lobbyist for the "air trust" aroused the house to considerable debate. The charge was made by Representative Melvin J. Maas [Rep., Minn.], a flyer during the world war, who declared that the aviation companies should be investigated before giving them an increased governmental subsidy.

Maas had said that the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce had been saying that unless the increases was granted the industry would go into bankruptcy. Representative John Taber [Rep., N. Y.] asked him who the chief representative of the chamber was.

Refers to President's Son.

"O, various officers, but at present the most active is Elliott Roosevelt," replied Maas.

"It is rumored around the capitol that he draws a salary of $25,000," remarked Taber.

"I believe it is $10,000 or $12,000," said Maas, "but whatever it is it is too much."

Democrats took up the defense and Representative Thomas F. Ford [Dem. Cal.] said that Hoover's son had done the same thing.

"No son of the President has been before my committee," declared Representative Donald C. Dobbins [Dem., Ill.], a member of the postoffice and post roads committee, who was handling the bill. "These slights upon the President and his family are wholly unjustified."

Three Air Lines Agree.

Dobbins said that the bill as amended and adopted had been agreed upon by the Transcontinental and Western Air, United, and American Air Lines, serving Chicago, in connection with "off-line" operation. It would be left to the interstate commerce commission to decide whether an "off-line" operation by one company over a route held by an air mail contractor was fair or necessary.

The bill also provided that rates could be increased from the present top of 33 1-3 cents a mile to 40 cents a mile for each 300 pound load if the interstate commerce commission saw fit. The aggregate route mileage would be increased from 29,000 to 32,000 miles.

Elliott Roosevelt Denies Charge.

Fort Worth, Tex., March 25.—(AP)—A denial that he is a lobbyist for aviation concerns was issued here tonight by Elliott Roosevelt, the President's son.

"Those interested in the work that I am doing," young Roosevelt said, "can find out by inquiring. They will learn that I have nothing to do with the legislative program of the aviation companies."

AVIATOR FOUND; REPORTS MINE PROMOTER ALIVE

MONTREAL, Que., March 25.—(AP)—Capt. Tommy Wrathall, pilot of the plane bearing Stanley E. Siscoe, mining promoter, which has been missing for six days, was found safe today and he said Siscoe also is alive.

The flyer was found at a small lake between Lake Matchimanitou and Senneterre, Que., by Glen Burge of Prospectors' Airways, who flew Capt. Wrathall back to Senneterre.

Capt. Wrathall told the rescue pilot, it was telephoned here, that Siscoe left Saturday to walk north to the Transcontinental railway or west to gold mining camps to seek aid, for Wrathall and his cabin plane. More than a dozen planes had joined in a search for the two men, who apparently were forced down last Tuesday during a blinding snowstorm.

Ex-Service Group Will Give Kelly Testimonial Luncheon

Mayor Kelly yesterday accepted an invitation from a delegation representing the ex-service men of Chicago to attend a testimonial luncheon in his honor at the Morrison hotel Thursday noon. Col. A. A. Sprague acted as chairman of the delegation.

"The service men of Chicago owe a great debt to Mayor Kelly, especially for the kindly and efficient cooperation he gave them on the occasion of the American Legion convention in Chicago," Col. Sprague said in presenting the invitation. "Regardless of party, they are glad of an opportunity to demonstrate their good will toward the mayor."

Briton Loses $50,000 Suit Against Lipton's Estate

LONDON, March 25.—(AP)—An attempt by Hugh Nicholson, an engineer, to collect £10,000 [about $50,000] from the estate of the late Sir Thomas Lipton, famous British sportsman, failed today when Justice MacNaughton of the King's bench branded Nicholson's story "a tissue of falsehoods" and gave judgment for the estate with costs.

Nicholson had claimed that between 1906 and 1927 Sir Thomas broke four promises to pay him £10,000. He alleged that Lipton gave him an "I O U" for the discharge of all claims.

YANK CLAIMS HE UNCOVERED SPY RING FOR FRANCE

Switz Accuses 19 Others in Paris Trial.

PARIS, March 25.—(AP)—Robert Gordon Switz, American, today accused 19 others of spying against France for soviet Russia as he, his wife, and 19 codefendants went on trial as spies. Switz, himself, told the court that he had entered the alleged spy ring to uncover its intrigues for France.

Switz appeared wearing a neatly trimmed beard. Mrs. Switz was more plump than when the couple were arrested 15 months ago. Two babies, born to two of the women defendants in prison, slept in the arms of their mothers, Mme. Chana Salman and Mlle. Madeleine Mermet, in the courtroom.

Andre Berthon, attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Bercowitz of Montreal, was overruled by the court on a plea for a public reading of the history of soviet spying in France since the war, claiming the alleged activity had taken place before France and Russia reached their present stage of friendliness.

SPY CASES GRIP FRANCE

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 25.—Symbolizing the war time mentality which is daily growing more prevalent in Europe, two sensational spy dramas today were being followed in France with breathless interest.

One is the trial which opened this afternoon at the Palais de Justice of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz.

The other case is that of Berthold Jacob, German emigré newspaper man living at Strasbourg, suspected of being a French secret agent, who was lured to Basel by a Nazi agent provocateur and kidnaped March 9 on Swiss soil by three agents of the dreaded German Gestapo (Geheimstaatspolizei, or home state police) and carried across the border into Germany.

Charged with High Treason.

Today it was learned here that Jacob, imprisoned in Berlin, will be tried shortly for high treason before the special tribunal which recently condemned to death two German women as spies and traitors.

The diplomatic tension has greatly increased the audacity and activity of spies who are being paid for their services almost on a war time scale, while the counter-espionage services of the various European armies have intensified their vigilance accordingly.

Handicapped by the French law which sets the maximum penalty for spying at five years' imprisonment—as against Hitler's ax—the French deuxieme bureau (second bureau, or counter-espionage service) is anxious to frighten off prospective spies by obtaining the maximum punishment for all defendants of today's trial. Only the Switzes seem to have a chance of benefiting from the terms of the law which offers freedom to spies who turn state's evidence, more so since they have already been under detention for fifteen months.

Switz Trial in Secret.

The trial of the twenty-one defendants—that is merely the number present at the trial, several others have not been caught—will resume tomorrow and thereafter will continue on alternate days probably for two or three weeks.

The other principal defendants whom the state hopes to convict, largely due to evidence furnished by the repentant Switzes, are chiefly Madame Lydia Stahl and her lover Louis Pierre Martin.

The Jacob case, which has been filling columns of French papers all week and daily becoming more complicated, at last begins to appear in the true light as a gigantic, tortuous duel of spying and counter spying waged between France and Germany with German refugees serving as the pawns.

The latest and most important development, however, is the news that Jacob was considered by the Nazis as a clearing agent for a big spy ring, that two of his supposed accomplices in Berlin already had been executed and a third was arrested yesterday.

Swiss Make Inquiries.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 25.—The kidnaping of Berthold Jacob by Germans in Basel, Switzerland, and his abduction to German territory was subjected to inquiry by the Swiss minister, M. Dinichert, today. The foreign office admitted Jacob had been arrested on German soil and jailed.

The Swiss plan to file an energetic protest and demand the return of this guest of their country as soon as they have collected more evidence.

BAR TO BE GIVEN MEMBERS' NAMES IN POLICY QUIZ

New York, March 25.—[Special.]—Evidence against more lawyers developed in the current investigation into the policy, vice, and bail bond rackets will be transmitted to the Association of the Bar of the City of New York for possible disciplinary action, District Attorney William C. Dodge said today.

He disclosed that he had had several recent conferences with Thomas D. Thacher, president of the bar organization, and other members of the group, in connection with the transcripts involving six lawyers which he had previously transmitted. A special committee of the bar association is now considering these cases, he said.

Henry M. Ungar, a bail bondsman, was arrested during the day after he had refused to answer questions about an alleged false statement in a magistrate's court, and about the theft of an automobile.

FEDERAL JURORS CONVICT CHASE; LIFE IN PRISON

Outlaw Nelson's Pal Is Guilty of Murder.

Story of the Killing.

The fatal encounter between Chase and Nelson and the two federal men occurred at 4 p. m. on Nov. 27 at the intersection of the Northwest highway and route 63 in the northern outskirts of Barrington. Chase and Nelson, whose real name was Lester Gillis, were accompanied by the latter's wife, Mrs. Helen Gillis.

Earlier in the day the outlaws had been recognized by other federal agents at Lake Como, Wis., five miles northwest of Lake Geneva. These agents informed Cowley at the department of justice headquarters in Chicago that the Nelson party appeared to be headed for Chicago.

First Battle on Highway.

Agents Thomas McDade and William C. Ryan were dispatched to the Northwest highway to intercept the gangsters. They recognized Nelson's automobile, a stolen Ford sedan, but Nelson swung around in pursuit of them and on his orders Chase got the drop on the agents with a rifle. McDade and Ryan fled and shots were exchanged. The agents speeded to Palatine seven miles away and hid in ambush.

Meanwhile Cowley and Hollis in a Hudson sedan had met and passed the gangsters. They turned and gave chase. At the intersection with route 63, near Barrington park, Nelson stopped his automobile, his wife jumped out and hid in the weeds, and the gangsters fired at the agents. Cowley and Hollis returned the shots.

Nelson Is Fatally Wounded.

A few minutes later Hollis lay dead on the south side of the highway, Cowley was dying in a ditch on the other side of the road, and Nelson was also mortally wounded. With Chase driving, Nelson sagging beside him and Mrs. Gillis in the back seat, the three drove away in the agents' car. They took Nelson to the Rev. Father Philip W. Coghlan at the home of the priest's sister in Wilmette, but he refused to take in the dying outlaw.

The next day the government car was found abandoned in Winnetka and the unclad body of Nelson, wrapped in a blanket, was discovered in Niles Center. Cowley died early that morning in the Sherman hospital at Elgin.

Mrs. Gillis was taken into custody a few days later and is now in the federal women's prison at Milan, Mich. Chase was arrested in Mount Shasta, Cal., on Dec. 27.

Green Assails Defense Theory.

In the final arguments yesterday District Attorney Green attacked the defense contention that the federal men had been the aggressors in the gun battle. He said that Chase and Nelson "with malignant hearts and malignant minds went down the road shooting to kill and wipe out everything in their way."

The angle at which the fatal bullet entered and came out of Cowley's body indicated it had been fired by Chase, Green declared.

McMahon said that Cowley and Hollis had died "like heroes, like men in war to protect the American people."

He also disclosed that the reason the government had not called Melvin Purvis, chief of the department of justice agents in the Chicago area, as a witness to tell of Cowley's dying declaration, naming his murderers, was because Cowley had not known he was dying and thus his statement was not admissable in evidence.

Contentions of the Defense.

Defense Attorneys O'Brien and William B. Henry asserted that the agents were the aggressors and fired first without revealing their identities or attempting to make a legal arrest, and that Chase and Nelson returned the shots in self-defense. O'Brien called Purvis "Mr. Green's Man Friday, who killed Cowley and Hollis."

In instructing the jury Judge Sullivan told them that the government did not have to show that Chase and Nelson knew their pursuers to be federal agents, but must prove that Cowley and Hollis were engaged in the performance of their duty and believed they were in danger when they fired.

In regard to the self-defense plea, the court informed the jurors that if Chase believed he was "in great danger of bodily harm, he had the right to repel force with force."

TELLS OF CARRYING WEAPONS TO NELSON IN COAST HIDEOUT

San Francisco, Cal., March 25.—(AP)—Secret meetings with "Baby Face" Nelson were described today by Joseph "Fatso" Negri, who pleaded guilty and turned state's witness in the trial of persons accused of harboring the late gangster before he was slain by department of justice agents.

Negri told of carrying weapons to Nelson, of the gangster's meetings with John Dillinger, later killed in Chicago, and of "Baby Face's" flight from the law. He told also of meeting John Paul Chase, Nelson aid.

Negri identified the remaining nine defendants on trial after the government had consented to dismissal of charges against three persons.

The government dismissed charges against Arthur R. Pratt, jeweler of Helena, Mont.; William Schivo, San Francisco bail bond broker, and Ralph Rizzo, San Francisco bartender.

Those on trial are Anthony Moreno, Mrs. Grace Perkins, Louis Tambini, Thomas C. Williams, Henry O. Hall, Eugene Mazet, Frank Cochran, Frankie Fields, and Vince Markovitch.

'STRONGEST CASE' FOR NRA TO BE DROPPED BY U. S.

Washington, D. C., March 25.—[Special.]—The Belcher case, regarded as the government's strongest test case involving the constitutionality of the NRA and all New Deal legislation, will be dropped, it was learned today.

Official request to the Supreme court for leave to abandon this case, the only test before the highest court, is expected shortly from the office of Stanley Reed, who was inducted as solicitor general of the United States today. The government lawyers who have been preparing the case were represented as "heartbroken."

Inquiries developed that the decision to abandon was made at the White House. The reason assigned was that it was along the line of policy laid down when the NIRA was passed, first suggested by Donald Richberg and Prof. Felix Fraukfurter of the Harvard law school, that a Supreme court test should be held off until a solid background of achievement had been built up.

The Belcher case was the one case which it was expected would "make or break" regulation of industry by the government. The court's decision upholding it would "clear the decks" for enactment of future NRA legislation and disapproval would mean retreat from permanent legislation along the line now contemplated.

JUDGE ADVISES FIRM TO FLOUT NRA QUESTIONS

Oklahoma City, March 25.—(AP)—Congress has no right, Federal Judge Edwar S. Vaught declared today, to decide what business is interstate and what is intrastate.

He advised business men engaged in intrastate commerce to refuse to answer NRA questions about their business.

Judge Vaught's remarks were made from the bench as he refused an injunction against NRA officials on the ground his court had no jurisdiction.

The Colbert Mill and Feed company of Oklahoma City sought to enjoin John B. Ewing, state compliance officer, and U. S. Attorney W. C. Lewis from enforcing code provisions against it. The action, Colbert attorneys said, followed an order from NRA to show cause why additional wages should not be paid to three former employés.

SENATORS HEAR CODE PARTIALITY TO BIG PLANTS

Garment Group Charges Unfair Control.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 25.—[Special.]—The story of how the NRA code authority for the cotton garment industry exercised complete control over the entire industry, although it represented only one segment, was laid before the senate finance committee today by Francis M. Curlee, St. Louis clothing manufacturer.

Large manufacturers in Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, and Rochester controled the appointments to the code authority and, with the aid of Sidney Hillman, head of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' union, made rulings unfavorable to small, non-union shops, Curlee charged. Hillman is now a member of the NRA governing board.

Describes Factional Fight.

Curlee painted a picture of the garment industry in which he showed the Clothing Manufacturers Association of the U. S. A., known as the U. S. A. association, backed by Hillman's union, fighting against the smaller manufacturers banded together in the Industrial Recovery Association of Clothing Manufacturers, of which Curlee is counsel.

Dr. Lindsay Rogers, while he was NRA code administrator, set up the code authority in such a way that the U. S. A. association, despite the protests of the Industrial Recovery association, was allowed to appoint all the industrial representatives. The U. S. A. association was even allowed to say who should represent its rival, Curlee pointed out. He said he had refused to serve on the code authority because he would have been serving on the "sufferance" of his rivals.

Claims Figures Were Withheld.

Instances in which the code authority had refused to give him, as the representative of the Industrial Recovery association, statistics which had been compiled from all members of the industry were cited by Curlee. He said that these same figures were given through the code authority to the members of the U. S. A. association.

Curlee, whose correspondence was subpenaed by the committee Friday on the suspicion that he had been running a lobby against the NRA, turned over all his documents today. They were held confidential for the time being.

TWO GIRLS KARPIS LEFT BEHIND HIM GET 5 YEARS EACH

Miami, Fla., March 25.—[Special.]—At a brief secret hearing Federal Judge Halsted L. Ritter today imposed sentences of five years' imprisonment on Dolores Delaney and Winona Burdette. They are the girls Public Enemy Alvin Karpis left behind him when he and a companion machine-gunned their way out of Atlantic City, N. J., on Jan. 21.

They were named in five indictments charging them with concealing and conspiring to conceal Karpis and to conceal the fact that he was in Miami while federal agents were hunting him in connection with the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker.

Their hearing previously unannounced, the women were hurried before Judge Ritter. A cordon of federal agents, armed with machine guns and revolvers, guarded them. Forty minutes later the convicted women were taken away from the federal building to an undisclosed destination.

"Brine" Serves Double Purpose for "Pickling"

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 25.—(AP)—A drink of this "brine" would "pickle" a man. Police raided a café suspected of selling liquor, but found none at first glance. Then a detective sniffed at a gallon pickle jar. The pickles were floating in whisky.

PERU LAUNCHES CLEANUP DRIVE TO HALT PLAGUE

[Copyright, 1935, By the New York Times.]

LIMA, Peru, March 25.—Merchants may no longer squat on the ground with their goods displayed before them in this city's central market. Sales must be made from stalls raised at least two feet off the ground, and food and clothing may not be sold at the same stall.

The raising of poultry or live stock in houses in the market district is forbidden.

Although bubonic plague has dropped from fifty to three cases a year since 1931, its complete elimination requires a drastic cleanup of the market area, in the opinion of the Pan-American health bureau.

FINANCE

Provision was made for maturities during 1935 and the greater part of those occurring in 1936 through the sale of $50,000,000 Fifty-year 4¼% General Mortgage Bonds due July 1, 1984. Thus 4¼% securities will largely replace the 6½% securities coming due.

In accordance with financial arrangements made with the Public Works Administration to enable the Company to complete its electrification program and purchase new freight cars, electric locomotives and steel rails, the Company sold to the Government $23,490,000 Thirty-year Secured 4% Serial Bonds, $15,525,000 Fifteen-year and $6,068,000 Twenty-year 4% Equipment Trust Certificates and $3,648,000 Ten-year Secured 4% Serial Notes. The Company expects to pay off the latter in 1935 out of its own funds.

The net increase in the investment in road and equipment for the entire System was $37,672,536.

IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM

Electrification for passenger service between New York and Washington was completed early in 1935. It is expected that the entire project will be completed and in full operation during 1935. This will include through electrical freight operation from the New York terminals to Potomac Yard, south of Washington, electrification of large freight yards, several branches and connecting freight lines and related improvement work between New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington.

The completed work embracing 1405 miles of track electrified for both passenger and freight service will provide the most modern means of transportation to the populous and steadily growing metropolitan areas in the territory along the middle Atlantic seaboard and for the through traffic between the South and New England. It represents approximately 45,000,000 man hours of employment on the railroad and in the supply industries and the expenditure of many millions of dollars for the products of American industries.

During 1934 progress continued on improvement projects in Philadelphia, Newark, Baltimore and Chicago while important additions and betterments were completed or progressed at other points.

NEW AND IMPROVED EQUIPMENT

Ten electric switching engines and one electric passenger locomotive were received and placed in service, and two experimental electric passenger locomotives were delivered. Eighty-four electric passenger locomotives and four electric switching locomotives were ordered for delivery in 1935. Of these 57 are of a new streamline design for passenger service, the most powerful of their kind ever built, capable of maintaining a regular operating speed of 90 miles per hour with trains of standard size and weight. The Company built 7,000 new freight cars at its own shops and purchased 99,967 tons of steel rail. 45 cars for passenger service were converted for electric operation in multiple unit electric trains in suburban service. Air conditioning was installed in 30 additional dining cars and 79 additional coaches.

BETTER SERVICE

High speed passenger service was still further improved by more convenient schedules and greater comfort and the running time of a number of important trains between Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, Cleveland and the East. An additional fast train, the "Fort Dearborn," was placed in service between Chicago, Philadelphia and New York. More comfortable service on through trains between the principal cities of East and West was provided during the summer by air-conditioned coaches, dining cars and Pullman cars which supplemented similar equipment in service on all trains between New York, Philadelphia and Washington. The Company operated approximately 700 such cars, the world's largest fleet of air-conditioned equipment.

The Company's regularly scheduled freight trains continued to maintain a record of fast dependable transportation. Collection and delivery service of less-than-carload freight, inaugurated experimentally on December 1, 1933, has proved so satisfactory and increasingly popular, that it has now become a permanent feature of the service.

EMPLOYES WAGES

During the year the railroads of the country, including this Company, entered into an agreement with the employes as the result of procedure provided for in the Railway Labor Act, under which 2½% of the 10% deduction in wages (which had been in effect since February 1, 1932) was restored on July 1, 1934 and 2½% on January 1, 1935. The remaining 5% will be restored on April 1, 1935, so that the basic rates of pay to employes which had been in effect prior to February 1, 1932, will have been fully restored.

STOCKHOLDERS

Capital stock of the Company, at the close of the year, was owned by 232,998 holders, a decrease of 5,878 compared with December 31, 1933. The average number of shares held by each shareholder was 56.5.

The continuing efforts of the employes to operate the railroad successfully under prevailing adverse conditions can be materially aided by the Company's stockholders and bondholders who are in a position to secure additional traffic and thus increase revenue. Their active interest in getting people to travel and ship via the Pennsylvania Railroad and thus promoting the business of their Company is again cordially solicited.

MEXICAN BANDIT GANG SETS FREE KIDNAPED YANKS

Fowler and Vremsak Unharmed but Weak.

AGUASCALIENTES, Mexico, March 25.—(AP)—Two Americans were released unharmed by their bandit kidnapers today after days of imprisonment in the mountains of Zacatecas state as their rebel captors fled before hard pressing federal troops.

Mark Folwer, mining engineer and his assistant, Joaquin Diaz De Leon, and Louis Vremsak, California treasurer hunter, returned to civilization this afternoon, weakened by their experiences.

Fowler and De Leon had been held captives for ten days while Vremsak was taken three weeks ago. Associates of Fowler refused to discuss the kidnaping except to say "Fowler is all right," but Vremsak gave a vivid account of his experiences.

Relatives Arrested.

The three were freed, he said, because federal troops were rapidly closing a ring around the rebels and because 20 of the kidnapers' relatives living nearby were imprisoned by government soldiers and threatened with death if the Americans were harmed.

Mrs. Mary McKinney, a young California widow who is associated with Vremsak in the treasure hunt, who had returned to Zacatecas with funds to pay the ransom, was taken into custody by authorities, it was understood, pending an investigation.

Vremsak said he, Mrs. McKinney, and an interpreter were captured March 4 and she and the interpreter were released the following day to obtain ransom.

"A band numbering about 100 took me into the mountains, allowing me to ride my pack horse," he said. "I spent the entire three weeks living underground during days and the nights riding to escape our pursuers.

"About a week ago I was lying in a cave when I hear some one say, 'Hello, Mr. Vremsak.'

Food Runs Short.

"I answered, 'My God, is that you, Fowler?' and the kidnapers pushed Fowler and De Leon down along side of me.

"As the pursuit got hotter the rebels had more difficulties obtaining food and took the supplies I carried, leaving me little to eat.

"Last night they released us, giving Fowler and De Leon one horse and leaving me mine. We rode 16 hours to Calvillo, Zacatecas, then Fowler and De Leon went to their mining camp and I continued here. I had just recovered from a severe fever when kidnaped and now am very weak, but expect to continue to Mexico City after four or five days of rest."

Vremsak said the chief of the kidnapers described himself as "Don Juan Villarreal, military commander of the army of the revolution," and told him the band was "fighting for the liberation of Mexico."

It is composed of Indians, well armed with Austrian, German, and American rifles, the Californian asserted.

Falls 125 Feet from Bridge

Harry Evans explains his plunge from a San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge pier to the waters of San Francisco bay to his nurse. "Boy, I was glad when I hit the water and not the concrete," he said. "Right away I thought how lucky it was I could swim. I never lost consciousness until they brought me in because I was able to catch the rope they threw me." Doctors said Evans would recover. ANARCHY CHARGE IS PROMISED IN HARLEM RIOTING

Seize Papers Urging Revolution.

New York, March 25.—[Special.]—District Attorney William C. Dodge waved a handful of seized pamphlets today and promised additional indictments in the Harlem riots.

"Some of these indictments," he said, "will be for criminal anarchy."

"Why, some of these pamphlets expressly recommend the overthrow of the United States government. I'm after certain people who are responsible for them. I can't tell you what's in the pamphlets, but they're hot stuff."

Return One Indictment.

The grand jury, however, returned only one indictment during the day and this was for nothing spectacular. It accused a colored youth of breaking a store window in Harlem and stealing two rolls of paper and a package of paper napkins.

Six men were arraigned in General Sessions on charges of burglary growing out of the riot. Five pleaded not guilty and were continued in bail, while the sixth case was adjourned until March 28.

Dodge said the grand jury, which is investigating the riot, also is considering recommending new legislation "defining" free speech in public.

Would End Revolution Talk.

"There is no suggestion of limiting freedom of speech," he said. "But there is more than a suggestion that irresponsible agitators should be prevented from goading thoughtless people toward the overthrow of the American form of government by violence.

"Deportation may prove the proper remedy."

Sixteen men have been indicted for inciting mass violence and four of them—the ringleaders, according to Dodge—are to be arraigned in Harlem court.

OPEN TRIAL OF 24 FOR CONSPIRACY IN BUS VIOLENCE

Jury Selection Is Begun; Expect Long Delays.

Trial of twenty-four men charged with conspiracy and assault with intent to murder in connection with the violence that accompanied the strike called last Aug. 16 against the Chicago Motor Coach company, was opened yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge Donald S. McKinlay. The list of defendants is headed by Ralph Stoltzmann, president of the striking bus drivers' union, local 1022, and Joseph J. Kehoe and William Taber, officials of the street car men's union.

Taber and Kehoe were acquitted by a jury on Feb. 2 in a separate trial, in which they were charged with complicity in the murder of James J. Kelly, a bus dispatcher, who was slain Sept. 27 while strike violence was at its height.

Begin Selection of Jury.

First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley; his assistant, Mal Coghlan, and the defense attorneys began yesterday to select the jury. Since each side will be allowed 240 peremptory challenges it is expected it will take at least two weeks to complete the jury.

With 203 prosecution witnesses alone to be heard the trial may extend into July and set a new record for lengthy Criminal court trials.

The defendants are charged with having participated in a conspiracy to "drive the public off the buses" by hurling steel pellets through bus windows and through other acts of violence aimed at intimidating bus passengers. Mrs. Mary Kennard, 65 years old, a passenger on a south side bus, died on the same day Kelly was slain, a few hours after she was struck on the head with a pellet hurled through a window, and more than 200 other persons were injured in the course of the strike.

List of Other Defendants.

Five others, also under indictment, but who were granted separate trials in order that they can testify for the state, are Albert and William Semple, Earl Renner, Lloyd Slee, and Wayne Hoover.

MAIL FLYER HIT IN DARK BY WILD DUCK; HE ALMOST CRASHES

Kansas City, Mo., March 25.—[Special.]—Knocked unconscious last night when he was struck in the head by a night-flying duck, Art Mills, airmail pilot for Braniff Airways, Inc., regained his own and his airplane's equilibrium in time to land at Burlington, Ia., and then to resume his scheduled flight to Kansas City.

To prove his unusual story, Mills brought the remains of the duck with him to Kansas City.

When Mills climbed from his plane this morning at the field here, it was found he had received a slight cut on his throat and his face bore several scratches. The duck lost its head and one wing.

BAR AMERICANS FROM WAR ZONE, LATEST PROJECT

Washington, D. C., March 25.—(AP)—A plan to keep Americans at home during wars abroad to prevent such incidents as the loss of American lives in the sinking of the Lustiania was attributed to the Roosevelt administration today by an informed source.

A senator discolsed a White House anti-war profits conference last week had discussed a plan for a virtual embargo on passports and possibly munitions at such a crisis in the future. Only persons with compelling reasons for travel, the senator said, would be permitted to run the risks.

The disclosure of the contemplated embargo followed a prediction by Senator Borah [Rep., Idaho] that the United States would not be involved in any European conflict.

RELIEF GRANT TO RADICAL SCHOOL STIRS CITIZENRY

Cumberland Folk Plan a Strong Protest.

Tracy City, Tenn., March 25.—[Special.]—Dull rumblings of resentment against the radical doctrin preached by leaders of the Highlanders Folk school, an admittedly socialist institution near here, have taken on proportions of a storm of indignation with reports that the school has been allotted a $7,000 grant through the Tennessee Emergency Relief administration.

While attachés of the school deny that the institution is to be benefited by the grant and claim that the $7,000 is for a "coöperative movement," the people of the Cumberlands are insistent the money will only add to the increasing spread of radicalism in this vicinity.

Citizens To Make Protest.

Determined to prevent any expansion of the movement launched at the mountain school a few years ago by Myles Horton, the recognized head of the institution, and a group of young "free thinkers," a resentful citizenship in this vicinity is reputed moving to start a "storm of protest" that will "blow the folk school off the mountain."

The absence of Horton from the school complicates the mystery which cloaks activities of the institution. Horton, who has figured prominently in a number of labor disorders in east Tennessee, is reported to have married a young student at the school and taken his bride on a honeymoon.

Others intimate that Horton's "vacation" is carrying him to broader fields in the rôle of agitator. Recently representatives from the school participated in a demonstration which resulted in a riot at the Davenport Hosiery Mills plant at Daisy. During the George Washington birthday parade there five persons were shot, including a young woman from the school.

Says "School Not in Session."

Horton's absence apparently has left the institution without a recognized leader. Youths sprawl around reading and tell visitors "school is not in session."

Those at the school now are living apparently without cash. They care for the property—a farm, cows and the like—with every student and faculty member having a specified chore or duty, it is explained.

Citizens here express the belief that the "coöperative" which would be benefited by the $7,000 grant is simply that of the Highlander Folk school.

Writ Is Issued for U. of C. Instructor in Support Case

Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan issued a writ of attachment yesterday for John Carver Anderson, an assistant instructor in psychology at the University of Chicago, after Anderson had for the second time failed to appear in court. Mrs. Beatrice Anderson, 1403 East 54th street, who divorced Anderson last month, declared her former husband owes her $150 on the $10 a week he was ordered to pay for the support of their two small children.

"... and yet last year I saved over $36 ON MY AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE"

"That's 20% less than I'd ordinarily have paid on my Buick sedan. . . . And on your big Cadillac, Frank, your saving by insuring in the American Mutual would have been around $46, and you could have had a very convenient budget plan if you had wanted it."

"Do you mean to say that automobile insurance rates aren't all pretty much alike?"

"The initial rates are practically alike — standard . . . yes. But what the different companies do with their 'profits' is what counts in determining the net cost to the insured. Most liability insurance companies of today are 'stock' companies — operating mainly for the profit benefit of stockholders. This Company I'm in is a mutual company — the oldest, strongest and one of the largest of its kind in the world. . . . It shares its profits with its policyholders."

"How do you know it can continue to make such substantial returns?"

"Huh! This Company has been paying policyholders' dividends of 20% or more per year ever since it's been in existence — which is nearly half a century. That's assurance enough for me!"

"What's the big secret of this extraordinary record?"

"What about service facilities?"

"Say, this Company's got offices in fifty-two cities, and claim adjusters who are Johnny-on-the-spot when an accident is reported."

COUNTY'S ROADS AND BRIDGE TAX BOOSTED 331-3%

8 Cent Rate Is Fixed as Budget Necessity.

BY HAL FOUST.

Cook county's roads and bridges tax rate for 1935 has been raised to 8 cents on each $100 assessed valuation on realty and personal property, it was learned yesterday. This is a 33 1-3 per cent increase over the 6 cent rate of last year and a decided jump from the all time low of 1⅞ cents in 1933.

The tax hike is necessary to finance the budget passed by the county board with little discussion [at least little discussion in the open meetings] of the expense items listed by the county highway department. Commissioner Daniel Ryan, chairman of the roads and bridges committee, defended the increase yesterday with statistics to support his contention that the boost is necessary.

The county roads and bridges tax was 12.5 cents, the legal maximum, in 1930. The next year, with the department receiving $4,250,000 from 1 cent of the gasoline excise, the rate was lowered to 5 cents. Then, in 1932, with a surplus from the previous year, the tax was cut to 2½ cents. In 1933, with much public agitation for lower realty taxes, another slash dropped the rate to 1⅞ cents.

"The 1933 rate resulted in a heavy deficit," said Commissioner Ryan. "County highway employés went payless for many months. And then interest payments on relief bond issues took most of the gasoline tax revenue so that the realty levy had to be raised to 6 cents in 1934.

"The 8 cent rate for 1935 will produce approximately $1,700,000 revenue. This is the only money the county will have available for maintenance and repair of 400 miles of pavement, for snow removal, for signs, for attorneys' fees in damage suits, and to pay judgments for damages from highway construction. It is the only money available for drafting plans, for engineering services, and for the purchase of new equipment.

Expect No Surplus.

"Speaking of equipment, the county highway department's trucks, snow plows, graders, and similar machinery are all from seven to twelve years old. There won't be any surplus from the 8 cent tax this year."

In addition to the property tax, the county receives $1,226,000 from the gasoline tax for roads. The other $3,224,000 originally assigned for Cook county roads is diverted for interest due on the relief bonds. The department can also expect to receive $600,000 this year from the state in refunds for state aid construction and it might receive part of $1,200,000 due from the state for county pavements laid on state bond issue routes.

All of the gasoline tax money and the refunds must be spent for construction. None can be used for maintenance, repairs, engineering, property damage, and such expenses that must come from the property levy, according to Commissioner Ryan.

If the legislature permits the county to collect $1,800,000 in refunds from the state, the department will have $3,026,000 for construction this year. Some of the projects being planned for work this year are as follows:

ARCHER-AV.—35th-st. to State-st.
COLFAX-AV.—95th-st. to Anthony-av.
COTTAGE GROVE-AV.—79th-st. to 75th-st. and 95th-st. to 87th-st.
CLYBOURN-AV.—Division-st. to Western-av.
DIVERSEY-AV.—Crawford-av. to Milwaukee-av.
FOREST-AV.—Prairie-av. to Rosemear-av.
GUNNISON-ST.—Narragansett-av. to Austin-av.
IRVING PARK-BLVD.—Crawford-av. to outer drive.
ORLEANS-ST.—Austin-av. to Division-st.
76TH-ST.—Racine-av. to Vincennes-av. and St. Lawrence-av. to Cottage Grove-av.
SACRAMENTO-AV.—Roosevelt-rd. to Carroll-av.

The cost of the work is estimated at $2,200,000. Plans are being drafted for additional pavements.

BOY AUTO THIEF HURT IN CRASH; 3 PALS SEIZED

A 14 year old automobile thief was perhaps fatally injured last night and three of his companions were captured by police after the automobile which the boys had stolen for a joy ride was overturned at Armitage avenue and North Paulina street.

The injured boy, Stanley Stesanowski, 1945 North Winchester avenue, was taken to the Bridewell hospital. He incurred a fractured skull and broken collar bone, and it was doubted he would live.

Two boys with him, captured when they fled from the wreck, are Adam Millinowski, 15 years old, 1921 North Winchester avenue, and Joe Kascilny, 14 years old, 1933 North Winchester avenue. They named the fourth boy as William Nolan, 19 years old, 3700 Southport avenue.

Nolan is a "tough guy," the boys said, and had sworn not to be captured alive. Undaunted by the melodramatic tale, police captured Nolan at his home without any fuss. Nolan had a loaded pistol under his pillow, but made no attempt to use it.

News of The Tribune Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

Field Work Next Week

March 25, 1935.

GENERAL preparations are being made to begin work in the fields early next week if the weather continues favorable here at The Tribune experimental farm near Yorkville.

Oats sowing is first on the spring schedule. One hundred and ninety-four acres of oats will be sown on the farm this season. Early, medium and late varieties will be sown, requiring about 680 bushels of seed oats. For early oats 75 bushels of the Gopher variety will be sown, and for the late variety 110 bushels of Silvermine will be used. Then about 495 bushels of Iowar, a medium variety, will be sown.

The Thurow brothers, who are operating the farm, sow from 3 to 3½ bushels of oats to the acre. All of the oats sown on the farm this year will be broadcast.

Both teams and tractors will be used. Two four horse teams will be used in disking the ground before it is seeded and then with a tractor-drawn disk the ground will be double disked. On fifty acres red clover seed will be sown and harrowed in. A mixture of red clover, timothy and Lespedeza will be sown on twenty-five acres of the oats ground. Then on twenty acres Hubam, an annual sweet clover, will be sown. This will be plowed under later as a soil builder.

Dehorning calves and docking lambs was one of the jobs at the farm last week. The horns were removed from 39 head of calves and the tails of 30 Southdown lambs were cut off.

Twenty-one bushels of Webb's Will County Favorite seed corn have been tested for germination and disease at Yorkville during the last week.

John Wallner, head gardener at The Tribune auxiliary experimental farm near Wheaton, started two flats of pyrethrum seed in the greenhouse today. The seed was gathered from wild plants in Persia and sent here last fall by a correspondent of THE TRIBUNE. Pyrethrum is used in making insect poison. An effort will be made to bring the plants to maturity in this climate.

Yesterday Mr. Wallner sowed the seeds of the following crops in hotbeds: Radishes, scarlet globe white tips, to be kept in the hotbed until they are ready to eat; parsley, double curled; broccoli, Italian green sprouting; cauliflower, Danish snow for early crop and dry weather for late; kohlrabi, white Vienna; lettuce, big Boston for early crop and New York for late; onions, crystal white; tomatoes, crimson cushion or beefsteak, and marigloba; endive, full hearted; cabbage, Jersey for late crop and winter or Hollander.

Heat is produced in the hotbeds through the fermentation of a twelve inch layer of fresh manure. Material is also banked up around the outside of the hotbed frames to protect the tender plants.

Irrigation Scheme Is Called Futile.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, March 25.—A serious issue developed today involving the Saratsi irrigation project in Suiyuan province northwest of Peiping, on which more than $1,000,000 already has been spent. The engineering commission sent here under league of nations auspices ruled that the project was impractical, recommended that work be discontinued and the funds diverted to other enterprises.

The enterprise involves diversion of the waters of the Yellow river. It was started in 1928 by a San Francisco engineer, O. J. Todd, who is a graduate of the University of Michigan.

U. S. Funds Used.

This project was fostered by the China International Famine Relief commission, with offices in Peiping and New York, with funds largely raised in the United States. Recently the China National Economic council, a sort of NRA, investigated the Saratsi scheme and declared:

"Practical results are disappointing." It recommended discontinuance.

The league of nations' engineering commission, which investigated the project on behalf of the national economic council, was composed of Italian, Dutch and British engineers allegedly familiar with large scale irrigation enterprises in various parts of the world.

Promises Airing.

Todd, who made the surveys and directed the work for a period of seven years, is indignant over the decision to abandon the enterprise and denies the money was wasted. He announced his decision to air the entire issue before the annual meeting of the Society of Chinese and American Engineers scheduled for April.

Todd also stated that he had submitted a memorandum on the situation to official quarters, and charged that the league of nations is responsible for "political engineering rather than hydraulic engineering."

Newspaper in Mexico City Suspended by Government

MEXICO CITY, March 25.—(AP)—The newspaper La Prensa, a morning tabloid which claimed the largest circulation in Mexico, was closed today by a judicial order pending liquidation. Unofficial reports were that the government prompted the move because of displeasure at policies of La Prensa. Miguel Ordorica, newspaper man well known in Havana and New York, resigned last week after the paper's circulation had doubled to 85,000 within a year.

HURT BY SAND BAG; DIES.

John Nielson, 65 years old, casual, who lived in a relief shelter at 1310 South Ashland avenue, died yesterday at the County hospital of a fracture of the skull incurred, he said, when a bag of sand fell on him while walking somewhere in the loop on March 20.

NEW OVERCOATS, CAPS ISSUED TO PARK POLICEMEN

The Chicago park board yesterday issued 375 new overcoats and caps to policemen of the old Lincoln and west parks forces. The new outfits are on the south parks police pattern, which was adopted as standard by the commission. New uniforms will be issued April 15, it was announced by James U. Sammis, chief of the Lincoln park force, who gave out the new apparel.

The most noticeable change was in the caps and badges. Heretofore officers of the two police forces have worn the Pershing cap, while the new one has an octagonal top. Badges, formerly nickle plated, are now chromium plated, with the officer's number and the words "Chicago Park District" in blue letters. The new uniform will consist of slacks and a double breasted coat, patterned after that worn by the New York police force.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 32; recovered, 22; stripped, 5 [from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Sunday].

They take all sorts of remedies with high-sounding names. They clutter home and office with bottles and spoons, and all sorts of preparations.

When one little thing they could tuck in a pocket might have straightened them out in a hurry!

Years ago, a man named Pape discovered a simple way to relieve distress due to acid stomach. Diapepsin, in tablets that are just eaten like candy, has brought happiness to thousands who thought they had a "weak stomach."

If you have distress after meals, any acid discomfort at all, your stomach is probably slow in emptying. If you relieve this condition with Pape's Diapepsin, you can eat with more enjoyment!

Try it! Carry the pocket tin and take a tablet or two after meals until your digestion is "clicking" and all that sourness is gone. Pape's Diapepsin; remember the name.

SICK—just when you need him most!

SICK—when you need a cost analysis or other important figures in a hurry! Too often at a critical time an employe to whom you look for such records or quick studies is absent—ill with a cold.

Winter and summer, the largest air conditioning system of its kind maintains ideal atmospheric conditions in offices in Tribune Tower. Every tenant enjoys washed and humidified air, properly cooled or heated according to season and recommended medical standards.

The character of the Tower has caused it to be preferred by professional men and business firms who seek an address of distinction and quarters of the finest type.

Air conditioning is typical of the service maintained in Tribune Tower—at rents no higher than asked elsewhere. Every office has full outside exposure. Elevators, newly installed, are all steel, high speed, commodious.

An office in Tribune Tower puts the world's most famous business address on your letterhead. Every copy of the Chicago Tribune, every announcement over WGN, augments the prestige of this location.

THE RATE for space in Tribune Tower is lower than that asked for space in many buildings which do not provide air conditioning and similar advantages.

33 States Represented in First National Exhibit.

The National Homeworkshop Guild opened its first exhibition yesterday in the exhibition halls of Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., 211 E. North Water street. Amateur craftsmen of 33 states present 1,500 handicraft exhibits. The show will end Saturday.

One "artist" displays a game table fashioned from 76,339 pieces of colored wood. Another shows a miniature violin. A third offers a motor driven wet grindstone, made from salvaged materials. Others have made furniture, lamps, clocks, and toys.

Fort Dearborn Lives Again.

When business slowed up in the pattern making trade last summer, Roy J. Olsen, 7825 Burnham avenue, betook himself to his workshop. There, from an airplane picture, he reconstructed a scale model of the Fort Dearborn group at A Century of Progress Exposition.

For the log buildings he used some 3,000 tiny strips of pine, glued together and stained a dark brown. The shingled roofs he carved by hand. A 13 starred American flag, floating from its high staf in the center of the quadrangle, is carved from wood.

Safety matches formed the medium in which Fred Spinden of Abingdon, Ill., chose to work. From the matches, bound together and shellacked, he made a shining yellow box farm wagon, a frying pan, coffee and tea pots.

Intricate Work, Rare Materials.

The youngest exhibitor is 16 years old, and the oldest is E. L. Burton of Elmira, N. Y., who is 71. Mr. Burton's exhibit takes up less than three inches of space. It consists of a piece of black velvet, on which is mounted one hand-turned steel pin.

NOBLE BRINGS COUNTERCLAIM IN LIQUOR CASE

Rochester, N. Y., March 25.—[Special.]—Denying he diverted 78,000 gallons of alcohol for beverage purposes, Charles L. Noble, head of the Clyde Products company, today filed a counterclaim against the government seeking $205,173 for damages he alleged resulted from a raid by alcohol tax unit agents Feb. 6.

The denial and claim were contained in his answer to a libel action instituted by United States Attorney George L. Grobe for the alcohol tax unit.

Noble charged that the government is in unlawful possession of his plant and that tax agents made an unlawful seizure. On Feb. 15, shortly after he obtained a $25,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to advance his business, Noble applied for relief to pay his debts under section 74 of the bankruptcy law.

Because of the alleged unlawful seizure, Noble claims he was put to "substantial damage" to the extent of $205,173, inasmuch as his property was destroyed, and what remains of it now is under detention under a process of the libellant. He also asserts that his business has been ruined.

In addition to damages to personal property, Noble listed as having been destroyed 310,437 gallons of vinegar in process, valued at $40,356; 75 generators, valued at $75,000, and damage to real property and machinery at $50,000.

MRS. HAUPTMANN HERE; MAY CLOSE COLLECTION TOUR

Police Seek Means to Halt Meeting.

The middle western tour of Mrs. Anna Hauptmann to raise a defense fund for her husband, Bruno, condemned slayer of the Lindbergh baby, appeared yesterday to have reached an end. City officials were prepared to halt her massmeetings if legal means can be found, and Mrs. Hauptmann expressed a desire to return to Brooklyn and her infant son.

The Hauptmann "troupe" arrived yesterday at the Municipal airport by the United Air Lines from Detroit, where police Sunday night halted Mrs. Hauptmann when she attempted to take a collection at a massmeeting.

Can't Find Hall for Meeting.

Mrs. Hauptmann, modishly dressed in a brown tweed spring suit, was accompanied by her manager, Arnold Weber, New York attorney, and Mrs. Weber. In her suite in a loop hotel, Mrs. Hauptmann said she was disappointed in the Detroit meetings and wished she could go home.

Despite the reluctance of Mrs. Hauptmann to continue the tour, Attorney Weber sought unsuccessfully yesterday to find a hall, sponsors for a meeting and additional speakers. Milwaukee is the next scheduled stop on the swing through the middle west.

"Plea for Maudlin Sympathy."

"This is a just a plea for maudlin sympathy," Assistant State's Attorney Charles Dougherty, successful prosecutor of a number of murder and kidnaping cases, said. "The public cries for law enforcement, but when officials do their duty, the fickle public turns quickly to aid the criminal on the tearful plea of his wife."

Police Commissioner Allman announced that any attempts by Mrs. Hauptmann to hold a massmeeting here will be opposed by police if legal grounds can be found. Assistant Corporation Counsel Otto F. Weiner said that permission to hold the meeting in a licensed hall was not required, but that if admission is charged by the defense fund committee, police may be able to interfere.

BREACH OF PROMISE SUITS ARE PROHIBITED IN MINNESOTA BILL

St. Paul, Minn., March 25.—(AP)—Damage suits based on alienation of affections and breach of promise to marry would be outlawed in Minnesota under a bill introduced in the state senate today by Harry Wing.

The measure is similar to acts passed in Indiana and other states, Wing said, adding that his move is designed to "bar rackets on human affections." It also outlaws "any attempt conducive to extortion and blackmail with human affections as the basis."

Hiring girls under 18 and boys under 21 to work in beer taverns, night clubs, or similar establishments would be prohibited under a house bill passed by the senate today.

The senate killed a bill to repeal the five day wait between application for and issuance of marriage licenses.

Bachelor Would Bar Balm.

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 25.—(AP)—A bachelor member of the Oklahoma senate started action today to get before the legislature a bill to outlaw heart balm suits. Senator W. C. Fidler of Oklahoma City asked the attorney general, Mac Q. Williamson, to prepare the measure, and Williamson wired for a copy of the Indiana bill.

375 Lb. Boy Giant 8½ Feet Tall Has an Infected Foot

St. Louis, Mo., March 25.—(AP)—Robert Wadlow, 17, Alton, Ill., boy giant, was resting tonight in a hospital here. The youth is suffering with an infected foot which physicians said developed from a blister caused by his heel rubbing on a rubber shoe cushion. Young Wadlow is 8 feet 1½ inches tall and weighs 375 pounds. His condition was not regarded as serious.

Pilot and 5 Passengers Die in Plane Crash in Mexico

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, March 25.—(AP)—The five passengers and the pilot of an unidentified airplane were killed tonight when it crashed and burned near Jalapa, state of Vera Cruz. Efforts to identify the plane were unavailing tonight. It was assumed it was off its course.

HOPES TO CHECK DUST STORM BY EARTH BARRIERS

U. S. Aid Offered as New Peril Appears.

Kansas City, Mo., March 25.—[Special.]—New dust storms rolled over Oklahoma and parts of Colorado, Kansas and Missouri today, adding to the drouth ravages already running into the millions. But nowhere did they compare with those of last week.

Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas was assured in Washington today the government is ready to start an emergency "anti-dust storm" program. The plan considered involves a system of "strip listing," the building up of high earthen barricades at regular intervals to keep soil from blowing. One expert said that would remove land from grazing or cultivation for a century or more.

Better in South Colorado.

Meanwhile, many of the areas in the path of the "black blizzard" enjoyed some relief. In southeastern Colorado, where farmers were abandoning homes and making plans to move out half starved herds of cattle, fairly clear skies gave them fresh hope of rehabilitation for the first time in two weeks.

Oklahoma farmers who had prayed for rain got their wish today, but in such torrents it caused flooded roads and fields. And following the downpour the worst dust clouds of the day cruised over that state.

A few drops of rain fell in Kansas. Nebraska also had rain over the weekend and balmy weather today. Texas was bright and clear. The scattered rainfall was insufficient to lay the loose soil.

"Ill Wind Blows Good."

While farmers suffered to the point of abandoning the afflicted region, the dust storm was no ill wind for a construction company that had a contract to move 10,000 cubic yards of earth in a county road project near Hutchinson, Kas.

Workmen had just loosened the ground when the swirling storm struck. When it had passed the contractor's work was done for there was nothing to move.

GET AROUND BAN ON LOVE SUITS IN LOEW'S CASE

New York, March 25.—[Special.]—Mlle. Collette Francois' $100,000 suit against Arthur M. Loew, heir of the Loew theatrical millions, for which the petite Parisian actress will arrive here tonight on the liner Paris, promised today to get around the McNaboe-Byrene bill baring heart balm actions.

The 21 year old unwed mother's lawyer, Bernard H. Sandler, was arguing a motion before Supreme Court Justice Philip J. McCook. The lawyer waved aside any right to sue Loew for breach of promise.

"Breach of promise is out, so far as we are concerned," Sandler told Justice McCook. "Regardless of what the French law may be on the subject, our own law is being revised by the McNaboe bill and I'm in favor of it. But there are other actionable causes in this case—a 17 year old girl was debauched and seduced and left with a child to support. That's enough, and I'm perfectly willing to amend the complaint along some such lines."

Justice McCook approved of this arrangement and it was agreed that Mlle. Francois' amended complaint will be filed immediately so the trial may start on schedule Friday.

FLOOD KILLS FOUR; AVALANCHE WRECKS MOUNTAIN HOUSE

Welch, W. Va., March 25.—[Special.]—Four persons were drowned, others injured and many forced to flee for their lives from landslides and floods in this area today.

Rain swollen mountain streams overflowed in Welch streets, filling basements and virtually isolating this town. Telephone communication was disrupted and schools were closed to permit pupils to hurry to their homes.

The lower floor of the Welch Emergency State hospital was inundated, forcing the removal of approximately 100 patients to the second floor. Most of the patients are miners who were injured in accidents in the nearby coal mines.

The town's power plant was put out of operation and the hospital, other institutions and homes faced a night without electric lights. That would be a hardship chiefly for attendants and patients in the hospital, which virtually was surrounded by water. The hospital is situated in a hollow at the junction of Brown's creek, a turbulent mountain stream, and the Tug river.

Policemen rescued J. S. McWhorter, marooned on a little island in the Greenbriar river near Lewisburg, after four persons, including his wife and daughter, whom he was unable to help, were drowned.

STORMS SWEEP NORTHWEST AREA —4 PERSONS DEAD

Seattle, Wash., March 25.—(AP)—Dust, snow, and rain struck various parts of the Pacific northwest again today after causing a death toll of four lives. Another person was believed to have drowned.

One of the heaviest snowfalls of the year blocked highways and disrupted telephone communication in north central Idaho. More than 43 automobiles were reported stalled in Burke canyon near Wallace.

Five passengers of a Spokane-Seattle bus were cut by glass when a falling tree struck the bus during a blizzard in Snoqualmie pass in the Cascade mountains.

Mrs. A. A. Peterson, 41, of Yakima was killed near Vantage, Wash., when the car in which she and her husband were riding skidded in the snow and turned over. Her husband was not expected to live.

Two Killed in North Carolina.

Raleigh, N. C., March 25.—(AP)—Tornadoes and lightning today killed two men in North Carolina, which also was swept by hailstorms.

House Strikes at Plan for N. Y. City Owned Plant

Albany, N. Y., March 25.—[Special.]—The Mandelbaum-Crawford bill, which Mayor La Guardia asserted contained a "joker," hitting at plans for a city owned power plant, went through the assembly tonight by a vote of 110 to 30. The measure was approved despite the mayor's declarations that it clipped the wings of the city, on the eve of a reported visit of the mayor to Albany tomorrow.

LIKENS NAGGING OF HIS WIFE TO FILE ON WIRE NAIL

Milwaukee, Wis., March 25.—[Special.]—His wife's nagging was like the rasping of a steel file on a wire nail, Walter Koessler, former bank cashier, told Judge August Braun today in seeking a divorce from Mrs. Florence Koessler.

Judge Braun pondered the ephemeral nature of human happiness as he recalled a day in June some ten years ago when, in a private ceremony at his house, he had pronounced the Koesslers man and wife. The judge said he would rule on the divorce tomorrow.

Declares Wife Scolded.

Some of the arguments in the Koessler household, it appeared from the husband's testimony, arose from his being an ardent golf player. Frequently his wife would scold him because dinner had to wait his return from the links, Koessler said. On the other hand she would keep him waiting rouging and powdering when he strained to get in front of the bathroom mirror for his daily shave.

Differences over financial deals also caused hard feeling, the court was told. One of his real estate deals fell through, Koessler said, because his wife refused to sign a deed for jointly owned property.

Koessler stated in this connection in addition to his monthly salary of $270 as cashier with the Commercial State bank he had been earning substantial fees as receiver for over 90 different properties. After giving up his bank position, he operated a resort up north for a while, but lost everything, the witness said.

Calls Him Too Taciturn.

Mrs. Koessler, an attractive brunette, denied all of her husband's charges.

"I couldn't have quarreled with him had I tried," she said. "He was too taciturn of mind and refused to speak with me for days at a time."

THE SURRENDER OF CORN WALLACE.

Secretary Wallace has lifted all restrictions on spring wheat acreage. His action is a confession and a surrender. It says, more forcefully than words can say it, that limitation of production, that creation of artificial scarcities which is the cardinal economic policy of the administration, is a reckless and unscrupulous gamble with the public welfare as the stake.

Unfortunately, Corn Wallace's surrender is not a complete one. He is afraid to go ahead with his wheat restrictions, but he will continue to play for the same stakes in cotton, corn, hogs, and whatever other products he can get his fingers on. Less to eat and less to wear and materially higher prices for food and clothing are his objectives. He hopes that he will not create shortages so severe that starvation will result. What he is aiming at is hunger in moderation, just a little pinching of the bellies of the poor.

He pictures himself a kindly man and frequently quotes from scripture. He hopes, perhaps he even prays, that the drouths will not be too severe and the parasites too numerous. But always he pares down the planted acreage toward the danger mark. The winter wheat acreage, from which the larger part of America's bread comes, is so pared today and nothing can be done about it at this late hour. Nature has not smiled on the Wallace gamble and he is now trying to minimize the losses by lifting restrictions on planting in the spring wheat belt. The action he has taken proves, if any proof were needed, the essential recklessness of his program.

Every one knows men and women of the gambler type. They risk their own welfare and that of their families for the thrill of it. Corn Wallace and his associates in this administration of super-gamblers get all the thrills without any of the personal risk. They will never suffer hunger and want. They will be comfortable as long as taxpayers can be found to foot the bills. When a Wallace gamble fails, for whatever cause, it is the obscure, the forgotten, man and his family who suffer. However severe the dust storms may be, Corn Wallace will continue to eat regularly, and he will continue to ride about Washington in a handsome automobile bought for him by a grateful nation.

This country never had so sanctimonious a figure presiding over the department of agriculture. Incidentally, it never had a President who spoke so disdainfully of Wall street and La Salle street gamblers. And never before in the nation's history did any one have serious reason in March to fear that hunger might stalk the land the following winter. Before the present administration took charge in Washington the nation had every confidence in the ability of its farmers to feed it despite all the ravages that drouth, hail, rust, and the chinch bug might work. We never had known famine. But that was before the pious super-gamblers had started to play with the nation's food supply as the stake.

AIR MAIL EARNINGS.

The controversy arising from air mail contract cancellations, Mr. Farley's accusations of skull-duggery within the airplane industry, the army's signal failure to supplant the service previously rendered by the commercial air lines, and new air mail legislation have occupied such a prominent place in current events as to convey the impression that huge appropriations are involved. To a public that has become inured to the expenditures of the various branches of our misplaced alphabet the total sum is really insignificant. On March 4, 1935, Harllee Branch, second assistant postmaster general, made the statement that the cost of the air mail service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935, would be approximately ten million dollars. Of this amount it is estimated that the government will recover through the sale of stamps approximately seven million dollars, leaving a total out of pocket cost to the government of only three million dollars to maintain a nation-wide air mail service.

But even this statement is misleading in that we are prone to regard the three million dollars as a subsidy to the airplane industry. There are many routes—e. g., Chicago-New York, Chicago-Los Angeles, New York-New Orleans—that are actually on a paying basis, the government, through the sale of stamps, receiving nearly twice as much as the operator is paid for flying the mail. On the other hand, the postoffice department has established a number of services between smaller towns. These routes are operated at such heavy losses as to absorb entirely the profits produced by the paying flights and in addition incur the deficit of three million dollars estimated by Mr. Branch. We have a perfect parallel in R. F. D. versus city mail service. The one is supported by the other.

So while we are discussing the matter of air mail, air passenger service and the finest fleet of aircraft in the world, let us not overlook two outstanding facts: First, the insignificant sum that our air lines are costing us, and, second, that it is spoils politics which is being subsidized, not the air line that performs the service.

NIGHT CLUBS IN FIRE TRAPS.

The facts regarding the fire in the Club Rendezvous in Morton Grove defy belief. Here was a flimsily constructed frame bungalow which had been remodeled for use as a night club. The main entrance was narrow and the door opened inward. There was only one other door and its existence was not known to the cabaret's clientele. A hundred persons were permitted to crowd into two small rooms, both of them cluttered with tables. Inflammable draperies added to the danger. Under the circumstances it is remarkable that the number who lost their lives when the building caught fire was no greater.

The lesson of this fire should not be lost upon police officials in Chicago. Since the repeal of prohibition hundreds of night clubs and cabarets have been licensed in Chicago. Many of them are located in old buildings and in basements, perhaps because the public became accustomed to such places in speakeasy days.

A careful inspection of all such premises is indicated. Overcrowding must be forbidden. Flimsy draperies should be torn down and, above all, adequate exits must be insisted upon. Plainly, one exit is insufficient and all exits should be marked, as they are in theaters, with illuminated signs of distinctive character.

RE-ELECT ALD. NORTHRUP.

The farcical character of Mayor Kelly's opposition in the present mayoralty "campaign" makes certain that thousands of independent voters will fail to go to the polls on April 2. In the city at large this is a matter of little practical concern, but in the Nineteenth ward there is a danger that by such inattention to their own interests the voters may rob themselves of the intelligent and valuable services of Ald. O. E. Northrup.

Ald. Northrup, seeking reelection after six years in the city council, finds his record during that period his best recommendation. His faithful attention to his duties [he has never missed a regular council meeting and has been active in committee work] has borne fruit in an impressive list of improvements obtained for his ward. His intelligent interest in wider affairs has made his services of equal value to the rest of the city.

It cannot be emphasized too strongly that no administration, however efficient and well intentioned, can deprive itself of informed criticism without suffering thereby. That Ald. Northrup's occasional opposition to the majority group in the council has been based on honest weighing of the matter at hand, rather than mere obstruction, is best illustrated by the number of times he has voted with the majority, particularly on Mayor Kelly's economy proposals. His record is such as to commend him to all voters of his ward, regardless of their national or local political affiliations.

QUACK JUSTICE FOR QUACK DOCTORS.

Recently Municipal Judge Eugene J. Holland completed the trials of three quack doctors, brought before him by the state department of registration and education, and imposed upon them the minimum penalties provided for practicing medicine without a license—fines of $100 each.

The medical quack is a peculiarly dangerous variety of confidence man. He not only defrauds his victim of money but robs him as well of health, and sometimes of life itself, by preventing the victim from getting the care of a reputable physician when it is needed. The maximum penalty, a year's imprisonment, which is provided for the offense is certainly not too harsh.

After pronouncing the minimum sentences (which the defendants are appealing) Judge Holland had the temerity to praise his own findings as "deterrents to the continued illegal practice of medicine." They were no such thing. The publicity given the activities of the three fakers may have warned the public against them, but the judge had nothing to do with that.

His fines merely have the effect of declaring the state in on the illegal and shameful profits of the trio. They smack of the hypocritical practice which some communities have of fining their prostitutes and gamblers at regular intervals, thus collecting an extralegal license fee on illegal business.

Editorial of the Day

[Minneapolis Tribune.]

The Arizona legislature has authorized Gov. Moeur to send a representative to Washington, at a salary of $7,500 a year, for the express purpose of soliciting favors from the federal treasury. With billions being distributed to the states, Arizona has become jittery contemplating the horrific thought that it might somehow be overlooked in the allocation of federal funds. Consequently it will dispatch an ambassador extraordinary to the court of Secretary Morgenthau with due instructions to negotiate, with proper diplomatic finesse, for bigger and better federal handouts. As Gov. Moeur puts it: "Our business with the federal government is increasing all the time, and we want to share any government money that is to be passed around. When I ask for something I want a man there who can stay on the job until the request is granted."

Whether this indicates that Arizona's two senators and one representative have been loafing at the public trough we do not know. Until now no state has deemed it necessary to create the job of official grabber at Washington; it has simply been assumed that the state's delegation in congress, supplemented by an army of unofficial pleaders for federal bounty, was sufficient to cope with any emergency.

But Arizona is making doubly certain. There is too much at stake to take unnecessary chances. It is going to keep a man in the Washington lineup, at a cost of $7,500, who will guarantee not to fumble when the state is on the treasury's 10 yard line.

We have no doubt that the gentleman in question, whoever he may be, can earn his salary if he is steadfast and conscientious in his duties. Arizona, perhaps, will set a fashion which the other states will follow with whoops of glee. Meanwhile, however, the taxpayer will scarcely be blamed if he casts a melancholy eye toward Arizona. For what he perceives is the spectacle of a state spending $7,500 a year in tax money in order that it may dig a little deeper and a little more persistently into the taxpayer's already badly flattened purse.

How our ideas do change with the years! Time was when we sat almost breathless in the astronomy class when the teacher said: "Young people, have you any idea of the distance between the earth and the sun? I will tell you—93,000,000 miles! Yes, 93,000,000 miles!" And we'd sit stunned trying to think how far 93,000,000 miles was. And before we could pull ourselves together the teacher would say: "And do you know how far it is from the earth on which you live to the planet Jupiter? No, you do not know; I will tell you. The distance is variable, but when we are nearest to Jupiter it is 367,000,000 miles and when we are farthest from Jupiter the distance is just exactly 600,000,000 miles! 600,000,000!" Some of the girls in the class would faint and the boys would fall against the ropes and almost take the count. "And Saturn," the teacher would continue; "do you know how far Saturn is from the sun? No, you do not. I will tell you. It is 886,000,000 miles away!" Well, when she said that we just couldn't stand it. It was too enormous, too terrible! We'd just break down and sob and cry and stagger out of the room white and trembling.

But, pooh, for days and days we have been reading that the money Mr. Roosevelt wanted for his work relief bill was 4,800,000,000 dollars. And the senate passed the thing Saturday and we've repeated it over until the 93,000,000 miles that it is from the earth to the sun is nothing at all. If there was a highway running to the sun we would start out and hitch hike it in no time. And 367,000,000 miles or so to Jupiter and only 886,000,000 miles from the sun to Saturn.

But compared to the 4,800,000,000 dollars we're going to spend on work relief those figures are nothing whatever. I feel right now like going over to a vacant lot and getting a half brick and when Jupiter or Saturn went past I'd sling it at 'em. Once they scared me to death because they were so far away, but I've got used to big figures now and the sun and Jupiter and Saturn seem so close that I wouldn't be surprised a bit to bump into 'em the next time I drove my car across the Indiana state line.

POEMS FOR LENT.

I.

How blind they are who will not choose to see
Who mourn the passing of fair Galilee,
The mystic wonders of some ancient year,
Who hail the the fresh today but with a tear!
In distant times, they say, men worshiped God
With humble hearts, and knelt in prayer sincere,
But now, forsooth, they spurn His chastening rod,

How blind they are! The Savior walks today
In every town where striving mortals meet;
He still companions, on His busy way,
With John and Peter, and with weary feet
He oft seeks Bethany for converse sweet.
Nay more. For every soul who gave Him praise
By Jordan or on some Judean street,
Unnumbered thousands now their voices raise

II.

And chaos threatens empires and their kings,
While men of strength lie stricken in the wreckage,
And men of wisdom cease their utterings,
While darkness menaces man's puny striving,
And new-born terror haunts the land and sea,
And calls to His disciples, "Follow Me."

III.

The centuries, since Christ to earthland came,
Have been aflame
With His fair fame.

The nations that have fallen in decay
In sad tones say,
"His is the Way."

And in this age of turpitude and blight,

STONES OR CALCULI.

MANY of us can recall the momentous day when grandfather was operated on for stone in the bladder; or perhaps the occasion when a neighbor returned from a sojourn in the great hospital in the city and proudly displayed a stone nearly as large as a hen's egg.

Stones in various parts of the body are not as common as they were, except in the case of gallstones. Occasionally, however, stones form in the bladder, the kidneys, the prostate, the salivary glands or ducts, and the intestine.

Many of our most eminent characters suffered for years with stones in the bladder. Among these may be mentioned Chief Justice Marshall, Benjamin Franklin, and the great English physician Sydenham. Toward the close of his life Franklin said that he suffered from three incurable diseases—stone in the bladder, gout, and old age.

In England in the 18th century there were so many cases of bladder stone that in 1739 parliament was persuaded to purchase from Joanna Stevens a remedy which she claimed would dissolve calculi of all sorts. Parliament paid to Mrs. Stevens the sum of $25,000, and her recipe, which was published in the London Gazette in that year, was shown to consist of a mixture of eggshells, garden snails, swine's cresses, soap, burdock seeds, hips [fruit of the dog-rose], and haws [fruit of the hawthorn]. Remedies well nigh as ridiculous are probably available today.

Within recent years much attention has been given to the factors causing the formation of these deposits of mineral matter, and it has been found that if dairy products form a large part of the diet stones are far less common than when the daily food intake is high in cereals, especially rice. From this observation and from studies on experimental animals the conclusion has been reached that a generous supply of vitamin A [found in greens, carrots, and milk] will have a tendency to prevent the deposit of mineral matter.

These experiments apparently confirm the findings of physicians in many parts of India and Burma, where bladder stones of huge size are found even in very young children. In these localities the mothers live on a markedly deficient vitamin diet and their children are in consequence deprived of these needed food substances.

Many authorities believe that whenever there is a deficiency of vitamin A changes in the lining cells of the urinary tract occur and upset the normal concentration of urine. They conclude that vitamin starvation acting primarily upon the thin cellular lining deranges the type of secretion and forces the urine to throw out of solution certain calcium salts.

It is well known also that stones may form as the result of prolonged rest in bed, as for example, in children suffering from tuberculosis of the spine and in individuals who are compelled to remain in a recumbent position because of the slow healing of fractures. Most of these stones are found in the kidney and are probably due to a change in the chemistry of the urine, resulting in a deposit of calcium salts. With the patient flat on his back the kidneys drain poorly. Furthermore, the stream from the kidneys is not of sufficient force to wash away mineral crystals.

Because of better understanding of the importance of vitamins the diet of most people contains today a very much larger amount of vitamin A than formerly. We are eating more vegetables and drinking more milk. Prevention of stones rests with a proper diet or a diet reinforced with cod liver oil or viosterol.

BROKEN ANKLE.

H. B. writes: I fractured my ankle bone last Christmas and have been going to a physician since. I had a cast on for four weeks and since removing it have been taking heat treatments. I have been able to walk with crutches, but when I try walking with a cane the pain is too great. How long will it be before I can walk without pain?

REPLY.

Fractures of the ankle are exceedingly slow in healing and even slower in weight-bearing. This is easy to understand when you realize that in walking the ankle joint bears the weight of the entire body. You will greatly accelerate recovery by using heat and by rubbing the ankle and moving it gently up and down and sidewise with your hands. At first the motion will be very slight, but you will be able to increase it gradually. Coconut oil or cocoa butter may be rubbed into the skin. When you go to bed at night use an electric heating pad or hot water bottle, taking care not to burn the skin.

PROPERTY OWNERSHIP.

Chicago, March 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—This involves a mortgage on a home. The original papers were signed by our mother and father. Father died. Mortgage was renewed, the papers being signed by mother alone. Mother died and the mortgage has two more years to run. There are four children, all of age, and we have been keeping up the payments of interest, taxes, repairs, etc. We have been advised that if we do not wish to probate same [1] we can leave it as is for seven years and at the end of the time it will be ours. 2. After seven years will that establish our identity as the legal heirs, as would be true if we probated same? 3. Can a mortgage be renewed under the present situation? 4. Also, what is this seven year idea, if my understanding of same is not correct? A. C. N.

1. While there is no statute fixing this seven year period, some Illinois court decisions have suggested that by analogy a seven year limitation period should be regarded as applicable to the claims of creditors against unprobated estates.
2. No, but you may be able to satisfy a future purchaser with an affidavit as to the facts on heirship or you could establish heirship by a comparatively simple proceeding for that purpose under a special statute.
3. This is for the mortgagee holder to say.

From Across the Sea

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN.—How the German Labor Front, the "world's biggest organization," with its more than 20,000,000 members, spends its vast revenues has been detailed by its leader, Dr. Robert Ley.

The Labor Front has an approximate annual income of $120,000,000. The average monthly fee paid by each member totals 60 cents. The membership dues are on a sliding scale corresponding to the income of each member. Ley claims the average fees are only half of what the Socialist trade unions collected from their members in pre-Hitler days.

Despite this reduction of the membership fees, Ley declares that the Labor Front has taken over all obligations of the old trade unions to their members. He claims the labor organization is spending $32,000,000 a year for old age pensions, unemployment relief, and other charitable enterprises.

Administration costs rank as the second biggest item in the yearly budget. They amount to $28,000,000, or 23 per cent of the total revenues.

For vocational training the Labor Front spends $16,000,000 a year. Another $9,000,000 was spent in 1934 for dwellings for workers engaged in the construction of automobile highways and for the "winter help." An item for $3,000,000 on the Labor Front budget is listed for "philosophical training of the functionaries of the Labor Front."

For the "strength through joy" movement the organization contributed $8,000,000 in 1934.

Dr. Ley, who is also head of the "strength through joy" movement, announced that in a few years he hoped to be able to send every industrial worker on a vacation trip every second year.

THE FARMERS AND THE DOLE.

Lawrenceville, Ill., March 22.—The average farmer—and particularly the prosperous farmer—while not as vociferous as some other classes of business men, is usually pretty well "sot" against the dole—"relief" to you.

He will tell you he has to work hard for what he gets, and perhaps trot out the old "dawn to dusk" gag. During certain short seasons he does put in very long hours. However, at any time except the very busy weeks of planting and harvesting he can always take a day off to go to town or go fishing or hunting. The fully employed workman in industry, on the other hand, must follow the clock, rain or shine, the year round. It is doubtful that the average farmer puts in many more hours of work during the year than other full time workers.

His criticism of the dole seems open to question, because he is a beneficiary of the dole in its worst form. Through AAA payment the farmer receives a dole not merely for refusing to work when work is available [a practice he would strongly condemn in others], but actually for destroying food which is sorely needed.

Other classes of workers must be down in the gutter with their faces in the mire before they can hope to receive even the miserable pittance which barely keeps them alive. Not so the farmer. He does not have to be face to face with starvation to get a dole. In fact, the more prosperous he is—the bigger producer he has been—the greater the dole he receives. In addition to this, he gets much higher prices for his production.

The worst feature of this arrangement is that other persons without income are heavily taxed through the greatly increased prices of meat and other farm products [some of which cost three times their lowest prices] to pay a dole to farmers, many of whom are not only in comfortable circumstances but are actually prosperous.

The small farmer, who may be in as bad a position as the unemployed industrial worker, gets no benefit [or practically no benefit] from the AAA setup, because he is not in a position to destroy badly needed food or cotton. Even the farmer has to be reasonably prosperous to get a worthwhile share of this dole of the AAA.

It would seem that the farmer, if he wants to criticize the dole, should pull in his ears and get off the dole himself.

LOCAL OPTION AND BROKEN WINDOWS.

Chicago, March 20.—In view of the recent attack by hoodlums on the home of a family in the 44th precinct of the 7th ward, where the question of saloons in a residential neighborhood was recently taken to the polls, it might be well to clarify the matter for other voters who vote on this question at the April election.

The people responsible for getting the question on the ballot are parents and home owners who would like to see their community remain a fit place for children to grow up in. As it is now, children in the 44th precinct have to pass three saloons on the way to school. They return home with the news that somebody has been sick or that there was a fight or that a drunken person was lying around. Drink befuddled men come out of such places and drive cars away. This would seem a logical place for our safety drive to start.

One does not need to be a dry or a reformer to resent such conditions. It is a matter of preserving what has always been a quiet home neighborhood. The rental of stores in such neighborhoods is low, so that saloons can be set up without great expense. These saloons do not cater to family trade, but to loafers who hang out at these places to play the gambling machines and think up mischief such as the throwing of rocks through the windows of the people who have worked to remove the saloons. It is time that thinking people sweep aside political party loyalty and private prejudices and get together on the real question: Is the saloon, that both political parties pledged should never return, to ruin our home neighborhoods and debauch our young people?

SPEAKING OF UTILITY RATES.

Loretta, Wis., March 19.—The attention of our President, the congress, and all of the American people has been directed by the senator from Louisiana to what is going on in the postoffice department. What I would like to know is why does our President not clean house in one of his own governmental public utility businesses first before he directs his Democratically controled congress to destroy a legitimate business which never increased the cost of its service to the American people as the postoffice department did two and one-half years ago when they increased the letter postage rate by 50 per cent. The American people had no regulatory commission or court of justice to appeal to in order to check up on the government utility to see whether or not such a very large increase was waranted.

PICTURES IN COLOR.

Chicago, March 20.—Every son and daughter of Ireland owe THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE a vote of thanks for the beautiful picture of St. Patrick which it published and sent to our doors on St. Patrick's morning and another one just as exquisite a year ago, and should acknowledge their appreciation in some form or another.

I do not confine myself to the above pictures. The many beautiful reproductions which are published the year round put THE TRIBUNE in a niche by itself and call for congratulations from the general public.

SOUP DEPARTMENT.

Chicago, March 19.—There must be something radically wrong when your correspondent Mrs. Smith pays 33 cents for a soup bone and still cannot get a pot of soup for her family. To begin with, Mrs. Smith should never buy soup bones by the pound. A 10 cent soup bone will make plenty of soup if cracked and cooked properly with the right amount of seasoning and vegetables. For 15 years I have used 10 cent soup bones and am proud of my soups. There is a trick to every trade—even the housewife's. CONSTANT READER.

COUNTRY BRED TEACHERS.

Chicago, March 19.—This thing should be brought to public notice: Our children are being taught by strangers. I allude mainly to our high schools. The majority of our teaching personnel are made up of country bred people. Can an individual reared among cattle effectively teach city youth? He cannot, and, consequently, he does not.

This situation is due mainly to one cause—the board of education's requirement of two years' teaching experience. Let me explain: The country bred can get this experience in their own home towns; the city bred cannot get this experience, because small town school boards are prejudiced against city bred applicants.

This protest may be put in another way: Our high school teaching personnel is largely made up of individuals who do not pay and never did pay taxes to the city. F. J. P.

THE SLOGAN CHANGED.

Chicago, March 21.—After listening to a lot of preelection hooey by the Democratic candidates, I am now sadly disillusioned. Before election their slogan was "Come up and see me some time," but now, after they are secure in office for four years, their byword is "They shall not pass." The array of $150 a month office boys blocks your way.

LAVENA SALES BOOSTED 97%

141 WEST JACKSON BOULEVARD
CHICAGO

February 2, 1935

Mr. Robert Barker
Chicago, Illinois

Dear Mr. Barker:

In these times, when the launching of a new business seems to require unusual methods, we feel that it is only fair to express our appreciation of the part that Tribune advertising has played in the success of the Lavena Corporation.

Lavena is an oatmeal facial preparation, and as such depends on advertising to the same degree that other cosmetic products find themselves dependent on that form of promotion.

Therefore, we are fully aware of the significance of the statement that the placing of a schedule of advertising exclusively in the Tribune was an important development in the history of this Company.

Our start was made in Chicago. Until the middle of 1934, we had depended largely on other advertising media.

In July of that year, we decided to concentrate our appropriation in the Chicago Tribune.

Our sales in Chicago and suburbs immediately showed that this decision was wise. In fact, shipments increased 97% during the last half of 1934 over the first half.

Distribution and sales in points within a night's ride of Chicago also showed very definite increases.

The support of key outlets was enthusiastic. As a whole, the territory known as the Chicago zone yielded a sales volume that fully justified our belief that we could follow this same method in opening other markets.

We are therefore happy to give credit where credit is due. There can be no doubt regarding the influence of the Chicago Tribune among women, retailers, and wholesalers. Given a product worthy of consumer support, Tribune advertising will certainly deliver that consumer support.

The best proof of our reaction to last year's campaign in the Tribune is the fact that the Tribune is again carrying a substantial Lavena schedule in 1935.

Very truly yours,
Dain D. Fuller
President.

NOTE: Circulations are averages for six months' periods ended September 30, and for city and suburban only

"DISTRIBUTION and sales in points within a night's ride of Chicago also showed very definite increases," writes President Fuller of Lavena Corporation. "As a whole, the territory known as the Chicago zone yielded a sales volume that fully justified our belief that we could follow this same method in opening other markets."

LAVENA, a new oatmeal facial preparation, was launched in the Chicago market in 1933. Until July, 1934, the makers of the new product concentrated their advertising in media other than the Tribune.

Last July they decided to overhaul their advertising plans. They discontinued other forms of advertising and gave the entire job to the Chicago Tribune, daily and Sunday. With the exception of a single 234-line advertisment in one other Chicago newspaper last September, Lavena advertising has appeared exclusively in the Tribune since July, 1934.

"Our sales in Chicago and suburbs immediately showed that this decision was wise," writes Dain D. Fuller, president of the Lavena Corporation. "In fact, shipments increased 97% during the last half of 1934 over the first half."

Thus another advertiser adds his testimony that the most effective, most economical advertising strategy in the Chicago market today is concentration in the Tribune. Tribune rates, daily and Sunday, per 100,000 circulation are among the lowest in the country.

Lavena's advertising in the Tribune alone proves beyond question the influence of this newspaper among women, retailers and wholesalers. Because the Tribune has the volume of circulation and the reader interest it has the selling impact which enables advertisers to get maximum results in this market.

In Chicago and suburbs alone, the Tribune on weekdays reaches more than 640,000 families. This is a 68% greater coverage of the metropolitan market than any other Chicago daily newspaper delivers. And on Sundays, the Tribune reaches an additional 290,000 families of the same responsiveness to advertising, living in cities and towns adjacent to metropolitan Chicago.

Ask a Tribune representative—or your advertising agency—to help you work out plans for taking greater advantage of the sales power which the Tribune offers you in this market.

DEPARTMENT STORES in 1934 placed more advertising in the Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper. Toilet goods and drug sections of Loop (downtown) department stores last year placed more advertising in the Tribune than in all Chicago afternoon newspapers combined.

MORE WOMEN in Metropolitan Chicago read the Tribune than read any other Chicago newspaper. Because women prefer the Tribune, it today has the coverage and influence which yields greatest returns for advertisers.

BECAUSE THE TRIBUNE has influence with women, it naturally has influence with dealers who know that a Tribune campaign means quickened turnover, bigger profits. As a result, drug stores, medical and toilet requisites advertisers place more advertising in the Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper.

HEIRS GIVE OLD PATTEN MANSION TO UNIVERSITY

Will Be a Memorial for Wheat King's Wife.

The stone Patten mansion at 1426 Ridge avenue, Evanston, for more than 30 years a landmark of the north shore, was turned over yesterday to Northwestern unversity by heirs of the late James A Patten, millionaire "wheat king," and of his wife. The building will become a memorial to Mrs. Patten, who was for many years a generous contributor to the university.

The mansion was deeded to the university by John Patten of Miami, Fla., and Mrs. Agnes Patten Wilder of Santa Barbara, Cal. Use of the old home has not been determined by the university, but it may become a clubhouse for faculty members.

Includes Half City Block.

In addition to the mansion, which was built by Mr. Patten in 1903, the gift includes the grounds occupying a half city block bounded by Lake street and Asbury and Ridge avenues. The property is ten blocks from the university campus.

"Northwestern university is most appreciative of the gift of the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patten," President Walter Dill Scott said, in accepting the gift. "Although active in public affairs, Mrs. Patten expressed her personality and generosity in her contacts with individuals in her home. This structure will remain as a memorial to a generous benefactress of the university."

$2,000,000 to University.

From 1905 until his death in 1928, Mr. Patten gave nearly $1,500,000 to the university, including the Northwestern university gymnasium, known as Patten gym. Since his death, the university property including the gymnasium and fracternity quadrangles has been named the James A. Patten memorial campus.

Additional gifts made by Mrs. Patten before her death last January raised the contributions of the Patten family to Northwestern above $2,000,000. Although the will of Mrs. Patten did not bequeath the mansion to the university the heirs said the gift was made to satisfy the wishes of the family.

A. M. FOSTER'S WILL PROBATED; $75,000 TO KIN

The following other wills were also admitted to probate and filed with Clerk Mitchell C. Robin:

DOROTHEA S. FAUROT, died Feb. 10. Estate, $45,000; to Henry Faurot Jr., husband and executor.

LEO A. LaROCQUE, died Oct. 11. Estate, $20,000; to sister, three nephews, four nieces, two grandnephews, and three grandnieces, Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, executor.

FREDERICK WIEBKE, died Dec. 12. Estate, $10,000; to son, daughter, four granddaughters, and two grandsons. Merle D. Wahlstrom, executor.

FUNERAL RITES HELD FOR FLYER JIMMY COLLINS

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., March 25.—(AP)—James H. Collins, daring test pilot who died Friday when his airplane fell apart in a power dive, was given an avaitor's funeral today in a hotel ballroom overlooking this airport.

The brief ceremonies were read by the Rev. Frank Curtis Williams, pastor of the Whitestone Methodist Episcopal church, a lifelong friend of the aviator. In his eulogy the minister, speaking of Collins as "Jimmy," told of their boyhood in Warren, O., of their attendance together at Akron university, Akron, O., and of their initiation as fraternity brothers in Lambda Chi Alpha.

About 100 persons attended, many of them aviator friends of the flyer who had planned to end his hazardous career after the flight which proved fatal. The services were punctuated also by the droning motors of more than twenty airplanes which circled and dove overhead in tribute.

The closed coffin was taken to the Fresh Pond crematory and Collins' ashes will be scattered over the airport Thursday from an airplane.

DRUMMER BOY IN THE CIVIL WAR IS DEAD IN ELGIN

Samuel J. Gifford, a drummer boy in the civil war and son of the founder of Elgin, died at his home in that city yesterday of pneumonia. He was 85 years old and missed participating in the 100th birthday of Elgin, to which he had been looking forward, by one week.

Mr. Gifford was born in Grafton, Wis., in 1849, during a period when his parents temporarily left Elgin during a fever epidemic. He ran away from home three times in 1864 to enlist in the 153d Illinois infantry, finally succeeding after his father, Hezekiah Gifford, tired of returning him home. He was then 15 years old. He saw service at the battles of Signal and Lookout mountains in Tennessee and marched with Sherman to the sea.

After the war Mr. Gifford worked for many years on the now defunct Elgin weekly, Every Week, and for a number of years as Elgin correspondent for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. He was for forty-eight years a member of Veterans' post 149 of the G. A. R.

Services will be held today at his home, 909 Highland avenue. Burial will be at Bluff City cemetery in Elgin.

RITES TOMORROW FOR N. J. RAUEN, CHURCH BUILDER

Funeral services for Nicholas J. Rauen, 66 years old, 1763 Highland avenue, well known as a builder of Catholic churches, will be held at 9:15 a. m. tomorrow from the chapel at 245 West North avenue to St. Gertrude's church. Mr. Rauen died in his home Sunday.

Born in Germany, Mr. Rauen came to Chicago 49 years ago. He had been president of the Math. Rauen Construction company, 326 West Madison street, for several years. Among the larger structures erected by his company were the Cudahy library at Loyola university and the Church of the Immaculate Conception in Springfield. Mr. Rauen also built several Catholic churches in Chicago.

He was formerly president of the Catholic Casino Singing society, and was active in the Knights of Columbus and the Catholic Order of Foresters. His wife and two daughters survive.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Maj. Edward Bowes' amateur hour, which made its network debut on NBC at 7 o'clock Sunday evening, is likely to provide Eddie Cantor, who is on CBS at the same time, with some competition. Maj. Bowes is sponsored by the same concern that formerly had Cantor on this spot on NBC. Bowes is the man who started the amateur craze while with WHN, a local station in New York. Bowes is an artist. He handles his shows far more deftly than any of his imitators. His wit, sympathetic treatment of talent, sunny microphone manner, and quick, sure judgment on sleazy performing lend a lot of charm to this show.

At the instance of the sponsor more than 30,000 listeners, 8,500 from Chicago, telephoned their selections of the best performers during the broadcast. Nice business for the telephone company, and a swell mailing list for the advertiser.

When Al Jolson takes to the air as the headliner of the new NBC chateau series on Saturday, April 6, Victor Young's orchestra will furnish the music. Young has been featured on many a sponsored network show since he was conductor of W-G-N's studio orchestra a few years back. Jolson has picked Benay Venuta, an eye filling songstress from the west coast, as chief vocalist for the show. Each week there will be guest entertainers from the stage, screen, or sports world.

Well established in radio are the "Singing Lady" and "Lady Esther." Now there's another lady—the "Problem Lady" of the new "What Would You Do" program on WMAQ. The "Problem Lady," a potential feminine counterpart of CBS' "Voice of Experience," is played by Maxine Garner, [Mrs. Louis Nelson], young free lance actress, who made the news columns last fall when she had a baby without missing her daily performance in a CBS serial. The microphone was moved to her bedside.

Countess Olga Albani, star of Chicago's "Silken Strings" program, will be a guest soloist with Frank Black and his 90 voiced symphony of the air on "The Pause that Refreshes" on Friday, April 12. . . . Erna Phillips, author of "Today's Children," is writing the Eddie Guest script, "Welcome Valley," which will have its première tonight. . . . Jacques Fray and Mario Braggiotti, CBS two-piano team, will play their first local engagement at the Chicago theater beginning Friday. Cross and Dunn, formerly on Rudy Vallee's hour, will be there April 12 and Morton Downey on April 26.

Patricia Ann Manners, who plays the lead in W-G-N's "Pat and Her Boy Friends," is writing another new show titled "Dog Tales" whose leading characters are Peekaboo and Muggsie, her own cat and dog. Les Tremayne and Bob Jellison appear with her in the feature, which is at present heard at 6:45 p. m. Tuesdays over WTAM, Cleveland, and WDAF, Kansas City under the sponsorship of a Chicago packing concern. There may be a local outlet soon.

G. C. MACGUIRE, BUTLER CHARGE FIGURE, DIES

New York, March 25.—[Special.]—Gerald C. MacGuire, bond salesman whom Maj.Gen. Smedley D. Butler mentioned as the man who "approached" him to lead an army of 500,000 veterans in an attempt to create a Fascist dictatorship in the United States, died here last night.

Gen. Butler testified last November before the house committee on un-American activities, of which Representative John W. McCormack [Dem., Mass.] is chairman.

MacGuire's brother, William, defended his brother in a statement issued today, he said, to clear up "the injustice done to Mr. MacGuire and his family."

"Dr. Renehan of Stamford specifically states that this last illness can be directly attributed to the unjust charges launched by Congressman McCormack's committee," he said. Dr. Lawrence R. Renehan, however, declared William MacGuire's statement to be "without authority."

Miss Beatrice de Menocal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel A. de Menocal of Boston, is the fiancee of William Simpson, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Simpson of Chicago. The wedding is planned for June and Mr. Simpson and his bride will live in New York, where he is engaged in business.

College Choir High Point in Music Season

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The Augustana college choir of Rock Island, appearing at Orchestra hall last night under the direction of Henry Veld, was once again one of the notable choral organizations of the middle west. It has been appearing annually for several years past, and it has never failed to give impetus to a belief in young singers.

To speak in all exactness, the Augustana choir is three choral bodies, itself and its two component fractions. The women singers are the Jenny Lind chorus, the men are Wennerberg chorus. After each has done its individual group, the two coalesce and become the Augustana choir.

Fractionally or in unity, these young collegians are deserving of earnest attention. In all three aspects they sang Bach last night in a way to do honor to the great composer and to themselves. Mr. Veld has solved the dual problem of choral singing, of how to make his forces produce tone on the one side and project words on the other so that each coöperates with the other. That, to at least one person's way of thinking, is the secret of good choral singing.

Bach is cited merely as an example. There was much more besides. One of the loveliest choral items of the season was the singing of Tschaikowsky's "Oh Blest Are They." And there was considerable secular music of much charm in itself and much delight in its performance.

A notice from the Orchestral Association of Chicago and the finance committee which has Arthur G. Cable as chairman and Edward Ryerson Jr. and Charles B. Goodspeed as members, states that the deficit of the Chicago Symphony orchestra this year is estimated at $35,000. With income from endowment funds a net deficit of $20,000 is estimated. To meet this the campaign for seat sales will continue and contributions from friends of the orchestra are asked.

The statement is much more cheerful than that of a year ago, when the net deficit was $55,000. At this time the additional seat sale, contributions, and other sources of income reduced it to $12,500.

Rose Bampton's deferred song recital before the Musician's Club of Women at the Chicago Woman's club theater yesterday afternoon demonstrated, as had been done when she appeared in the Chicago Symphony orchestra's Bach program a few weeks before, that she has a remarkable, not to say striking voice.

It is a contralto, apparently capable of handling anything in the contralto répertoire, but it is also capable of soaring upwards almost to the range of a lyric soprano.

With it she can do almost anything to which her musical desires lead her, be grave and impressive, as in the aria from Purcell's "Dido and Æneas"; be light and sustained as in Erich Wolff's "Maerchen," or light and airy, as in the Schumann song she presented as an encore; or with the greatest apparent ease dash through all the florid decorations of Rossini's "Bel Raggio."

Most important of all, her voice is at all times of lovely quality. It may be that at times she depends upon this fine quality rather than upon dramatic instinct of certain phases of interpretation, but at that almost any song from her lips is worth hearing.

Two Exhibitions Receive Praise of Art Critic

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Two delightful and interesting exhibitions opened yesterday. Josephine L. Reichmann is showing a group of flower paintings from California in the Marshall Field galleries and Louis Grell, Carl E. Wallin, and Anthony Buchta are exhibiting oils and water colors in the Chicago galleries, 220 North Michigan avenue.

Among the flower paintings by Mrs. Reichmann are a few landscapes and one or two glimpses of Gloucester in friendly guise, a little town straggling up confusing hills. Interesting in composition and color as these are, it is to the flower sketches that one returns again and again.

The most intriguing study in the exhibit is "Petunias," an enormous bouquet of glorious blossoms, some double and some single. Ernest gardeners will fall in love with them at first sight.

The flowers are fresh and vivid and smell of summer. It is a distinctly decorative exhibit, this of Mrs. Reichmann's, and one that fits admirably into the spring weeks before Easter.

The Chicago galleries are a place in which to linger. The little gallery is hung with rich, windy landscapes by Frank C. Peyraud and exquisite bird and butterfly studies on silver backgrounds by Julius Moessel. The three exhibitions of greater note which opened yesterday are in the long gallery.

Carl Wallin is well known for his symbolic representations in paint. He manipulates his colors with deftness and is constant to a great love of flat surfaces. In the present group you will be intrigued by "Frost Fantasy," "Spring Time," "Image in Frost," "Old Man," "Swedish Peasant Woman," and "Still Life."

In direct contrast to these are the fresh, lovely, animated, and colorful water colors by Anthony Buchta, painted chiefly around Gloucester. They are fascinating.

The magnificent and romantic canvases by Louis Grell afford a second contrast. Mr. Grell paints with vision, sweep, and imagination. His "Forest Idyll" is a remarkably unified and beautiful mural. His portrait of Julius Moessel is extraordinarily fine and that of "Lady with Dog" is as delightful as any given us by Gainsborough.

The exhibitions will continue into April and are well worth seeing.

Miss Frances Jane Farson Bride a Week

Mother Reveals Wedding in Waukegan.

BY JUDITH CASS.

INTERESTING and surprising news is the announcement being made this morning by Mrs. Barbara Farson of Chicago and St. Charles of the marriage of her daughter, Frances Jane, to Goodwin Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnston of Hinsdale.

It is surprising, not because their friends did not anticipate that an engagement announcement would be forthcoming before long but because the wedding took place a week ago today in Waukegan and was kept a secret until yesterday.

The wedding was planned for May 30 and was to have taken place in St. Mark's church, Geneva, with a reception following at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah McRoberts, intimate friends of the bride's mother. But the young people decided to be married, however, as soon as the apartment they had taken in the Marshall Field Garden apartments was ready, so last Tuesday they motored to Waukegan, accompanied by Mr. Johnston's younger brother, Bob; Benson Martin, and Philip B. Hosmer Jr., and were married.

Mrs. Johnston is an unusually attractive young woman, and her husband has been one of society's popular young bachelors ever since graduating from Princeton several years ago. He prepared for college at the Chicago Latin school and Andover. The former Miss Farson is a graduate of Miss Madeira's school in Washington, D. C.

Serious Auto Accident Recalled.

It is an interesting coincidence that Mrs. Johnston's great-grandfather Jones and Mr. Johnston's great-grandfather Durant were among the first settlers of St. Charles and were friends, but that "Frannie Jane" and "Goody" never met until last fall.

It was while they were driving home from the Farson residence that Mr. Johnston, Mr. Martin, Miss Barbara Fortune, Miss Bertha Erminger, and Douglas Huntress were injured in an automobile accident early last October.

The girls, debutantes of the season, were injured more seriously than the young men and both missed all the debutante festivities that preceded the Christmas holidays. They all are recovered now, however, and undoubtedly will be among the first to wish the bride and bridegroom long life and happiness, and to congratulate Mr. Johnston.

Miss Fortune, who is a daughter of the John L. Fortunes, went to Florida shortly after the first of the year and returned home about ten days ago. Miss Erminger, younger daughter of the Howell B. Ermingers, went back to Pine Manor at Wellesley to continue her schooling after Christmas, but she will be at home on Saturday for the spring vacation. Next week she will go to Minneapolis to spend a few days with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John De Laittre, who will celebrate their first wedding anniversary on April 30.

Armstrong Family Home from Florida.

Mrs. Horace White Armstrong and her daughter, Miss Jean Armstrong, returned last Friday from Florida, where Miss Armstrong had spent three months. Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong and their son, Frank H. Armstrong II., spent a shorter time there.

Miss Mary Armstrong will return Friday from Sarah Lawrence college to spend the spring holidays at home. She is to be one of next season's debutantes. Her parents already have made plans to present her at a tea at home, probably on the first Saturday in September.

Friends Give Parties for Betty Gillies.

Miss Frances Bell arrived in town Sunday from several weeks on the Champie ranch in Arizona just in time for the week of festivities preceding Miss Betty Gillies and Dr. Wallace Mackenzie's wedding Saturday night, at which Miss Bell is to be an attendant.

Miss Bell is giving a dinner tonight for Miss Gillies and her fiancé. Miss Mira Lee Benoist, another bridesmaid, gave one last night, and Miss Helen McDonald will give a buffet supper Thursday evening after the rehersal. This afternoon Miss Gillies and her mother, Mrs. James P. Gillies, will entertain the bridesmaids and their most intimate friends at a trousseau

A NEW (I hope) drunk story arrived from Hollywood by way of Frieda Inescourt, who stopped off at the Ambassador on her way to New York from Hollywood a few days ago. This particular inebriate dreaded the tongue lashing from his wife that invariably accompanied his return home in the early morning hours. So after a night of tippling he returned home, went to the kitchen, tied a rope about his waist, and tied skillets, pots, and pans to the rope in such a manner that they dragged behind him as he walked. Then he took off his shoes and stole softly upstairs.

"She'll never hear me in this infernal din," he whispered to himself as he crept toward the bedroom.

THE lending library on wheels is the latest set-up for the convenience of bookworms. A trailer stocked with 500 volumes, traveling about a neighborhood, making door to door stops, inaugurated the book hawker business in Los Angeles, according to Variety. The idea is for housewives to come out and select books just as they do vegetables from the hawkster's wagon. Will the book hawker's call be added to the cries of the city, I wonder? . . . "Books! New books! James Hilton's latest! Read the 'Life of Francis I.'! 'The Forty Days of Musa Dagh'—Three Cents a Day!"

SUCH a library on wheels would have prevented the mistake in books made in Wilmette recently. Mrs. John Sutton Cook, confined to her bed, sent her daughter to the library for a book she had been wanting to read, called "The Cowman's Wife." The child brought back "I Married a Ranger."

New Petticoats Add Glamor to Street Frocks

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The best racket in town! The newest petticoat, made of paper silk taffeta. It is short, skimpy, tailored, fits like a second skin, and so smart it crackles with fashion importance. It is the newest arrival and was designed to be worn under thin wool street dresses, wool suit skirts and the like. Even the gang that haven't used a petticoat in years will weaken when they see these knockout affairs. You'll find them in navy, brown and red.

So far, perhaps, they sound just like any other silk petticoat, but they're vastly different from the old time rustlers. This spring they're dotted. Think what a good time you can have in a high wind or hopping buses or trolleys with these silk numbers peeking out from under the hem of your skirt when you move. The dots are white, moderately sized and cheerfully spattered all over plain brown, navy and red backgrounds. If these aren't something new and different, we've been missing things for days!

Added to all this dotted splendor there is a knife pleated flounce around the hemline. They are almost too decorative to hide under a top skirt. Some clever shoppers are wearing an ascot tie or bow of the same dotted silk. Still another idea is a belt or even cuffs on a pair of gloves. These extra costume accents are, of course, worn with a dark dress which covers the petticoat. Black and white dotted skirts are promised later—in about two weeks. Until then you can select from the red, navy, or brown and have lots of excitement while they are new. Oh, yes, the price tags will make you gasp with delight. Even a small clothes allowance could stretch so that you could buy two of these exciting spring arrivals.

Good Morning!

The story's locale is Vienna. Here, in a luxurious apartment house, lives Herman Brandt, woman crazy and given to signaling fair ones by the musical strains of Stravinsky.

Mariette, prudishly reared by her parents, suddenly evinces a passion for playing "The Fire Bird"—a forbidden air—on the phonograph . . .

The picture is distinguished by some really splendid acting. Veree Teasdale as Mariette's lovely mother to whom Brandt has made frantic advances is vivid and compelling. Anita Louise is effective as the honey lamb the snake is after. Ricardo Cortez with his sultry eyes makes Brandt convincingly erotic. C. Aubrey Smith is outstanding as a police inspector. All other players do creditable work.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Eye shadow lends enchantment even to those lovely eyes. Of a texture that lends itself well to deft blending, nine lovely shadows offered by a beauty specialist are important beauty aids.

Yesterday in our plea that you look into the matter of eye makeup we touched lightly on the shadows, those delectable pastes that add so intriguingly to the intensity of natural eye color. Today we introduce you to some shadows that we think are superb.

Far be it from us to be arbitrary about the shade of the eye shadow you should use. Just as soon as we said flatly, as some do, that the brown eyed lassies should use nothing but brown and that the blue eyed should stick to blue or gray we'd be tripped up by some startling exceptions to those rules. We happen to be an exception to most rules ourselves. We have brown eyes, but we've yet to find the brown shadow that didn't make us look as if we hadn't had a good night's sleep in a year. On others they work like a charm. And there you are. The moral seems to be that each woman must experiment for herself.

And for you experimenters we recommend that you look at nine made by one of our beauty specialists. They're in several shops. The texture of them, as well as the shades, are what endear them to us. These shadows come in light blue, dark blue, gray-brown, dark brown, and an alluring shade of violet. Which one will enchance your own individual type of beauty will depend on the particular light the Lord put into your eyes and to a certain extent on the color of your hair and skin. Certainly, from this distance, we can't prescribe. We know one woman with prematurely gray-brown hair and deep brown eyes on whom the light blue is marvelous—and that seems contrary to all the rules. The violet is also successful on her. By some strange miracle the same violet is bewitching on a pale blonde with blue eyes.

Then there are three evening shadows with a silvery cast-silver blue, silver green, and silver mauve. These are perfectly lovely. And as further proof that you never can tell about the shadows until you try them we make a personal confession; we can wear that silver mauve in the daytime, and do, often. It doesn't look garish and even our cattiest acquaintances have been known to remark on how becoming it is.

These shadows all have a moist, lush texture that lends itself well to deft blending. ELEANOR NANGLE.

SYNOPSIS.

Sarah MacNeil, young American living in London, accepts the hazardous though thrilling post as companion to Miss Christine Venables, prim, kindly and wealthy, who has been receiving letters that cannot be traced, threatening her life. Miss Venables spends most of the year at Ste. Brigitte, a small resort in southern France. Her nephew, Harry, is to join her there soon. Before leaving London Miss Venables' widowed sister-in-law, Mrs. Mark Venables, Harry's stepmother, dies suddenly. She had been treated by Dr. Gilcrest, from Ste. Brigitte, who was visiting in London. On the way to Ste. Brigitte Miss Venables tells Sarah that the death threats began after her friend, Maj. Frampton, was killed in a fall down an elevator shaft. She believes he was murdered. She and the major were both threatened by two oriental drug sellers they had had prosecuted. Miss Venables' particular friends in Ste. Brigitte, besides Dr. Gilcrest, are the Baron Henri de Bellesnaves and his beautiful wife; Beryl Tomlins, town librarian and harmless gossip, and a few old residents of the resort hotel. Sarah gathers that Dr. Gilcrest is in love with the baroness. Harry arrives. Beryl Tomlins, who had just had a prescription of Dr. Gilcrest's filled by his dispenser, Marjory Barrows, is taken suddenly ill and dies. Dr. Gilcrest states an intestinal hemorrhage caused her death. Miss Venables receives another threatening letter, telling her she has one more day to live. Harry is on a visit to Monte Carlo. The baroness has gone to Arles for the day. The fatal day passes safely. Miss Venables takes her medicine and retires. Shortly after Sarah is awakened by her agonized call. She dies within the hour, after declaring to Sarah that she was poisoned. Sarah tells Dr. Gilcrest, who has been left a substantial income by Miss Venables, that it is up to him to demand a post-mortem.

INSTALMENT XXXVIII.

THE HEIR'S RETURN.

Feverishly Sarah began to long for Harry's return, confident that he would unite with her in zeal to clear matters up. Knowing him she did not imagine that grief would for any long period stir the sunny shallows of his nature, but he would not fail in loyalty to the woman who had loved and mothered him, the woman whose death had made him a rich man.

"Funny," she mused, "that's an aspect I've only just thought of. I wonder how it will affect him? He can't ever have had any real money worries, but now—why, he'll have none at all! He won't even need to work. What will he do?"

Harry might seem to her rather lazy, rather inclined to seek the line of least resistance, but he had good north-country blood in his veins, which would undoubtedly make him take his responsibilities seriously. There was no harm in him, none. A strong-willed girl might work wonders with such pleasantly-malleable material. She herself . . . but why was it she continued to view this dazzling prize with such supine indifference? If she really wished to win Harry, the next seven days of intimate companionship and co-operation in a painful duty would present immense opportunities for conquest. She might actually bring it off. She knew she attracted him, that if nothing had yet come of their friendship it was mainly her fault. She had moreover just made a sickening mistake about another man. The moment was ripe to let her maternal feelings—for that best described her attitude towards Harry—develop into the necessary sentiment. Was it possible? It ought to be.

A heavy, rapid step outside set her trembling. Not already—? A knock, the door burst open, and the subject of her reflections poised on the threshold. He was haggard, dusty, unwontedly dishevelled. His red-rimmed eyes held a stricken expression, his breath came in gasps.

"Sarah!" he panted. "My God, is this true?"

Her first thought was that Harry was much more deeply moved than she had expected; her second that the question she had been asking herself was answered in the negative. She pitied this poor boy from the bottom of her heart, she must be very gentle with him—but love him she never would.

He had heard just enough from the manager downstairs to send him headlong to her for the explanation, which now he was here he seemed too shocked and bemused to take in. Overwhelmed, he sat on the side of the bed frowning past her, now and then mopping his forehead with a crumpled silk handkerchief, and shaking his head in a puzzled, helpless fashion.

"What an ass I was to go barging off!" he muttered, abject in his contrition. "I believed those foul letters had stopped coming. Why on earth didn't you tell me?"

Patiently she went over again the reasons for her silence.

"She refused to let me send for you, Harry—and it couldn't have made the least difference if you'd been here all along. As for this other development—well, there was no foreseeing that, either. It's damnable, but as you see things have got beyond our control. You've had a long drive, haven't you? No sleep, and no food, I expect. I don't wonder you can't get your bearings. Drink up your brandy and soda. It will help pull you together."

Mechanically he whispered, "My God!" in the same tone employed already half-a-dozen times, reached unsteadily for the drink she had ordered for him, and gulped it down.

"Post-mortem!" he murmured, mystified and blank. "I can't for the life of me see why. . . . But you were with her. Was this attack any different from others she'd had?"

She reminded him that she had never seen his aunt really ill before, adding that it did not seem possible for the illness to have arisen from anything to eat or drink. He looked toward her keenly.

"That's what I'm getting at. How could she have been poisoned? Stands to reason she wasn't. Gilcrest says not, and he ought to know. How is it, if he's completely satisfied—" He stopped, eyed her more closely, and spoke in a subtly altered tone. "I see, it's that inheritance that's bothering him. Afraid like hell of what people will say, what? Well, I shouldn't be the one to talk. Maybe it is a thundering lot of money to leave a chap who's no sort of claim on you. Maybe I am a bit knocked by the news, for I give you my solemn word this is the first I've known of it. Poor Chrissie was very quiet about her own affairs. . . . Still, with no proof that it wasn't all square and fair, what right have I to question his behavior? I don't. So, as far as I'm concerned, his diagnosis can stand."

"I don't think you understand," Sarah said quietly. She knew that this was her cue to mention the capsules, but to do that meant bringing up much more about which she dared not speak. "Dr. Gilcrest insists on reporting this death for his own sake, not yours. You're forgetting she went to the police about this latest letter. In fact, the police have all the letters on file. That in itself might lead to doubts which would keep cropping up unless there were a definite medical decision to silence them."

"O, the letters!" He waved her objection aside as of no account. "Did the commissaire chap take any stock in these threats?"

"N-no," she admitted. "He didn't."

"Exactly! And I, for one, can't conceive of any connection between them and her falling ill and dying like this, sudden though it was. When I got the news late last night such an idea never entered my head. The more you say about it the surer I am there's nothing in it. Gilcrest himself is clear-headed enough to—" Again he broke off, stared confusedly into his empty glass, and grew obscurely embarrassed. "What I mean is, none of this would have come up but for his getting that money. Maybe,"—with a look of hope, "if I talk to him sensibly he'll drop the business."

"Do you want him to drop it?" she demanded, amazed. "Remember, she wanted it done."

"Hacking up her body for no purpose," he muttered painfully. "Beastly thing to do! O, it's not the sensation I'm thinking of. She can't have realized what it would mean. . . ."

"She did realize, Harry. After all, your stepmother—"

"With Gracie it was different."

"I understand." Sarah's brow cleared, and she looked at him with softened eyes. "It seems to you a kind of desecration, doesn't it? Wait, I'm going to let you read the letter she left me—and that reminds me, there's one for you, too. Here they are."

She put the two envelopes into his hand. He stared dazedly at the familiar writing, slowly read both enclosures and gave her his own communication to examine. In slightly different language it reiterated what had been said to her.

"'In the event of peculiar circumstances,'" he quoted with knit brow. "Point is, were the circumstances peculiar? Gilcrest says not. What's your idea?"

"I've no knowledge of medical matters," she answered him evasively. "I do know, though, that the doctor feels obliged to take action simply to protect himself. There's Mrs. Bulstrode to be considered, and Miss Whittaker."

"But they don't regard things as peculiar, do they?"

"Not now, but they will as soon as your aunt's bequest is made known. Think what can be said, what will be said. A well-to-do-woman dies. The only medicine she has been taking—" [There, in spite of all she had brought out the word 'medicine'! Well, it was done now.] "—was prescribed by a doctor who benefits enormously by her will. Just before her death she announced that she has been poisoned. You see?"

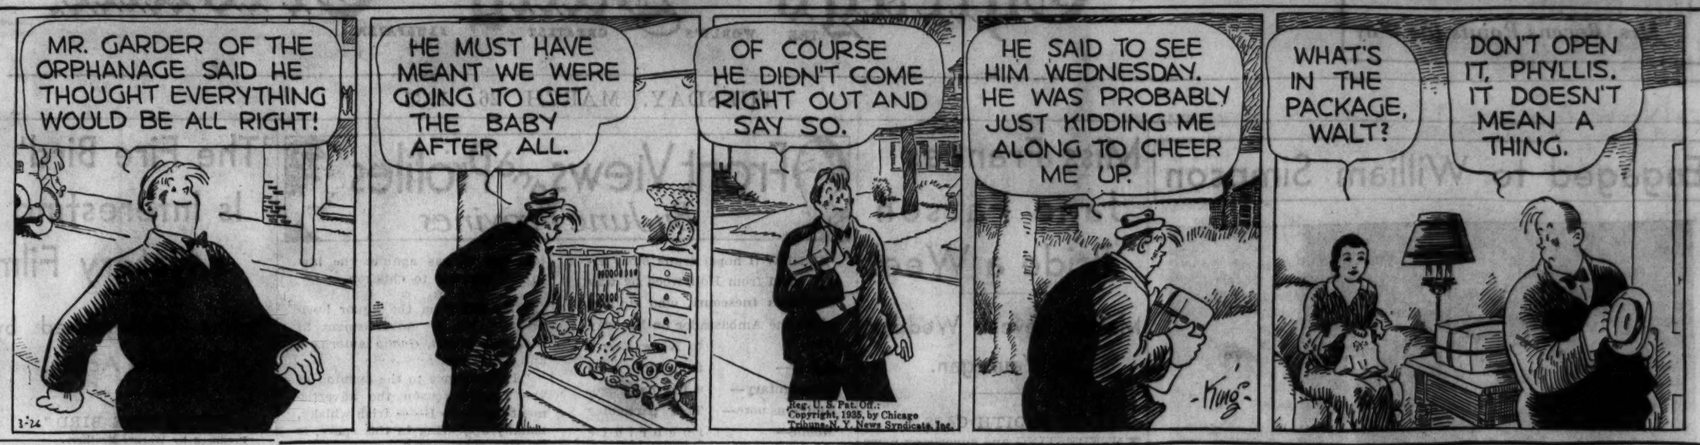
GASOLINE ALLEY—COOL WAVE



MR. GARDER OF THE ORPHANAGE SAID HE THOUGHT EVERYTHING WOULD BE ALL RIGHT!
HE MUST HAVE MEANT WE WERE GOING TO GET THE BABY AFTER ALL.
HE SAID TO SEE HIM WEDNESDAY. HE WAS PROBABLY JUST KIDDING ME ALONG TO CHEER ME UP.
WHAT'S IN THE PACKAGE, WALT?

Baby Often the Cause of Older Child's Faults

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"And I'm out of patience with her. She's just getting to be a disagreeable, unmanageable little girl. And the baby is so different. He's easy going and sunny and sweet tempered—and everybody is crazy about him. I'm so afraid if things keep up as they are that he will learn all of Jane's naughty ways. Such a contrast between my two children."

Once again—and there are many agains—we hear the sad story of the sunny, sweet tempered second child, and the disagreeable first one. Now when you hear of the same thing happening in families in Illinois, New York, Oklahoma, Ontario, Florida, and points north, east, south, and west—of a badly behaved first little child and an angelic second [the baby] it's almost certain that there's at least one reason [even if it's not the only one] that underlies all these situations. And the reason is this: The place that has been given to the new baby in the family life has been given at the cost of the first child.

Why wouldn't a child suffer who, still being almost a baby herself, was suddenly deprived of most of those things upon which her life was built, and upon which much of her happiness and sense of security depended? And suffering, why wouldn't she, without sensing at all the inner workings of her nature, show it in some of the ways that are described—"being disagreeable," disobeying, refusing to eat, having "accidents," wanting truly to love the baby but urged by this inner hurt to tease or slap it? For at least in these ways she gets some attention—her mother has to stop fussing over the interloper long enough to talk or scold or "change" her. That's better than being relegated entirely to the background.

Irving Berlin Writes 6 Songs for New Movie

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., March 25.—[Special.]—The biggest song writing job Irving Berlin has done in years has been completed with six tunes ready for "Top Hat," the next musical comedy in which Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers will trill and trip, starting April 1. Berlin's songs are titled "Isn't This a Lovely Day to Be Caught Out in the Rain?" "Cheek to Cheek," "Top Hat, White Tie, and Tails," "No Strings," "Piccolino," and "Get Thee Behind Me, Satan." Those who have heard the melodies say complimentary things and it is possible Radio studio may have Berlin compose a seventh song. Berlin and Astaire sat in with Director Mark Sandrich, the scenarists, and producers to help prepare the story for "Top Hat."

Before going east recently, Kay Francis offered to write a note of explanation and regret to the Associated Press reporter whom she ejected from her recent $4,500 midnight party, according to her studio. But the reporter, Relman [Pat] Morin, who was ejected, never received Miss Francis' note.

Frankie Thomas, who has just finished the lead in "Dog of Flanders," has returned to New York and his grammar school classes while between pictures. When his motion picture agents land him another job, he will return here, but he always likes to go back to school with his youthful chums and his favorite school teacher. Frankie is 13 years old.

"Alice Adams," Booth Tarkington story, has been bought by Radio-R. K. O. studio for Katharine Hepburn's new vehicle.

Kathleen Burke, the Chicago "panther girl," is one of the busiest young free lance actresses in Hollywood. Having just finished the character lead with Jack Holt in "Jim Burke's Boy," Miss Burke, whose last name has no connection with the story, is "on call" for possible retakes while waiting to start in "Queen of the Jungle" at Paramount. She was the only woman in the cast of the hit film, "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," recently and followed that rôle with a lead opposite Neil Hamilton in the Larry Darmour production, "Rocky Mountain Mystery."

Paul Von Klieben, artist from the Chicago World's Fair, who now is established here, not only is the painting instructor of Ethelreda Leopold, versatile Chicago miss, but has turned out several striking oil portraits of Chicago figures now in the movies. He has painted Virginia Pine, Miss Leopold, Lila Lee, and Jack Peine, all of Chicago; Harold Lloyd's clubwoman mother; Millionaire Paul Ames, who recently married June Knight in Chicago and has since divorced her; Raquel Torres, Paul Ames' sister-in-law; Patricia Ziegfeld, daughter of Billie Burke; Claudia Dell, Nicolai Fechin, Peggy Fears, and Jack Larue.

Art Theater Troupe Opens Late in April

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The American Art theater, a new organization formed to produce dramas in the middle west with Chicago as its headquarters, announced yesterday that its repertory company will begin an engagement here late in April, probably at the Studebaker theater. This troupe has been on tour through the west and south during the last three months under the name of the Oxford Players. They are under the direction of Robert H. Breen, a young actor and stage director from Minneapolis, who secured a grant of $10,000 from the federal government for equipment.

The company's Chicago repertory will include Shakespeare's "Hamlet" and "Romeo and Juliet"; Goethe's "Faust," in a version based on the "Urfaust," and "The Ivory Door," by A. A. Milne. These are the plays that it has been acting on tour. It will also bring out a new play—"Amaco," by Martin Flavin, a well known American dramatist.

Miss Helen Dupee, 237 East Delaware place, is leading the American Art theater activities in Chicago. The list of sponsors includes a number of socially prominent persons.

Evanston Club to Hear Frances Winwar Today

Frances Winwar, author of "Poor Splendid Wings," for which she was awarded the Atlantic Monthly's $5,000 prize, will speak this afternoon at the Woman's Club of Evanston. Miss Winwar's subject will be "Victorian Women, Pioneers of Freedom."

Miss Frances Jane Farson Bride a Week

tea. Tomorrow Mrs. John Hansel will give a bathroom shower.

Very wisely Miss Gillies and Dr. Mackenzie have vetoed any parties for them on Friday. The wedding will take place in the Winnetka Congregational church at 8:30 o'clock in the evening Saturday and will be followed by a small reception in the Gillies home. James P. Gillies Jr. returned from New Haven Friday to be an usher at the wedding. Dwight Thompson of Cleveland, a classmate of young Mr. Gillies at Yale, will arrive next Friday to spend the rest of the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Gillies.

Frank Hibbards to Return Today.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hibbard are arriving in Chicago early this morning after a two months' trip to New Zealand.

Capt. and Mrs. John Hinton returned to Columbus, O., yesterday after a brief visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Fitts. The former Betty Fitts' husband was promoted to the rank of captain last fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Magnus have returned to Winnetka from several weeks in the south. Part of the time they spent with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth G. Smith aboard the Smiths' yacht, Kencora, and part of the time at Miami Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will not come north until the end of April.

Mrs. Edward Rhodes Moorhaus of London, England, who has been visiting the Roswell C. Mowers on Lake View avenue, will fly to New York today to join her husband. They will return to England in time for the second courts at which their nieces, the Misses Iris and Sylvia Real, will be presented. Mrs. Mower, who recently returned from a trip to Florida, is making plans to visit the Moorhauses during the London season.

Dogs Prepared for Annual Show.

Any debutante might envy the attention that is being lavished this week on several dozen canine pets entered in the thirty-fourth annual show of the Chicago Kennel club to be held Friday, Saturday, and Sunday at the Coliseum. In beauty parlor fashion they are receiving oil treatments, and are being powdered, oiled, manicured, plucked, and clipped.

Miss Dorothy Ranney's Brussels griffon is one of these fortunate pets, for he is going to try in the competition for the principal prize, which is the John C. Eastman In Memoriam trophy, valued at $1,000. This year John Barnes is bringing two English bulldogs in from his Barrington estate, and his father-in-law, Thomas M. Howell, also of Barrington, will show one Irish wolfhound and one Labrador retriever.

One of the unusual features of the show will be the exhibition of obedience and intelligence that is to be put on by two of the seven Airedale terriers which Harold Florsheim will enter in the show.

James Heyworth's entry is to be an English bulldog, while Dr. and Mrs. Noel S. Young of Lake Forest will show four Sealyhams. Still other entries will be three Irish wolfhounds that belong to Mr. and Mrs. C. Groverman Ellis.

Lecture at Woman's Athletic Club Today.

The second of three lectures on current world affairs by Clifton Utley before members of the Woman's Athletic club will be given this morning at 11 o'clock in the ballroom of the clubhouse at Michigan avenue and Ontario street.

Edward Tomlinson will talk about "A Night on the Spanish Main" this evening at the intermonthly meeting of the Geographic society at Orchestra hall.

There will be a tea today from 2 to 6 o'clock at the Century gallery in Diana court for the benefit of the art department of Lincoln center. It will open a loan exhibition of paintings and sculpture by contemporary moderns that has been collected by Adeline Atwater Pynchon [Mrs. Harold]. Pouring will be Mrs. Chauncey B. Blair, Mrs. Helen Walton, Mrs. Daniel C. Rich, Mrs. B. F. Langworthy, and Mrs. Edwin L. Lobdell, Mrs. Pynchon's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Paepcke head a committee assisting Philip Manuel and Gavin Williamson with plans for the Bach festival harpsichord concert at the Goodman theater on April 3. Mr. Manuel and Mr. Williamson are two-piano artists. Their selection of four harpsichords for the commemoration concert—it celebrates the 250th anniversary of the birth of Bach—is especially happy as it is the instrument for which many of Bach's favorite works were written. Chicago is the only city in America boasting four of the rare instruments.

Mr. Manuel and Mr. Williamson are giving a tea this afternoon from 4:30 until 6:30 o'clock at their studios, 5518 Hyde Park boulevard, to show the four harpsichords.

Magical Prune Juice Conjures Novel Recipes

BY MARY MEADE.

The people who have stewed prunes just for the dark, rich, fragrant juice that's a byproduct of the process are mighty happy these days about the separately bottled prune juice on the market. Now all they have to do is chill the bottle, open the cap, and pour themselves a generous swig of the flavorsome liquid. And—the cooks who know what the addition of a little prune flavor will do for their cooking are equally delighted to have the same available in such a handy form.

Probably because it's a new product, your good old standby cookbooks aren't going to be especially helpful in this matter of prune juice tricks. At least, ours weren't. Consequently, we mustered up what ingenuity we could and sallied into the kitchen to see what could be done about it. Our findings? Well, if you like prune juice we think you'll agree that they're great! If you don't go for it quite so wholeheartedly, there's even a chance that you may after you've tried ringing it into play in your cooking.

To start out in a conservative manner, we first tried a beverage. It's not a fruit punch, however, or anything quite so obvious. It's a rich, creamy milk shake, one that every member of the family, from grandpa down to junior, is going to cheer for.

Prune Milk Shake.

1 large spoonful vanilla ice cream
¼ cup prune juice

Place all of the ingredients in a tightly capped jar or mixer and shake vigorously. Serve as a rounder-out of slim luncheon, or with sandwiches or little cakes as casual party refreshments.

Then, still not wanting to rush into anything too radical, we turned to sandwich fillings. Cream cheese, moistened and creamed with a couple of tablespoons of prune juice, makes an elegant filling, and one just meant to be slapped between paper thin slices of nut bread.

Next we tried out the only orthodox, down in black-and-white recipe for molded prune juice that we could find. It makes a nice dessert just as it is, or it may be turned into a more pretentious concoction by whipping it up with either egg white or whipped cream after it has begun to congeal.

Molded Prune Juice.

2 cups prune juice
½ cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
4 teaspoons granulated gelatin
3 tablespoons cold water

Combine the prune juice, sugar, and lemon juice, and heat to the boiling point. Meanwhile, moisten the gelatin in the cold water. Then add the gelatin to the hot liquid, stir until dissolved, and pour into a mold to chill. Serve with plain or whipped cream and a sprinkling of chopped nuts, if desired.

Prune cream pie is another innovation for this bottled juice. However, it turned out beautifully made like this:

Prune Cream Pie.

2 cups prune juice
½ cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
Juice and grated rind of 1 lemon
Few grains salt
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten

Mix all of the ingredients except the egg yolks in the top of a double boiler and cook until thick and clear. Cool, and pour slowly into the slightly beaten egg yolks, then return to the fire and cook until well thickened. Pour into a baked pie shell and top with a méringue made from the egg whites.

Cosmetics Lift Spirits of Girl in Business World

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Is there too much powdering and rougeing going on at the expense of employers' time?

The question is revived, in a recent announcement by an employer, that his fifty odd female employés shall have no time out for facial repairs.

The "test" fiends might work up an interesting study on this question. Make fifty girls subscribe for a year to the Simon Legree order of no rougeing, no perking after the work gong has rung. Let fifty others have access to the rouge pot and powder puff when the spirit begins to lower and see, at the end of the year, which side showed the greater gain for the employer.

I'd put my money on the group with access to the cosmetic lift. There's more than a dash of color on lip and cheek and a smoothing down of a shiny nose to this business of cosmetics. There's a certain "lift" to the spirit of which the male employer knows nothing, not being of the proper sex to know. A new, clean face, tinted here and there, provides a girl with a new zest for the work ahead. Nor is this psychological spurt confined in effectiveness to the woman in shop or office.

One of the big life insurance companies, employing thousands of girls, frankly states that it encourages the use of cosmetics within sensible limitations. Heightened effectiveness, assurance, and general competence are acknowledged. "If a girl feels that she is attractive and personable, fear, awkwardness, and self-consciousness are lessened, and she is apt to be a better worker with greater chances of success" is the insurance company verdict.

Comparatively few workers abuse the privilege. They stand out in any working group as idlers and wasters anyway. For the others, aside from the application of cosmetics, a couple of minutes away from the desk during the day in itself is a rest for eyes, a chance for a bit of moving about and exercise, a brief relaxation period to supply new ardor to the task ahead.

ACCEPTED
by Science and the American People

Laboratories have devoted years of research to discover the facts about bran. These tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a natural laxative food for normal people.

As a result, ALL-BRAN has been accepted by the American Medical Association Committee on Foods, and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute.

Millions of Americans use ALL-BRAN to correct constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals. For ALL-BRAN supplies generous, mild "bulk," which continues to be effective when used for months. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and iron, an element of the blood.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

SELECTING A TREATMENT.

Continuing yesterday's plea that you think in terms of "Sims treatment" for hands rather than "the Sims system says you must," try to build your partnerships on this idea. With different partners you will have excellent reasons for preferring different treatments. The psychological angle is tremendously important not only in the more usual connection of playing on the known weaknesses of your opponents but also in perfecting partnership understanding and confidence. For instance, if you have observed that one of your regular partners seems to "guess" right on no-trump plays but to be uneasy in difficult four-card trump-suit contracts, you can so often select the treatment likely to lead [assuming, of course, that both are feasible] to an eventual no-trump contract rather than the suit. He will soon realize that it is easy to get to the "right" bid with you and will play and bid his best when you are partners. Be tactful, of course, and do not let him know that you mistrust his short-trump-suit dummy play and are deliberately trying to "baby" him. Perhaps you also have some weakness to which he in turn is catering in an equally tactful manner.

This is a happy partnership for you both, and I have always intended that my "system" should encourage every possible freedom. I do not profess to do all your thinking for you on hands that I have never seen and probably never will see. I want to give you methods which will protect you from glaring errors and afford you safety against the perils of misfits and gross misvaluations of cards—particularly high cards. I also wish to give you rigid methods to protect your slam bidding from inaccuracy and from the insidious dangers of undiscovered duplications of value. Between those two extremes I offer you a great variety of "treatments" for types of hands and situations—treatments which I have worked out from my experience and of my associates.

Particularly I have concentrated on the hands on which I have been beaten—where I have beaten myself not because I was trying some far-fetched stunt, but when I was trying to bid logically and carefully, but nevertheless got to a bad contract because the treatment I was using was not sufficiently flexible—it had me in its grip and I could not stop or veer in time. An experience like this immediately calls for another treatment to have available for the next time—one that will offer an escape while not preventing me from still getting to the same contract as the earlier treatment would reach if that should be the right destiny of the hand after all. It is fatal to fight the cards, but it is equally fatal to refuse to recognize their capriciousness and frequent treachery. Be on your guard at all times, and in contract, as against auction, be especially suspicious of danger when you hold an imposing array of primary values but lack suit length or fillers. Even when your partner is a congenital underraiser, do not hastily decide on a bold treatment when there is no safety in view. Recently I held and bid a no trump. All passed, and I just made it, thanks to an advantageous opening lead and a slight error in the defense. One heart, as it happens, cannot be made on the hand. Of course, my partner had nothing and would have passed any bids by me other than a force. My point is that the players who bid two no trumps, as several did, all took losses. Those who bid two hearts inevitably reached a level where the opponents could inflict a merciless double. Even with the most timid raiser or responder for my partner I would not bid two no trumps with this dangerous hand. The safe treatment would be the only one to consider. However, let us assume the same timid partner has opened the bidding with a spade.

Sp.—A K x	Di.—K x x

You hold:

Sp.—K J x	Di.—Q J x
Ht.—A K J x	Cl.—A J x

The usual slam-try response would be three no trumps, so as to get, if possible, a minor suit rebid from the opener and decide accordingly between six and seven. Yet with this notoriously timid partner I might well bid three hearts instead, for fear that he might pass three no trumps though having a proper rebid in distributional form in his hand.

ASK $1,600,000 FOR DEPLETED LIBRARY FUNDS

Association Will Appeal to Legislature.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Members of the legislative committee of the Illinois Library association met at the Chicago Public library yesterday to consider ways and means of inducing the legislature to appropriate $1,600,000 to aid depleted library funds and to pass bills providing for the certification of librarians in the tax supported libraries.

One question which they had met with in their preliminary survey of the situation, it was reported, was—"where is the money to come from?" Their reply was that the state had a surplus of $10,000,000 in its general funds last year, and was considering spending $2,700,000 in new armories. The librarians considered the buying of new books and the extension of rural free library service more important than new armories.

Revenues Drop 40 Percent.

Another question was—"where has the money gone?" The answer to this was that the libraries are supported by a special tax on property and that uncollected taxes and lower valuations on property account for the 40 per cent decrease in revenues since 1928.

There are 267 tax supported libraries in Illinois. In 1929 the total tax receipts were $3,180,479. In 1933, the last year in which figures are available, the receipts were $2,948,325. The amount spent in salaries in 1929 was $1,938,524. This was reduced in 1933 to $1,624,525. The amount spent on books in 1929 was $812,038. This was reduced in 1933 to $386,463. Total expenditures in 1929 were $3,904,164—in 1933, $2,784,699. At the same time, it was pointed out, card holders have increased from 1,437,843 in 1929 to 1,602,455 in 1933.

"Fifty million dollars is to be distributed by the legislature this year," he said. "We have got to get in on it."

No New Taxes Asked.

It is the argument of the association that the state should make up the deficit in library funds as it has in the state shool fund, that the two things are complementary and of equal importance. No new taxes are asked and it is anticipated that in view of lower valuations on property that reduced revenue may be expected in the future.

The four bills supported by the association and by many groups of clubwomen, parent-teacher, and church people, include the appropriation of $1,000,000 to extend the library service throughout the state. It is said that there are two million people in Illinois without libraries. Much of this would be rural distribution service. An appropriation of $600,000 would be for the purchase of books and periodicals for existing libraries. Book funds have been reduced 50 per cent, it is stated, while citizen demand on libraries has doubled and trebled during the depression.

Needs of Chicago Yibrary.

Carl Roden, head of the Chicago public library, spoke particularly of the needs of that institution. It has a book deficit of more than half a million volumes, he said, not having been able to buy any new books for four years. The requests that come in from branch libraries for technical books have to be denied. Forty-five per cent of the reference questions that come in have to go unanswered. Its service is diminishing at the rate of 2,000,000 books a year.

"The great armies of the unemployed that are crowding our rooms in all parts of the city present the greatest opportunity that has ever come to the public library," he said. "Tragically, for the city as for the individual, the opportunity comes when the library is too handicapped to grasp it."

WIFE CHARGES FRAUD; TAILOR'S DIVORCE VOIDED

After hearing evidence that Meyer Matleen, a tailor, gained a divorce by fraud a year ago from his wife, Sarah, 957 North Oakley avenue, Superior Judge Francis B. Allegretti set aside the decree yesterday.

Under questioning by her attorney, Norman Becker, Mrs. Matleen testified that she and her husband first separated 16 years ago, but were reconciled. At the time of the divorce, Jan. 24, 1934, Matleen, who got the decree under the name of Matlin, is reported to have told Superior Judge Sabath that he and his wife had parted permanently 16 years before, and that he did not know her address, so service of the suit by publication was permitted.

The couple's grown son and daughter told Judge Allegretti yesterday that their father had visited their mother several times in recent years.

"I am sorry that I have no record of your testimony in the other case on which to hold you for perjury," Judge Allegretti told Matleen in voiding the decree. Attorney Becker said he would file a suit for separate maintenance this week for Mrs. Matleen.

Judge Sabath, 65 Yrs. Old, Has Handled 200,000 Cases

Superior Judge Joseph Sabath held court in a flower banked courtroom on his 65th birthday anniversary yesterday. Eighteen of his 25 years of service as a judge have been spent on the Superior court bench. During his career Judge Sabath has disposed of more than 200,000 cases, he estimates. Of these some 40,000 have been divorce cases. Despite his constant contact with family strife, Judge Sabath is himself happily married, and has three children and seven grandchildren.

HAWKS BATTLE MAROONS IN 2D GAME TONIGHT

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The second and concluding act of that thrilling ice drama known as "The First Goal, or, Who'll Get It?" will be played at the Chicago Stadium this evening when the world champion Chicago Blackhawks and the Montreal Maroons meet in the deciding game of the second place bracket for the Stanley Cup and the world's championship, both of which are still very much in possession of the Hawks.

The curtain has already fallen on the first act, which was presented in Montreal last Saturday night, and which bore out the title of the show perfectly, nary a goal being scored in the 60 minutes during which the principals fought, bit and chawed each other up.

Expect Greatest Crowd.

That scoreless decision of the first game is expected to produce one result before tonight's game so much as starts, and that is the largest crowd of the year for a hocky game at the Stadium or anywhere else. Reports from the Blackhawk office late yesterday indicated that with the disposal of 5,000 seats, which will be placed on sale today, a new record for attendance will be set. The largest crowd of the year thus far was the 17,480 who watched the New York Rangers defeat the Hawks here on Feb. 10. After that came the 17,200 who jammed the Boston Garden last Saturday night to see the Bruins whip Toronto.

Tonight's game, if it is still tied at the end of the regulation 60 minutes, will continue at sudden death play until a decision is effected. There will be no rest for the Hawks if they win the game and the series. If such be the happy result of the evening, they will immediately entrain either for Montreal or New York, depending upon the result of tonight's final third place game between the Canadiens and Rangers at Montreal. The Rangers lead the bracket now, 2 to 1. If the Hawks win, they would then return to meet the Rangers or Canadiens here next Sunday.

Light Workout for Hawks.

The Hawks, who arrived home Sunday night after an absence of ten days during which they concluded their regular season and opened the defense of the Stanley Cup, were put through a brief workout at the Stadium yesterday noon by Manager Clem Loughlin. No heavy chores were included in this exercise, the team being in the best condition of the season, barring a few minor bumps and bruises, the natural result of a game against the big Maroon team.

The Maroons, who didn't leave home until Sunday, arrived about noon yesterday and promptly hied themselves over to the Stadium for an equally short workout. They, too, are in top condition, except for Hooley Smith, their hook checking center, who will not be in uniform. He did not play Saturday night, either. Smith's right thumb is in a cast as a result of a fistic duel with Red Dutton of the Americans a week ago. Up in Montreal, however, this is not regarded as a major casualty by the fans, who consider young Bob Gracie, Smith's replacement, ideal for the post between Jimmy Ward and Baldy Northcott.

Can't Be Overconfident.

Loughlin delivered a sermon on overconfidence to his team yesterday, pointing out that the Maroons are liable to reverse their close checking tactics of last Saturday, particularly in the first period, when they will be out to score a goal or two and then cling to it, being admirably fitted for this latter plan. On the strength of Saturday's play, the Maroons Loughlin fears are Russell [Joe] Blinco, Jimmy Ward, and Cy Wentworth, former Hawk captain. All three turned in a good game, especially Blinco, who twice forced Lorne Chabot to make million dollar stops.

Then, too, there is always the possibility that Baldy Northcott, Earl Robinson, and young Herb Cain will break loose. Northcott, once one of the league's leading scorers, clicks when his line is clicking, so that it may be a case of harmony with Gracie and Ward.

The game tonight also will bring together Chabot and Connell, the best and second best goalies of the league, respectively. Including the playoff game at Montreal, Alex leads Lorne in shutouts, 10 to 9, and the big Chicago holder of the Vezina trophy would like nothing better than to make it 10 and 10 tonight, while the Hawk wings were piling up enough goals to send them to New York or Montreal.

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1935: By The Chicago Tribune.]

JOE LOUIS, probably the most formidable challenger for Max Baer's heavyweight title, says the greatest thrill of his athletic career was winning a Golden Glove in the 1934 CHICAGO TRIBUNE tournament. . . .

"When they presented me with the winner's award that night I felt that I was the heavyweight champion of the world and I have felt that way ever since," he explains. . . . Asked if he found competition in professional ranks as keen as in the amateur he said: "Amateur boxing as you find it in the Chicago tournament is the toughest competition of all, amateur or professional. I came closer to defeat one or two times in the 1934 Chicago meet than I ever have as a professional." . . . Louis said that in amateur boxing there is action every minute, but in professional fighting you frequently can coast along three or four rounds without extending yourself. . . . "Any boy who survives the Chicago Golden Gloves tournament is a real fighter," the colored heavyweight said. . . . "There's no chance to let down. Every man you meet is the champion of his community. I never have seen so much fighting as I did here last March." . . .

The St. Louis Cardinals have four switch hitters, Charlie Wilson, Frankie Frisch, Jack Rothrock, and Rip Collins. . . . Premier Mussolini named Avanti Martinetti, the six day bicycle rider. . . . He is a friend of Martinetti's mother. . . . Jimmy Dykes' son will be 13 years old May 2, which is the birthday of Eddie Collins. . . . This, along with the fact that the boy's ears are duplicates of Collins', leads the White Sox manager to believe his son will make a name as a second baseman. . . . Secretary Jim Tierney of the New York Giants hasn't yet recovered from the shock he received last year when Mrs. Dizzy Dean rode up to the Polo grounds on horseback and asked permission to hobble the steed under the grandstand while she watched hubby pitch. . . . The mention of fish makes Georges Carpentier very sick. . . . Hans Nusslein, German tennis professional, says America's future Davis cup chances rest with Gene Mako, Donald Budge, and Frankie Parker, who must be given international experience this year even at the cost of a severe licking. . . .

They say that Dub Miller, 225 pound tackle with the Chadron, Neb., Teachers, is the best lineman to come out of Nebraska since Link Lyman. . . . Babe Ruth has received 2,000 letters from boys in all parts of the United States wanting the job as bat tender for the Braves. . . . Ned Merriam, track coach at the University of Chicago, thinks that Clark Shaughnessy Jr., now attending Hyde Park High school, has possibilities as a decathlon champion. . . . So far this season the 16 year old son of the Maroon football coach has pole vaulted 11 feet 4 inches, thrown a javelin 180 feet, high jumped 5 feet 6 inches, put the 12 pound shot 47 feet, and made fast, good marks in the discus and hurdles. . . . At the best regulated schools they no longer call their press agents public relations men. . . . They are now sentiment stimulators. . . . .

Purdue's annual football clinic will be held April 5 and 6. . . . Assisting Coach Noble Kizer will be Elmer Layden of Notre Dame, Mal Elward, and Dr. Gordon A. Thomas of the Purdue staf, Joe Dienhart of Cathedral High school, Indianapolis; John Kyle, Froebel High school, Gary, and R. F. Struck of Wabash High school. . . . L. T. Flatto, a Jewish promoter with an Italian name, promoted an Irish boxing show in a German locality in New York on St. Patrick's eve. . . . Lou Comiskey averages four or five hot dogs a day when he is with the ball club. . . . Ever Hammer, a contender for the lightweight title in Benny Leonard's day, spends most of his time attending court trials. . . . St. Ambrose college of Davenport was undefeated both in football and basketball in conference games this year. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Harry Greb was a 7 to 5 favorite to defeat Gene Tunney at St. Paul. . . . Eddie Kane, manager of Tommy Gibbons, refused New York's offer of $75,000 for his fighter to meet Gene Tunney. . . . The Chicago Riding club polo team defeated Fort Sheridan, 9 to 5. . . . Mrs. Melvin Jones of Chicago defeated Mrs. G. H. Bright, 5 and 3, in the first round of the 23d annual north and south golf tournament.

O'MAHONEY PINS GARIBALDI; TAKES ONLY 16 MINUTES

A crowd of 1,426 went to the Coliseum annex last night to see for themselves if half the good things said about the latest European wrestling importation — Danno O'Mahoney of County Cork, Ireland—were true. Along about 10:35 o'clock these fans, most of whom were Irish, left the arena convinced the 22 year old giant was a real wrestler.

O'Mahoney put them in this frame of mind by tossing Gino Galibaldi, the old St. Louis coal miner, in 16 minutes. In so doing he again displayed what he calls the Irish whip, which is nothing more than the old arm flying mare.

Jim McMillen, the old trouper from Grays Lake, threw Casey Birger in 20:50 in the semi-final.

Gus Sonnenberg and Joe Vargas drew, 30:00.

Olaf Olson and Darno Ostapovich, drew in 30:00.

Bobby Bruns threw Johnny Hepner, 11:05.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Intrateam matches were ruled out. Each of the squad fought an opponent selected from outstanding amateur boxers in the city. And each of the three rounds was of three minutes duration, the tournament schedule Friday night.

3,500 Tickets Remain.

General admission tickets at 50 cents each are the only tickets now available for the intercity bouts. While 500 were sold yesterday, there are approximately 3,500 of these left, and they will be sold to the first comers. General admission tickets may be purchased at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, and in the lobby of Tribune Tower.

The final rigorous training periods will continue today and tomorrow, after which Coaches John Behr and Freddie Caserio believe that Chicago's greatest team of boxers will be ready to score a convincing victory over New York. Nothing less will satisfy Chicago partisans. A victory will preserve Chicago's record of never having lost a Stadium tournament. It also will give Chicago a fourth victory, others having been registered in 1930, 1931, and 1933.

Pasquale Cannavino, father of Pat Kelly, a featherweight member of the Chicago team, died yesterday in Cleveland from injuries sustained in an automobile accident last week. As a result Kelly, who rushed home by airplane Saturday, will not compete in the intercity series Friday. Al Nettlow, 1934 champion, may step into Kelly's position and fight the New York runnerup.

Urso Flashes Great Form.

Patsy Urso, Chicago flyweight Golden Gloves champion, who last year, as runner-up, led off in Madison Square Garden with an intercity victory, hammered through three rounds yesterday in brilliant form. Patsy is rapidly reaching his peak. Either Jimmy Urso, Patsy's brother who won the Grand Rapids, Mich., championship this year while Patsy was whipping Detroit rivals, or Jesse Levels of Cleveland, will draw the honor of leading off Friday night. Levels had a great day in the ring yesterday.

Bring on New York!

There seems to be no question of ability in the lighter weights. Troy Bellini, the 1934 Golden Gloves champion, a rival with William Joyce of Gary, Ind., for the runner-up position, danced through his boxing session with the same skill which compiled a record of 23 consecutive triumphs last year. And Johnny Brown, this season's king of the bantamweights, one of Chicago's greatest amateurs, again demonstrated his slashing speed to the satisfaction of the coaches.

To the list of outstanding performers in yesterday's workouts should be

BY ED STORER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 25.—Amateur boxers from the Latium department gained an unexpected victory here over the Lombardy team, 14 points to 2 last night, to win the regional team boxing championship of Italy.

The Latium team, otherwise Romans [for the Latium department is coextensive with Rome province], won six fights out of eight, drawing two. An enthusiastic crowd from the workmen's quarter of the city watched the matches which were held in Giovinelli theater.

Lombardy's chances of winning were hurt by the disqualification of the Milanese heavyweight, Saruggia, for hitting low in the first round. Saruggia, who is expected to be the heavyweight representative of Italy in Chicago, thus loses points, but it is not believed that last night's decision will affect seriously his excellent chances of being included in the squad to meet the Golden Glovers.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 25.—The Cubs this afternoon sagged back to the .500 mark in their spring exhibition standing when they took a 3 to 2 whipping at the hands of the Seattle Indians. The Chicagoans now have played a dozen games and have absorbed two spankings from the White Sox and one each from Sacramento, Oakland, San Francisco, and Seattle.

Fabian Kowalik held the Indians to one single in the first five innings, but asked to go an inning longer than his quota. It was a case of going to the well once too often, for Fabian allowed two runs for a tie before he went away.

The game was decided at the expense of Hugh Casey in the eighth, when Lefty Louie Vinci, the Indians' second pitcher, led off with a homer. Vinci, as a pitcher, also was a pretty warm citizen. Cavarretta, first man to face him in the sixth, landed on an infield scratch hit and thereafter not a Chicagoan got on base.

One More with Indians.

The Cubs have to face the Indians again tomorrow. Bryant will pitch and Vice President Grimm thinks he has Tex Carleton talked into making his 1935 debut.

The score was 1 to 0 in favor of the Cubs at the end of the first three innings. The Cubs made their run before any one was out in the opening inning. Galan was safe on Harrington's error and singles by Herman and Klein got him home.

In the second inning Hartnett led off with a single to center and reached third on Chhocki's single to the left field wall. Chhocki, obliged to wait to see if Gabby was going to clear the paths, was sunk at second when he eventually tried to stretch his effort to a double. Hartnett died on third because Kowalik and Galan supplied easy outs.

Kowalik Sets Record.

The first Indian to reach first off Kowalik was Harrington, who singled with one out in the fourth. He was caught stealing and Donovan ended the inning by fanning the second time.

The Cubs added their second run in the fourth. Hartnett and Kowalik were on base as the result of walks when Galan slammed a double to right center, which enabled Hartnett to dash home. The inning ended with Herman's grounder to Harrington.

Kowalik set a new record for the Cub exhibition season when he went to the post for the sixth inning. The Indians apparently thought they were facing a new pitcher for they hopped on the man who had held them to one single in the previous five innings. Gyselman led off with a single to cen-

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Bernardino, Cal., March 25.—The White Sox enjoyed a fair amount of acceptable pitching today, but it avalled them nothing in their effort to make it two straight over Pittsburgh's Pirates. The pitching went to naught because the Chicagoans couldn't hit and on top of it were somewhat wabbly in their fielding. The result was a 4 to 1 victory for the National leaguers, their fourth in the five exhibitions played to date.

What ruined the day for the Sox was a busy first inning in which three Pirates found their way around to the plate. Sam Jones, the 42 year old youngster, was making his spring debut at the time and three hits were recorded before he could conclude the inning. But the damage might have been less extensive if Jack Hayes, in the midst of Jones' troubles, hadn't booted a ground ball. After that bad start Jones was O. K. in his two remaining innings.

Lyons Shows Old Skill.

The pain of the trimming was eased because Ted Lyons seemed like a pitcher in a three inning workout. The one time wizard whose arm has been a mystery for several seasons gave up only one hit, a double by Lloyd Waner, who always is bothering somebody. Lyons even refused to show concern when Hayes made his second error with nobody out in the fifth inning. After Lyons had made his contribution to the afternoon's amusement John Rigney, the Chicago semi-pro, was summoned. He was frisked for a run because of another miscue in the Sox defense.

The Sox had two Pirate pitchers to contend with, the first being good and the second slightly better. They reached Bill Swift for only four hits in five innings. An error happened to be mixed up with one of the hits, hence a run came home. Then the venerable Waite Hoyt, ex-Yankee, hobbled out, and all the Chicagoans could get off him was a scratch single.

The Pirates accomplished much more in their initial assault on Jones. Lloyd Waner led off with a walk and Jensen beat out a hit to Dykes. Hayes fumbled Herman's roller and the bases were loaded. Waner scored on Vaughan's force of Herman. Traynor's single over first sent Jensen home. Vaughan scored on Suhr's single to left. Jones then stopped the parade with the aid of one handed catches by Simmons and Appling.

Soft for Mr. Hoyt.

Hoyt had such a soft time in the sixth and seventh that only six batters faced him, three of them striking out. In the eighth, however, the Sox really got a man to base. Washington survived on a fumble by Vaughan with one out, but this led to nothing except a blow on the back of the head for Appling. He forced Washington and in an attempt at a double play Thevenow threw the ball wild. Appling raced to third on the error and just as he slid into the bag the return throw crashed against his fresh hair cut. Appling wasn't hurt. Neither did he score.

A bunt by Suhr was the contributing factor in the run scored off the youthful Rigney in the eighth. Shea picked up the ball and heaved it past Bonura, the runner going to third. Rigney immediately cut loose with a wild pitch on which Suhr scored.

Face Lucas, Bush Today.

The Sox and Pirates will repeat their act here tomorrow, after which they'll start eastward by easy stages. For the second game here the Pirates will use Red Lucas and Guy Bush. For the first time since the barnstorming got under way, Manager Dykes will try to get along on two pitchers, Lee Stine and Vernon Kennedy, both prospective starters for the coming season.

The State Teachers' college of St. Cloud defeated the C. Y. O. All-Stars, 2 to 0, last night in the western division play of the National A. A. U. hocky tourney at the Stadium. Late in the third period Bjork broke away from a mass play and outskated the All-Stars to beat Poulin.

The Ruths scored near the middle of the first period, Art Samec taking a double pass from John Pleban and Paul Schaefer. The second Ruth goal came early in the second period with Al Richards picking up a loose puck in the Eveleth area and beat Goalie Drobnich.

OLIN OUTPOINTS MICKEY DUGAN IN NONTITLE BOUT

Olin sent a smashing left hook into Dugan's midriff in the third round and Dugan went down for a count of nine. The champion was given five rounds by the judges. Dugan carried three.

Jimmy Belmont of Pittsburgh was awarded the referee's decision over Babe Risko of Syracuse when the judges disagreed. Some time after the show had closed, however, Oscar Jacoby, chairman of the Cleveland boxing commission, reversed the referee and called the result of the match "no decision."

Paul Pirrone, of Cleveland, was awarded an eight round decision over Solly Dukelsy, of Chicago. Pirrone floored the Chicagoan in the sixth round for an eight count.

Carmen Barth of Cleveland, who substituted for Teddy Yarosz, middleweight title-holder, out because of a knee injury, floored Abie Bain, of New York, five times to win by a technical knockout in the first round.

MARIBEL VINSON ENTERS STADIUM SKATING SHOW

Maribel Y. Vinson of Boston, winner of the women's United States title for the seventh time, will skate on the program featuring international figure skating champions to be presented at the Chicago Stadium April 7.

Miss Vinson will be making her premier showing here. She has spent the greater part of her time during the last few winters in Europe.

Clinton C. Riley, Veteran Racing Authority, Dies

Until a year ago he was active as editor of the Chicago Racing Form and its star handicapper. He had been one of the Daily Racing Form's editors since the paper was founded in Chicago more than forty years ago until he retired early in 1934 because of failing health.

Race track people agreed that Judge Riley, who was born in Cumberland, O., knew the history of more thoroughbred horses than any other man in America.

As a young man he practiced law at Bedford, Ind., but soon gave up that profession for newspaper work. His editorial work on the west coast attracted wide attention and he became managing editor of the San Francisco Examiner. Later he served as managing editor of the Herald and Inter-Ocean in Chicago, and from the latter position he went to Daily Racing Form.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at his late residence at 300 North Humphrey avenue in Oak Park at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Oakridge cemetery.

SMITTY—STARS FELL ON SLICK

Prince Comixa Is Victor at Tropical Park

Miami, Fla., March 25.—[Special.]—Prince Comixa by prince of Wales—Comixa, scored his second victory in two starts at this track when he was first at Tropical Park this afternoon. It was a program in which all races included the claiming clause, but they were contested over a fast track and the spectators did not seem to mind the quality of the competition.

Prince Comixa now bears the colors of C. Murray and won by a length at $11.10 for $2 over Feudal Lord, which was just up by a head to gain second. Fredrick, the 2 to 1 favorite, was next just staggering in to save third by a nose from Hastinip. The finish after that was Col. Greene, Idle Victory, Fire Mask and Sweetbroom.

Fredrick Weakens in Stretch.

Prince Comixa and Fredrick were the speed horses of the race but the latter found the strain in the stretch too great. Jocky L. Dupre had the leg up on the winner.

Wayne D. Wright rode Feudal Lord and added further to his laurels as Florida's leading rider by scoring a double aboard Skotchy in the second and Shuffle On in the third, in addition he was third with Polly Rita and second with Dancing Boy. He never was out of the money on his five mounts.

Skotchy Even Money Shot.

Skotchy was an even money shot in the second and is owned and trained by R. H. Shannon. He took the lead at the start and never was headed to win by three lengths. Jack Snipe was a game second to save the place by a head from Sighting Bar.

GAR WOOD WILL MAKE TEST WITH MISS AMERICA X.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 25.—(AP)—Gar Wood's Miss America X., world's fastest boat, will taste the advantages of salt water and sea level in a race against time for the first time tomorrow.

Wood announced he will put the big craft through a test run on Indian creek, weather permitting, preparatory to an attempt to better its own speed mark of 124.86 miles an hour before the week is out.

Miss America is virtually the same boat which set the record in the Detroit river, Michigan, in September, 1932, shortly after she successfully staved off Kaye Don's challenge for the Harmsworth trophy.

New superchargers which, in block tests, raised the combined horse power of the four motors from 6,400 to approximately 7,500 are the important change.

WESTWARD HO WILL OPEN GOLF SEASON MAY 15

Westward-Ho Country club will open its golf tournament season with Bang-Up day on May 15 and finish with Taps Day on Aug. 7, it was announced yesterday.

Knollwood club will stage its annual invitational event on July 17.

The Brae Burn club, formerly Columbian, has changed its name to Windsor Golf and Country club.

The Skokie Country club will be host to the Chicago District Golf association for a one day handicap event to be held Sept. 12. Skokie is holding its annual Klitie day July 25.

Lewin Beats McElligott in 3-Cushion Billiards

RED SOX POUND FRANKHOUSE; WIN OVER BRAVES, 7-2

Cronin and Ferrell Lead Victors' Attack.

Sarasota, Fla., March 25.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox battered Freddy Frankhouse, the Boston Braves' star right-hander, for 12 hits in six innings today while gaining their second straight victory over the National leaguers, 7 to 2.

Babe Ruth started in right field for the Braves and, after getting one single out of three trips to the plate, stepped out in favor of Rupert Thompson.

The Red Sox attack was led by Manager Joe Cronin and Rick Ferrell, both of them getting three out of four, including a double. The Red Sox clinched the game in the third inning by putting together six hits, including Billy Werber's double, for three runs. Score:

Boston [N.]	000	000 002	2 8 4

YANKEES, 9; NEWARK, 0.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 25.—(AP)—The hitting of Ben Chapman, combined with the pitching of Vernon [Lefty] Gomez and Johnny Murphy, gave the New York Yankees a 9 to 0 victory today over the Newark Bears of the International league.

Chapman made five trips to the plate and hit safely four times. His collection included three singles and a double.

Lou Gehrig, the Yankees' home run king, failed to connect in two official times at bat, and to date has made only two hits in 28 times at bat. Score:

Newark [IL.]	000	000 000	0 5 2

REDS, 9; TORONTO, 5.

Tampa, Fla., March 25.—(AP)—Taking kindly to the offerings of Cooke, Toronto pitcher, the Cincinnati Reds defeated Cincinnati's International league farm, 9 to 5, in an exhibition game today.

Three singles, three walks, and three errors brought the Reds 4 runs in the first, and they coasted to victory thereafter. Score:

Toronto [I. L.]	020	003 000	5 10 4

ATHLETICS, 15; GIANTS, 10.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 25.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics defeated the New York Giants, 15 to 10, today and squared the exhibition series between the two teams at three victories each.

The Athletics collected seventeen hits off the wild pitching served up by Castleman, Stout and Leonardo of Manager Bill Terry's junior hurling squad. Coleman and Cramer collected almost half their team's hits, getting four each. Coleman's assortment included a triple and a homer. Score:

Batteries—Cain and Foxx; Castleman, Stout, Leonardo and Mancuso, Danning.

SENATORS LIKE REDMOND.

Biloxi, Miss., March 25.—(AP)—His long distance walloping in recent exhibition games plus ability to nurse hurlers along has brought Jack Redmond, former Birmingham backstop, into the three cornered battle for Washington's regular catcher.

The youngster, whose meager hitting mark in the Southern association did not tag him as a worthy contender with Cliff Bolton and Sam Holbrook, has shown unexpected power at bat and has about convinced Manager Bucky Harris that he should be given a major league opportunity.

TIGERS TEST BATS.

Lakeland, Fla., March 25.—(AP)—Manager Mickey Cochrane put the 1934 pennant winning Tigers through a stiff batting and fielding drill today in an effort to iron out the kinks that have bobbed up in exhibition games.

Detroit will resume its grapefruit league competition here tomorrow against the Rochester Internationals, with Hatter and Marberry pitching.

Millard [Dixie] Howell, former Alabama football star, disclosed today that he had definitly rejected a movie career because professional baseball "offers the better future."

ORIOLES, 10; PHILLIES, 8.

KISSIMMEE, Fla., March 25.—(AP)—The Phillies said good-by to their winning streak today, losing to the Baltimore Orioles, 10 to 8. Previously they had won five Grapefruit league games in a row.

The Orioles pounded Pearce, E. Moore, Bowman, and Bivin for 16 hits, four of them homers over the fences on three sides of the field. Camilli hit a homer for the Phillies. Score:

Baltimore [IL]	150	013 21*	10 16 2

KNICKERBOCKER SOON READY.

New Orleans, La., March 25.—(AP)—Manager Walter Johnson received cheerful news today as the Cleveland Indians entrained for Florida to open a fifteen game series against the New York Giants tomorrow.

Johnson was assured by doctors attending his prize shortstop, Bill Knickerbocker, who underwent an operation for appendicitis, that Bill would be ready to take his place in the Indians' lineup in four weeks' time.

Knickerbocker was released from the hospital today. He will work out, probably in two weeks, he said, under Manager Larry Gilbert of the New Orleans Pelicans.

BROOKLYN BOY MAKES GOOD.

Orlando, Fla., March 25.—(AP)—A Brooklyn boy has made good with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Manager Casey Stengel certified this today when he announced that Harry Eisenstadt, who was serving them up only a couple of years ago for the James Madison High school team in Brooklyn, had won a berth on the Dodgers' pitching staf. Eisenstadt's impressive pitching in two games against the Detroit Tigers clinched the place for him. Casey intimated that he will be used tomorrow in the exhibition game with the Montreal Royals of the International league.

BROWNS GET WORKOUT.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 25.—(AP)—For the first time since spring training began a month ago, Manager Rogers Hornsby today permitted the St. Louis Browns to indulge in a leisurely workout.

Sims Pair Holds 2,200 Point Lead on Culbertsons

New York, March 25.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. P. Hal Sims were leading by 2,200 points at the end of the first evening's play tonight in their 150 rubber match at contract bridge with Mr. and Mrs. Ely C. Culbertson. Four rubbers were played tonight.

The first rubber, requiring six hands, gave the Culbertsons a lead of 890 points. Each of the Culbertsons made a game, Sims made one game, Culbertson was set once and Mrs. Sims once. Mrs. Sims made one part score contract.

On the second rubber the Simses reduced the Culbertson lead to 210; on the third went ahead by 700, and on the fourth increased the lead to 2,200.

On the fourth rubber, Sims bid and made the only little slam of the evening, six spades, which netted him 680 points. The scene of the match was Crockford's club, the luxurious bridge haunt established by Culbertson. It formerly was the town house of Mrs. Charles H. Sabin.

The players sit within a glorified "squared circle," like a prize ring, in the card room on the club's second floor. In the corners within the silken ropes are four chairs for scorers and referees. A red wooden bleachers to one side holds chairs for spectators.

FEW AMERICANS TO SEEK TITLE IN BRITISH AMATEUR

New York, March 25.—(AP)—A small but promising delegation of American golfers will make the trip to England for the British amateur tournament, starting May 20, at the Royal Lytham St. Annes course. William Lawson Little Jr., San Francisco, will be on hand to defend the title he won a year ago.

The British and amateur champion's fellow countrymen, who will oppose him for the crown will include T. Suffern Tailer and Richard M. [Dick] Chapman, among the ablest of the metropolitan district's players, and Robert W. Knolles Jr., Boston.

When Little begins defense of the British title the odds against his repeating will be at least 100 to 1, for no American ever has won the title two years in a row. That distinction can be claimed by only two Britains, H. G. Hutchinson, in 1886 and 1887, and Harold Hilton in 1900 and 1901.

53 REPORT FOR SPRING FOOTBALL DRILL ON MIDWAY

Shaughnessy Opens Five Weeks' Practice.

Fifty-three candidates for the 1935 University of Chicago football team, led by Capt. Jay Berwanger, opened an intensive five week spring training program at the Midway yesterday. One of the largest turnouts in some years at Chicago, the group included all of the men who are likely to be regulars.

The drill was limited to a light workout and instruction on the fundamentals of Coach Clark Shaughnessy's system of attack. The group which worked under the personal supervision of the coach had Bob Perretz and Bill Gillerlain at the ends, Merritt Bush and Clarence Wright at tackles, Prescott Jordan and Harmon Meigs at guards, Sam Whiteside at center, Rainwater Wells at quarter back, Berwanger and Ned Bartlett at the halves and Ewald Nyquist at full back. All these men are veterans.

Assisting Shaughnessy were Otto Strohmeier and Bob Deem, working with the linemen, and Julian Lopez, Nelson Norgren and Tommy Flinn, who was quarter back last year, working with the backs.

Twenty-eight men who will be sophomores next fall were among the candidates, the most promising of this lot being linemen. Included among the veterans who worked out were Ralph Baltanz, Adolph Schuessler, and Earl Sappington. Several potential members of the squad are out for other spring sports.

The cigar on the left was a good 5c value for years. The other cigar—Bayuk PHILLIES—was the outstanding 10c brand for years. Both sell today for 5c.

Ask yourself . . ask any dealer . . which cigar should offer you the best value for your money.

Bayuk PHILLIES is NOT a regular 5c cigar. It contains tobaccos not commonly used in 5c cigars . . the finest of Havana and Domestic long-filler . . the finest Imported Sumatra wrapper.

It's the blend of these fine tobaccos that gives PHILLIES that distinctive MELLOW flavor—a flavor that has made PHILLIES the largest-selling cigar at any price in America.

If you haven't tried PHILLIES—consider this. Why buy a regular 5c cigar when you can enjoy this guaranteed former 10c brand for the same money?

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 25.—[Special.]—In the slowest trading since Feb. 13, bond prices yesterday declined moderately. United States government obligations were strong exceptions. Industrials were relatively firm, but the rails and the utilities were under pressure.

Transactions totaled $8,279,000, as compared with about $10,250,000 on last Friday.

Federals Fairly Active.

United States government issues gained 1-32 to 10-32 point in rather active dealing, transactions amounting to $1,800,000, as compared with $1,462,000 on last Friday. Interest was centered in the Treasury 3s of 1951-'55 and the Home Owners Loan obligations.

In the domestic corporation group, the second grade rail issues were the weak feature, and declines ranging from 1 to 4½ points were numerous. The St. Paul, the Southern Pacific, Chicago & North Western, and some of the New York Central issues were among those to decline.

Top Grades Vary Little.

Because of the monetary unsettlement abroad, some of the high grade foreign issues fell sharply. The French 7¾s declined 2¾ points and the 7s broke 3½ points, both to new low levels for the year. Belgian bonds were under pressure but they held generally above their lows of last week. German issues were steady. The Dawes Plan 7s were unchanged while the Young Plan 5½s advanced ⅝ point.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, March 25.—(AP)—Print cloths showed no change in an inactive market today. Moderate sales of finished goods were reported. Many new types of rayon fabrics were shown for fall and late spring. Openings of dress fabrics and coatings for fall may be delayed by readjustment of garment worker trade agreements.

Eastern Shore Public Service.

Investors' Guide: I wish to know about Eastern Shore Public Service.
R. J. W.

Answer: Eastern Shore Public Service company furnishes electricity and gas to 223 communities, with a population of 114,000, in Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia. Ten communities are also furnished with ice.

During the first nine months of 1934 gross revenues totaled $1,640,000 and net income was $208,000, or $5.88 per preferred share. Gross for 1933 was $2,149,000, against $2,192,000 for 1932, $2,177,000 for 1931 and $1,898,000 for 1930. Net income in 1933 was $270,000, or $7.63 per preferred share, against $342,000, or $9.84 per preferred share, for 1932. Net for 1931 was $510,000, against $350,000 for 1930.

Current position on Sept. 30, 1934, was satisfactory. Funded debt was $7,050,000. There were outstanding 546 shares of $25 par 8 per cent preferred, 15,014 shares of $6.50 dividend no par preferred, and 20,220 shares of $6 dividend no par preferred.

On Jan. 1, 1935, the company cut rates in one territory $15,000 a year. On Jan. 8, 1935, property owners in Seaford, Del., served by the company, voted in favor of a $150,000 bond issue for erection of a municipal plant.

Dividends have been paid regularly on the preferred. The stock is medium grade and somewhat speculative.

Public Service Co. of Colorado.

Investors' Guide: What can you tell me of Public Service of Colorado first 5½s, due 1954?—C. C. R.

Answer: Public Service Company of Colorado is an operating company, a unit of the Cities Service system. It supplies about two-thirds of Colorado's gas and electricity requirements. Gas and electricity are furnished to about 130 communities, including Denver, Boulder and Fort Collins.

Margin of coverage during 1930 and 1931 held well above previous years' margins, but fell off somewhat during the two succeeding years, following the trend of gross revenues. Gross for 1933 was $12,936,000, against $14,048,000 for 1932, $14,652,000 for 1931 and $14,172,000 for 1930. Charges were covered 1.72 times in 1933, 1.89 times in 1932, 2.24 times in 1931 and 2.34 times in 1930.

There has been agitation in Denver for construction of a municipal electric plant. In August, 1934, the company cut its Denver gas rates. Following a determined drive for municipal ownership of utilities in Fort Collins the company submitted a lower electric rate schedule.

Earnings of the company over a long period have covered fixed charges by good margins and current position at the close of 1933 was satisfactory. Agitation for municipal ownership, however, is a disturbing factor. The first mortgage and refunding bonds, due 1953, 1954 and 1961, are a business man's investment.

PRICES OF COTTON FUTURES ADVANCE 10 TO 22 POINTS

Buying of cotton futures, based on a statement by Senator Bankhead of Alabama to the effect the government was certain to give farmers an adequate loan on this year's crop, carried prices up around $1.50 per bale at the maximum yesterday. While the best figures were not maintained the close was at gains ranging from 12 to 22 points in New Orleans and New York. Chicago, which had rallied after other markets closed on Saturday, was up 10 to 16 points.

Spot cotton gained 20 points, or $1 per bale, with New Orleans, Galveston, and Houston 11.35 cents, and New York 11.40 cents per pound. Prices follow:

DEPOSITS DROP AS INCOME TAX TAKES ITS TOLL

Member Banks Show 328 Million Sag.

Heavy withdrawal of funds to care for income tax payments and a flight of bank deposits from Illinois to escape state personal property tax levies April 1 are indicated in the weekly member bank report covering operations in ninety-one leading cities of the country. Gross deposits of these banks slumped 328 million dollars in the week ended March 20. The total fell 142 millions in New York, 65 millions here, and 121 millions elsewhere.

Individual deposits dropped 17 millions in New York and 61 millions in the 89 cities, but fell 65 millions in Chicago, with much of the decline here ascribed to the flight of funds. At the same time holdings of government bonds in Chicago dropped 31 millions, which observers said indicated purchases of tax free short term paper by corporations from the banks as a further endeavor to escape the personalty tax.

Interbank Deposits Drop.

Interbank deposits in New York moved 125 millions lower. Chicago reported a loss of 14 millions and the interior a decrease of 47 millions, a net downturn of 186 millions. Withdrawal of 13 millions in government deposits from banks in the 89 cities was more than offset by an increase of 14 millions in Chicago.

Total loans and investments for the country sagged 24 millions. Security loans dipped 71 millions, brokers' loans dropped 76 millions, and other types of collateralized advances gained 5 millions.

Commercial acceptances and real estate loans gained 2 millions each, business loans rose 8 millions, holdings of government paper increased 40 millions, and securities other than governments decreased 5 millions.

The 89 cities—New York and Chicago excluded—reported gains of 60 millions in loans and investments, 2 millions each in real estate loans and brokers' loans outside New York, a million in business loans, and 65 millions in federal bond holdings.

Security Loans Decline.

Losses of 45 millions were shown in security loans, 11 millions in brokers' advances in New York, 2 millions in other types of security loans, and a million dollars in holdings of securities other than governments.

Dollar Under Attack Abroad as Well as Here

BY HOWARD WOOD.

While politicians from silver states, bonus advocates, and radical farm leaders are attempting to undermine the United States dollar from one side, current developments in Europe threaten to undermine it from another.

Inflationists at home want to debase the dollar further by printing greenbacks, expanding the government debt and diluting the metallic base with more silver at artificially high prices.

Abroad the dollar is running the danger of having to lose more of its gold content in order to compete in the international currency depreciation race, which is fast becoming a free for all.

* *

When President Roosevelt, following the advice of Professors Warren and Rogers, and acting upon authority granted him by congress, reduced the gold content of the dollar approximately 40 per cent, this action was hailed by the dollar devaluationists as a means of raising commodity prices at home and also as a means of enabling American exporters to regain markets lost to Great Britain and other nations in the so-called "sterling" group, which had already cheapened their currencies.

Now it appears that instead of aiding American sales abroad the 40 per cent dollar devaluation merely contributes to a downward spiral of currencies all over the world and leads to demands for more of the same medicine because the first dose hasn't cured the disease.

Before the United States debased the dollar the British pound was already about 40 per cent below its former parity. The 40 per cent devaluation of the dollar brought the dollar and the pound close to their old gold standard ratio—$4.86 per pound—but both dollar and pound were worth only about 60 per cent of their former value in terms of gold and currencies still based on gold.

* *

Things went along fairly smoothly for months, but storm clouds were gathering. A few weeks ago signs began to appear that the industrial boomlet which Great Britain had been enjoying for about a year was tapering off. British industrialists and others began to clamor for more devaluation of the pound to regain their advantage in world markets. The pound began to slip. Whether this decline was engineered by the British government through its equalization fund or whether it was the natural consequence of the shifting of uneasy capital from London to the gold standard countries has not been discovered. Probably it was a combination of both.

Just about that time the economic crisis in the remaining gold standard nations became more acute. Belgian, French, Dutch, and Swiss industries have found it increasingly difficult to sell in the world's markets against industries in nations which have cheapened their currencies and are hence able to underbid them. The French and Swiss tourist trade also has declined sharply for the same reason.

This decline in business volume in the remaining "gold bloc" nations has heightened the agitation in those countries for devaluation, an agitation which is somewhat offset by the opposition of those elements of the population which suffered most in the post-war inflation, but one which has been becoming rapidly more important politically.

Belgium is already only nominally on the gold standard, due to the imposition of certain restrictions on the export of gold. Switzerland is to have a plebiscite on a national economic policy in June. Meantime, in these nations industrial output is dwindling and unemployment is growing. It is generally believed to be only a question of time before they abandon the gold standard.

If France, Belgium, Holland, and Switzerland should devalue their currencies, the world will be approximately back where it started from as far as international currency rates are concerned. But the race has only begun. Every nation off the gold standard is a potential further devaluer, and with each devaluation the political pressure for a still further devaluation becomes more insistent.

Meantime the pot of gold which each nation thought it would find at the end of the rainbow has not been discovered. Supposed trade advantages expected to be reaped by industrialists in one nation have failed to occur because other nations have thought of the same formula.

* *

And all the while the free flow of commerce between nations is being curtailed by uncertainty regarding money values and by quotas, embargoes, and other artificial restrictions.

The foreign trade figures for the United States in January indicate that the United States is fast losing its traditional "favorable" balance of trade. And this year's figures are in terms of 60 cent dollars. In that month American exports were about 4 millions higher than in January, 1934, but American imports were nearly 32 millions higher than in January, 1934.

Price of Silver May Be Raised for Americans

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 25.—[Special.]—Strong probability that the government soon will raise the price of silver mined in the United States above the present level of 64½ cents an ounce loomed today as the price of industrial silver hit a new high for eight years of 60 cents.

An arbitrary American boost could be accomplished by an executive order from President Roosevelt without additional legislation. Its effect would be to preserve the bonus over and above world prices which American silver producers have wrung from the administration.

Big Supply of Silver.

The fact that the administration thus far has acquired 332 million ounces of silver at a cost of approximately 175 million dollars since embarking on its silver policy also came to light for the first time today.

Silver acquired by the treasury thus far falls into three categories, as follows: Silver purchased in world markets, 198,400,000 ounces at an estimated average price of 50 cents an ounce; silver seized under the nationalization order of Aug. 9, 112,600,000 ounces at 50 cents an ounce; newly mined silver purchased since Dec. 21, 1938, 31 million ounces at 64½ cents an ounce.

The rise of world silver prices today started the rumor that the United States treasury soon will boost the price which it is paying for this third class of silver, the silver newly mined within the United States.

Silver Bloc Causes Boost.

Domestic silver producers, through the powerful silver bloc in the senate, have continually insisted that they be given a price higher than that prevailing in world markets. As the world price today approached the price for domestic silver, it appeared likely that the treasury would have to boost its price for domestic silver in order to preserve the premium upon which the silver senators insist.

How soon such action may be taken or how high the new price may be set still are matters of speculation. Eighty cents an ounce has been mentioned as a price, and the ultimate goal of the silver senators, of course, is to force the price all the way to the monetary maximum of $1.29 an ounce.

The fact that Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. is now absent on a week's vacation and that President Roosevelt leaves tonight was pointed out as one possible bar to immediate raising of the silver price. Other observers recalled that the President was out of town when silver was nationalized last summer. The nationalization order had been drafted before he left, and was merely issued automatically as silver prices hit 50 cents. The same arrangement could have been made in this instance.

Silver Rises a Cent.

New York, March 25.—(AP)—Bar silver for industrial use was quoted today at 60 cents an ounce, an advance of 1 cent over the previous day and the highest recorded level since Oct. 26, 1928. The previous high for this year was 59⅛ cents, established about a week ago.

In Montreal the futures market rose from 1.1 to 1.25 cents, March closing at 60½ cents bid and May at 61 cents bid, after sales ranging from 60.45 to 60.95 cents. The more deferred deliveries were as strong and, as usual, higher, July closing at 61.45 cents bid and September 62.05 cents bid.

FLIGHT FROM BELGA REPORTED AS MONEY VALUE SINKS AGAIN

New York, March 25.—[Special.]—Flight of capital from Belgium by airplanes to avoid the effects of probable depreciation of that currency broke the price of the belga nearly a full cent in foreign exchange markets today. According to advices received by exchange dealers it fell 89 points to 23.33 cents.

This was accompanied by reports that Dr. Paul van Zeeland, selected by King Leopold to head the new cabinet, was having difficulties in forming it and might resort to devaluation.

Use of airplanes to carry Belgian money to London for sale is characterized in the exchange market as smuggling in evasion of the restrictions imposed by the former government on movement of funds out of the country.

It caused a demand here for sterling, which advanced 1⅝ cents to 4.78½. The gold currencies were scarcely affected, the French franc closing at 6.59⅛, off ¼ point.

At this level the dollar was worth $1.0064 against francs, compared with $1.0060 on Saturday. The gold value of the dollar, based on the old parity of the franc, was 59.44 cents, against 59.42 cents on Saturday.

The French franc approached the gold import point of 6.59 cents, while other gold bloc currencies were under their respective import points. Swiss francs and Holland guilders were nearly steady, with the former 1 point lower at 32.35 cents and the latter off 3 points at 67.56 cents.

The gold price in London declined 5½ pence to 145 shillings 7½ pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.75. An amount valued at $1,432,125 was purchased in the open market.

Stable Money Not Near Now, U. S. Indicates

Washington, D. C., March 25—(AP)—Currency stabilization, constantly demanded by business interests, again was made a thing of the indefinite future today by a treasury statement that the issues involved were insufficiently clarified.

This assertion followed a suggestion in London by Robert W. Bingham, ambassador to Great Britain, that "at the proper time the Washington and London governments should "arrive at an understanding" on tieing the value of the dollar and pound.

It came at a time which found the administration striving to defeat inflationary legislation calling for payment of the soldier bonus in new currency and for a sizable increase in silver certificates in circulation.

Asks Further Devaluation.

Meanwhile, the house banking committee, studying an administration bill to increase centralized control of the banking and currency systems, heard a plea for further devaluation of the dallar from Edward A. O'Neal, president of the farm bureau federation.

Of Bingham's suggestion the White House would say nothing, and the prompt conclusion was that Roosevelt was standing by his last statement on the subject to the effect that prices are still too low to be frozen at their present levels by stabilization. His viewpoint is that rising prices reduce the nation's debt burden, much of which was obligated at a time of high prices, and that this process has still some distance to go, although he has never said just how far.

Opposes Fixed Price Goal.

What for months was a general assumption that the 1926 price level was the administration's goal was considerably shaken by the recent testimony of Gov. Eccles of the federal reserve board before the house committee opposing the making of any particular price level a definite goal.

In some quarters, economists hold that there is nothing the United States can do regarding stabilization of the pound and dollar. The latter has been given a definite gold export value of $35 an ounce, this opinion runs, and it remains for Great Britain to take the stabilizing step by pinning the pound to a certain quantity of the yellow metal.

NEW OFFICIALS PREDICTED FOR CRANE COMPANY

Management Shift Expected Today.

Reorganization of the management of the Crane company, one of Chicago's most important industrial enterprises, is expected to be put into effect at the annual meeting of the stockholders to be held at 11 o'clock this morning in the company's general offices at 836 South Michigan avenue.

While a majority of the higher officials of the company will be continued in office, some new blood will be injected into the establishment through the election of outsiders to official positions, according to reports in La Salle street. Another change expected to take place, according to La Salle street, is a reduction in the number of directors and inclusion of members who will represent outside interests that may be helpful to the company.

Officials Now Directors.

Of the thirteen members of the present board, the majority are either officials of the company or are closely connected with the original Crane family by descent or by marriage.

J. B. Berryman, who has been connected with the company since 1892 and has been president since 1931, is expected either to continue in his present office or be made chairman of the board.

The present board includes the following: E. M. Ashcraft Jr., an attorney with Ashcraft & Ashcraft; Mr. Berryman, C. R. Crane II., vice president; Cornelius Crane, son of the late R. T. Crane Jr.; W. Evensen, treasurer; A. F. Gartz Jr., vice president, a grandson of R. T. Crane; P. T. Kelly, vice president; M. W. Lowell, a second vice president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company; C. B. Nolte, president of R. W. Hunt & Co., engineers; D. G. Park, vice president; E. A. Russell, who is married to Mary Crane, a daughter of R. T. Crane Sr.; H. W. Seymour, vice president, and C. A. G. Wayman, vice president.

Crane Family Large Holder.

The Crane family holds a large stock interest in the company. A report to the Securities and Exchange commission as of Dec. 31, 1934, stated that the estate of R. T. Crane Jr. held 923,015 shares on that date. The company has 2,348,628 shares of $25 par common stock outstanding. Charles R. Crane II. was recently reported by the commission as having sold 11,924 common shares, reducing his holding to 8,176 shares.

Operations of the company last year were on a profitable basis for the first time since 1930. Net income for 1934 amounted to $1,021,543, compared with a loss of $1,874,822 in 1933.

The Crane company was established in 1855. It manufactures and sells sanitary equipment, valves of all kinds, boilers, radiators, heating apparatus, etc. It has large plants here and in several other cities, as well as abroad. The 1934 annual report lists assets of $94,223,037.

Treasury Bills Are Sold on 0.109-0.139 Pct. Basis

Applications for the treasury's latest offering of 182-day bills totaled $108,329,000, of which $50,079,000 was accepted. The average price was 99.945 and the average rate 0.109 per cent annually on a bank discount basis. Applications for an issue of 272-day bills amounted to $117,186,000, of which $50,071,000 was accepted. The average price for this paper was 99.895, equal to a rate of 0.139 per cent annually.

Indict Fifteen for Stock Deal in Atlas Tack

New York, March 25.—[Special.]—Philip H. Philbin Jr., young financier who obtained control of the Atlas Tack corporation through the purchase of 47,000 shares of the 93,000 shares of its stock outstanding, was indicted today by the federal grand jury along with fourteen others.

The indictment, which charged mail fraud, conspiracy, and violation of the 1933 securities act in the manipulation of Atlas Tack stock, also named two corporate defendants. The first was McNeel's Financial service, which was purchased by the defendants in June, 1933. It was the reorganized McNeel concern and its high pressure salesmen, according to the indictment, which touted the purchase of Atlas stock, enabling the promoters to dump it on the market with a profit of $600,000.

The other corporate defendant is Philip H. Philbin Jr., Inc., organized in May, 1933, for the purpose of trading in Atlas stock, according to the indictment. Next to Philbin, who is now in India hunting tigers, the best known of the defendants is William L. Jarvis of Boston, said to have been the purchaser of the McNeel concern, the "brains" of the conspiracy, and the man who supplied the money which Philbin used to acquire Atlas stock.

The indictment is the first in this district to have been returned against violators of the securities act of 1933. That charge is outlined in one count. Another count charges conspiracy and fourteen counts allege mail fraud.

Leo C. Fennelly, assistant United States attorney, made it clear that the Atlas Tack corporation itself had nothing to do with the manipulation of its stock.

"High Pressure" by Telephone.

Fennelly said the high pressure salesmen ran up a telephone bill of $30,000 during the first two weeks of their campaign through McNeel's Financial Service, each salesman falsely representing himself to be Chauncey Day, president of McNeel's Financial service. Day, a house painter, served two hours a day as the "dummy" president.

In telephone conversations and by mail, the indictment charges, the defendants induced sale by saying that McNeel's had made a careful study of Atlas; that Atlas had large contracts for bottle caps from brewers; that Atlas was earning $6 to $8 a share, and that when this information was made public the stock would go up to $60 or $70.

Charge Unloading on Public.

When the public started to buy, Philbin and his confederates began to sell, Fennelly said.

"These people," said Fennelly, "made $600,000 or more in this deal. The public lost at least that amount. There were several hundred victims in all parts of the United States."

Philbin, according to Fennelly, through his purchases and through the operation of the McNeel service, pushed Atlas stock from $6 to $34.50, the high having been on Dec. 16, 1933. In the following two days the stock dropped to $10.50. Today the stock was quoted at $6 asked and $4.37½ bid.

Philbin, he said, has been able to maneuver into posts of directors such men as Kermit Roosevelt, Goodhue Livingston, Frank Tichenor and George Woodruff of Chicago, none of whom had knowledge of the manipulations.

Coal Freight Differential in Chicago Is Abolished

The Illinois Commerce commission yesterday entered an order requiring the Chicago and North Western railroad to discontinue charging 10 cents a ton more for coal shipments to its stations north of Irving Park boulevard, than for shipments to stations south of that line. It was estimated by George H. Shafer, rate expert for the commission, that $40,000 annually will be saved to companies doing business in the north territory of the city.

AVIATION CORP. BLAMES U. S. FOR LOSSES IN 1934

Refers to Canceled Mail Contracts.

Blame for the difficulties of the Aviation corporation, which lost more than two million dollars last year, as compared with a profit exceeding a million dollars in 1933, was placed in the lap of the federal administration by the company's annual report, issued yesterday by L. B. Manning, president.

"Results of the year's operation tell their own story of the losses which have been placed on this company following the government's cancelation of air mail contracts and the resulting demoralization of the aviation industry in which much of the corporation's capital has been invested," the report said.

Reprints Tribune Editorial.

The report which reprints an editorial that appeared in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE last March 9, criticizing the administration for its attitude toward the aviation industry, urges stockholders to read and give careful consideration to the newspaper's views.

"Aviation corporation," Manning said, "helped pioneer the transport of air mail and was one of the first to carry passengers in any volume. For five years we subsidized this service for the benefit of the postoffice department and users of air mail. Our operations have been economical and efficient while at the same time progressive and designed to keep pace with the continued developments and improvements in the industry.

Spent to Improve Service.

"Capital and resources have been devoted to upbuilding and improving service, motivated by the policy that such efforts, even if temporarily unprofitable, should be rewarded ultimately by increased government and public acceptance.

"Notwithstanding these efforts the air mail act made it necessary for all officers and directors of the corporation to resign all official connections with airmail lines. Officers and directors were accused of no wrongdoing. They had no part in the alleged conspiracy or collusion which brought about cancelation of all old air mail contracts. Their ineligibility to serve as officers and directors arises solely because they were selected by you to manage this company's affairs."

Loss Is $2,199,724.

Consolidated net loss of the company and subsidiaries last year amounted to $2,199,724. In 1933 profit was $1,293,550. Current assets were carried in the balance sheet at $7,926,294, of which $5,914,975 was in cash and $678,181 in government and municipal bonds. Current liabilities were $2,136,450. At the close of 1933 current assets were $11,388,694 and current liabilities $353,784.

Operating companies—American Airlines, Inc., and Canadian Colonial Airlines, Inc.—the report says, were divorced from the parent company Dec. 31 last. Plans for ultimate distribution of the securities of these operating companies to stockholders of Aviation corporation will be submitted to shareholders for approval at the annual meeting April 16.

North Western Road Gives 25,000 Ton Order for Rails

An order for 25,000 tons of steel rails was placed by the Chicago and North Western railway yesterday with the Illinois Steel company and the Inland Steel company. Orders for the necessary tonnage of fittings were also placed with the Illinois Steel company, Inland Steel company, Republic Steel company, Jones & Laughlin, Sellers Manufacturing company, etc.

RAIL WAGE, COST RISE OUTSTRIPS REVENUE GAINS

New York, March 25.—[Special.]—Increases in wages and costs continued to outstrip the increases in revenues reported by the railroads for February, with the result that the first 14 companies to report showed a decline of more than $300,000 in net operating income despite an increase of $1,600,000 in gross.

These companies had an aggregate net operating income of $7,741,000 against $8,047,000 in February, 1934, a decrease of 3.8 per cent. In January these lines had a net operating income of about $6,929,000 against $7,999,000 in January, 1934, a decline of 13.4 per cent.

Net operating incomes for February were reported yesterday as follows: Lehigh Valley, $432,607, against $644,325 a year ago; Wabash, $396,666, against $373,132; St. Louis-San Francisco a deficit of $122,923, against net operating income of $242,024; Ann Arbor $35,884, against $14,929, and the Western Pacific a deficit of $79,985, against a loss of $6,665.

The North Western reported last week's freight totaled 22,227 cars, against 22,760 and 23,951 in the preceding week and a year ago, respectively. Freight hauled on the Santa Fe lines amounted to 22,083 cars, against 22,368 and 22,975; on the Milwaukee 24,370, against 23,831 and 23,068, and on the Baltimore and Ohio 44,041, against 42,488 and 43,949.

FARM WORKERS PREFER RELIEF, SHORTAGE FELT

Minneapolis, Minn., March 25.—(AP)—A shortage of farm workers this spring is reported today for the first time in several years by public and private employment agencies of the Twin Cities.

Many single men, who formerly sought farm planting jobs, now prefer public relief work to farm work that pays $20 to $25 a month, plus board, room, and laundry, agency officials said.

The Minnesota State Free Employment service reported it has more farm jobs than men to fill them. Private labor agencies in Minneapolis reported that the daily average of applications about balances with the farm jobs available, although there has been difficulty at times in supplying competent men.

RAILROADS PULL STOCKS LOWER IN LIGHT TRADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 25.—With the rail section of the list unable to enlist support until losses ranging from fractions to more than two points had been registered, the stock market today began a new week in discouraging fashion. Equities were extremely sensitive to light offerings and the market fell back into the reactionary rut that had characterized trading during much of the current month. Although mild rallies occurred during the afternoon a majority of issues were lower at the close, turnover amounting to only 463,574 shares.

Advices from Washington, as usual, provided the speculative fraternity with its main topic of discussion with neither the bulls nor the bears able to work up much enthusiasm over the action of both houses of congress.

Business News Not So Good.

Turning to the business situation traders found the recession which began a month ago was continuing. Estimates of steel operations showed another decline and crop reports from the west were poorer than last week.

Disquieting reports about developments in the carrier section disturbed the market almost from the beginning. The western roads, assailed by dust storms and drouth, were the hardest hit. Sharp breaks occurred in Union Pacific and Atchison, the former at one time selling 3 points off. Some disappointment was caused by the failure of the I. C. C. to hand down a decision in the freight rate case, and further report of an impending reorganization of the St. Paul was an unsettling factor.

Hudson Motors Breaks.

Hudson was conspicuously weak among the motor shares, dropping more than a point. General Motors, Mack, and Auburn sank fractionally. The annual report of General Motors in which President Sloan pointed out the margin of profit is becoming "slippery" and wages are at a high record level was of no help to the group.

The utility division was comparatively steady. Tobacco shares remained in their slump while the oils were a shade lower.

United States Steel and Bethlehem were sluggish. Industrial Rayon was a weak spot, shading Saturday's final quotations by more than a point.

PROFITS HIGHER FOR ALUMINUM GOODS COMPANY

The Aluminum Goods Manufacturing company had a net profit of $551,165 after all charges for the year ended Dec. 31, 1934, according to the annual report released yesterday by A. J. Vits, president. This compares with net of $352,735 in 1933. Taxes for the year were $339,762, or approximately 38 per cent of net income before taxes, Mr. Vit said in his report to stockholders.

Net sales increased from $6,557,457 in 1933 to $7,467,127 in 1934, and operating costs rose from $6,324,399 to $6,840,736. Current assets at the end of 1934 amounted to $8,586,072, including cash of $1,550,930, against current liabilities of $647,017. This compared with current assets of $7,793,683, cash of $894,647, and current liabilities of $546,577 at the end of the preceding year.

The dividend record of the company has been unbroken for a quarter of a century. In 1934 a total of 40 cents a share was paid and a 10 cent quarterly dividend has been declared payable April 1 of this year.

YOUNGSTOWN SHEET AND TUBE REDUCES LOSS

Cleveland, O., March 25.—(AP)—The Youngstown Sheet and Tube company substantially increased its sales and decreased its losses in 1934, the company's annual report disclosed today.

Sales in 1934 amounted to $63,138,122, as compared with $49,436,510 in 1933. Its loss was $2,665,119, as compared with $8,342,901.

Net profits from operations before providing for depletion of minerals and depreciation of plants, interest, and other charges rose from $4,634,686 in 1933 to $7,339,048 in 1934. The company spent $10,763,898 for plant improvements, the report stated.

W. F. Hall Printing Co. Reports Loss for 1934

ALLIS-CHALMERS 1934 BUSINESS BEST SINCE 1931

Year's Loss About 1-3 That Recorded in '33.

With an increase in bookings, billings, and unfilled orders at the end of the year the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company yesterday reported a loss of $1,039,406 on operations during 1934. This was just slightly more than one-third of the loss of $2,893,905 incurred in 1933. The year's business was the best since 1931, when a profit of $1,256,431 was earned. The company's lowest level was established in 1932.

"The capital goods industries have not shown the improvement reported in many other lines," said Chairman Otto H. Falk and President Max W. Babb in the annual report. "The most promising outlook for increased volume appears to be in the agricultural and industrial branches of the tractor division. With such increase and a reasonable expansion in the other departments, better results should be shown in 1935."

Bookings Rise Sharply.

Bookings of the Milwaukee machinery concern last year amounted to $21,875,009, compared with $14,270,941 in 1933. This was almost up to the $22,687,049 figure of 1931. Billings rose to $20,287,148 from $13,286,768 in 1933, and compared with the $27,800,639 in 1931.

Costs bounded to $21,390,138 from the $16,156,929 of 1933, producing an operating loss of $1,102,990, compared with $2,870,161. Other income amounted to $921,139, against $805,967 the preceding year. Debenture interest and miscellaneous expense totaled $857,555, compared with $829,712. Earned surplus was cut from $8,830,731 to $7,791,325.

Unfilled Orders Higher.

Unfilled orders last Dec. 31 aggregated $8,013,859, compared with $6,425,998 at the end of 1933, and were the largest since the $13,002,924 total at the close of 1930.

Current assets totaled $27,024,559, against current liabilities of $3,974,836. At the end of 1933 the figures were $25,862,867 and $2,879,860. Inventories, reflecting rising bookings, rose from $10,218,248 to $13,303,715.

FORD SUBMITS FEW BIDS FOR FEDERAL ORDERS

Washington, D. C., March 25.—(AP)—The old difficulties between the administration and Henry Ford over the latter's declination to sign the NRA automobile code tonight appeared to be only partially clarified, despite recent overtures to the manufacturer.

Although there was a chance to sell to government agencies nearly 10,000 motor trucks and cars, Ford agents recently have bid on only a few of the contracts. The proffers submitted in many instances were higher than those put forward by their competitors. The result, a check up showed today, eliminated the Ford company from all except a few small contracts.

Because of failure to certify compliance with the automobile code, Ford was shut out of bidding on government motor vehicles for months. The company was unofficially informed recently that renewed bids by the concern might result in new interpretation of regulations which would allow awards to the company.

The war department has been actively interested in getting Ford to bid on its advertisements for more than 4,000 cars and trucks to be purchased for CCC camps, but Ford agents failed to submit bids for 3,950 trucks, opened today.

SET NEW HEARING ON MIDDLE WEST PLAN NEXT MONTH

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday set April 22 for further hearings on the plan for reorganization of Middle West Utilities, former key holding company of the Insull régime. He will hear objections to allowance of claims of secured creditors on Thursday.

At the April hearing not only the question of claims should be disposed of but Judge Wilkerson expects to have a complete report from Walter A. Shaw, former member of the Illinois public service commission [now Illinois commerce commission], whom he appointed special adviser to the court. Mr. Shaw will treat the disputed question of valuations for reorganization purposes, since the petitioning creditors are depending on the company's being declared insolvent to complete the proposed plan.

OUTPUT OF STEEL THIS WEEK WILL RECEDE TO 46.1%

New York, March 25.—(AP)—Steel operating schedules for the current week today were estimated by the American Iron and Steel institute at 46.1 per cent of capacity, a decline of 0.7 of a percentage point from the previous week.

The current rate, as estimated, is nearly 2 points below the average of a month ago, but is about ½ point above the ratio for the corresponding period last year.

Prices filed with the institute show cold finished bars of carbon steel have been reduced $3 a ton at Cleveland. The new base price, effective April 1, is $2 per hundred pounds. The institute gave no explanation for the reduction, but is was said not to be indicative of any general lowering of steel price schedules for the second quarter.

Leonard Refrigerator Sales Reported Far Above 1934
